Britain Due To Lead In Disarmament

Discussions On Unified Arms Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain is due to take the lead in seeking Western agreement, starting this week, on a global arms control plan aimed at total nuclear disarmament under an international policing system.

Experts of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy will begin discussions at the State Department Monday on the development, if possible, of a unified arms policy for negotiation with the Soviet Union.

The deadline is March 15. On that date the five Western nations are due to meet at Geneva with the Soviet Union and four other Communist countries for a new round of talks on disarmament. The last such talks broke down in late 1957 after becoming hopelessly deadlocked over the inspection issue.

ISSUE

This issue could also be the breaking point for the new talks since there is no real evidence yet that the Soviet Union is prepared to accept the far reaching military checks the Western powers have demanded as necessary to guarantee no cheating under a disarmament program.

Despite the essentially pessimistic outlook, however, Western leaders feel they must go on negotiating primarily for two reasons. First, there is always a chance agreement might be reached which would save the world from the danger of atomic devastation. Second, it is essential not to let the Soviet Union defeat the West in the peace propaganda struggle.

Diplomats say both these considerations will influence the policy-making talks which begin Monday They mean that the Western powers will try to fashion a disarmament program which they could have faith in if the Soviets would

Crippled Girl Bludgeoned By Neighbor

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP) — The bludgeoned body of a polio-crippled girl was found Saturday on the dirt floor of a chicken house, and an hour later her high school classmate admitted: 'Yes I hit her with a hammer!"

The victim was 14-year-old Cliffta Kimble, a sophomore at Sheridan High School.

Sheriff Willard Marshall said Tom Blackledge, 15, orally admitted he beat the girl to death after he drove her to the abandoned ranch Friday afternoon.

NO CHARGES

No charges were filed immediately. The slender, dark-haired boy, considered a good student, was held in jail here.

Cliffta and the boy lived only three blocks apart and were friends and classmates. Their parents attend the same church and often visit socially. Cliffta's father, Clifford, is a salesman for a flour mill. Ralph Blackledge is an insurance salesman.

The sheriff said Blackledge gave no reason for the slaying.

"I did it and I'm sorry," he quoted him as saying. "I just don't know why."

The sheriff said Cliffta left home Friday afternoon to visit the library, then returned and left a note for her parents, who were

Meeting

A sizeable attendance was present last night when the local Salvation Army held its annual Advisory Board meeting in Hotel Frances and listened to an address delivered by Col. P. L. DeBevoise prominently affiliated with the Salvation Army for many years.

His past career includes a period as State Commander for the Salvation Army in Iowa and later in three other states similar periods of service. Today he ranks as retired national secretary of the Salvation Army.

Incoming officials for the local Salvation Army were inducted into office here at the Saturday night's annual banquet.

Showdown On Algeria Is Foreseen

Future Policy Basic Issue Of Discord

ALGIERS (AP)—Right-wing French settlers of Algeria moved Saturday night toward a violent showdown with President Charles de Gaulle.

The basic issue is: Whose policy will prevail in the future of rebellion-driven Algeria?

HERO

Massu, a hero to the country's million Europeans, had talked too openly of opposition to De Gaulle's policies of eventual self-determination for Algeria. The Europeans want Algeria to remain part of France.

When news of Massu's removal reached the city, tension rose swiftly. Authorities promptly served notice that open revolt would be met by naked force.

Crack riot police patrolled among the crowds that jammed sidewalks. The crowds were curiously silent. Student groups gathered and muttered of action later.

The tough riot police stood duty inside the big French administrative headquarters overlooking Algiers. This building was a mob target in the 1958 civilian-military uprising that unseated the government in Paris and brought De Gaulle back to power.

Fearful merchants rolled down steel shutters and kept closed through the day. A general strike call was issued earlier by armed Territorials (National Guardsmen. As tension heightened it was hard to sap whether riot-wise businessmen were joining the strike or protecting property.

Trucks rumbled through downtown Algiers,carrying riot squads to their posts.

To avoid a clash with the Army, all regular soldiers off duty were

Snowy Touch Is Reported In District

Ice-topped ponds and traces of melting snowflakes under an overcast sky highlighted the weather picture in Northeast Louisiana yesterday. A survey of key area cities showed a day-long freeze and, in some spots, flurries of light snow.

The snow, which melted as soon as it touched the ground, fell around Winnsboro and Winnfield. Other cities reported conditions favorable for snow, but no actual precipitation.

CONSISTENT

Temperatures were consistent throughout the area, hovering around the 30 degree point all day.

No rain or sleet was reported in the area, although skies were cloudy at all points.

Freezing winds were reported at Delhi, Lake Providence, and Tallulah.

The Shreveport Weather Bureau's Monroe area forecast shows cloudy skies lingering through Monday night, with occasional rain Monday. Temperatures will continue cold, with the high today around 46. Winds will be easterly at 8 to 18 miles an hour.

High Twin Cities temperature yesterday was 31, low was 24.

Across the state, skies will be cloudy through tonight, with some rain today in southwest

Rescue Unit Pulled Out Of Coal Mine

Underground Conditions Deteriorating

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP) — Rescue teams Saturday night were pulled out of a mine where 440 coal miners have been trapped for two days by a massive rock slide.

Mine officials said the action was taken because conditions underground had deteriorated. This was not explained immediately but workers previously had reported new rock slides, gas pockets and rising water levels in the tunnels were threatening rescue operations.

A statement by the chairman and board of directors of the Clydesdale colliery said the rescue teams will "remain at the mine property pending results of further underground inspection."

DRILL

A high-speed drill was being rushed here to sink an air and food shaft to the entombed miners.

Some air already was getting through to the 434 African and six white miners, raising hope for survival at least for any who escaped the crush of rocks 600 feet down in the Clydesdale north colliery.

But rescue workers trying to bypass the rockfall to reach the entombed miners said they have been working in water chest deep. They expressed fear the water may be seeping to the level where the men are trapped.

Not since the roof caved in Thursday has there been communication with the entombed men. The rock fall snapped a communications pipe. However, the main fan was put back into operation Friday and made a marked improvement in the mine's ventilation, the mine directors said.

Since it may take days to reach the trapped miners, mine officials

Plane Makes Safe Landing After Circling

PITTSBURCH (AP)—An Eastern Airlines four-engine plane landed safely at Greater Pittsburgh Airport yesterday after 2½ tension filled hours of circuling with apparent landing gear trouble.

Passengers aloft and anxious relatives and friends on the ground prayed while disaster preparations were made. A long runway covered with an inch of snow was sprayed with foam.

"If anyone ever tells you there's such a thing as an atheist, don't believe him," said John Astrov, 27-year-old Weirton, W.Va. resident who was one of the first passengers to leave the ship.

TENSION

There were 27 passengers and 5 crew members aboard when the tension began a few minutes before a scheduled landing in the darkness about 6 a.m. The plane landed at 8:35 in clear weather.

Capt. Thomas E. Davis of Miami, the pilot, was praised by the passengers after the landing.

Integration Comes Again To Virginia

FLOYD, Va. (UPI) — Integration comes to mountainous southwest Virginia Monday when 13 Negroes start classes in two white high schools of rural Floyd County.

There was nothing Saturday to suggest the racial mixing ordered by a federal district court last September would be any less orderly and peaceful than that carried out last year by five other Virginia cities counties and towns.

School officials were reluctant to discuss any special preparations that might have been made for the occasion.

NINE

Principal W. T. Harry of Floyd High School here where nine of the students will attend classes, said the day would be "business as usual."

Harold Anderson, principal of Check High School which will receive the other four Negroes, said classes would follow their "regular routine." Check is 14 miles north of this county seat town.

Both principals said no special assemblies or briefings had been planned at their schools.

Capt. J. W. Burrow, who commands the state police in this area, said his officers would cooperate with local authorities in maintaining law and order but added that "the local people don't anticipate any problem as far as I can see."

Burrow said the number of officers that might be sent to a locality would "depend entirely upon the circumstances."

Sparsley-populated Floyd, which lies astride the Alleghany Mountains 40 miles southwest of Roanoke, has three white high schools but none for Negroes. It has been sending its Negro high school students to Christiansburg Institute in neighboring Montgomery County.

IN MIDST OF SCANDAL

Chicago Police Official Quits

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's biggest police scandal Saturday brought resignation of the police commissioner as Illinois' top Republican and Democratic officials thundered angrily at each other.

Resignation of 58-year-old Timothy J. O'Connor from his $22,500 - a - year post to return to captain's rank was announced at a news conference by Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley.

One half hour earlier, at another news conference, Republican Gov. William J. Stratton demanded that Daley "clean up his city—or else." The governor suggested that the mayor resign his post as Cook County chairman of the Democratic party.

CRISIS

The election-year crisis has brought suspension of 15 police officers accused of burglary, bribery, robbery or pilfering.

The scandal boiled up shortly after selection of state and Cook County candidates for the Democratic April 12 primaries by Daley's organization.

A grand jury investigation of the police charges is being guided by Daley's political arch enemy, Republican State's Atty. Benjamin S. Adamowski. It has been ac-

Solons In South Optimistic At Registrar Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Southern senators said Saturday that proposals to use federal personnel to register Negroes in the South will not get through the Senate.

But Sens. Herman E. Talmadge (Ga.) and John J. Sparkman, (Ala.) in a joint radio interview, weren't as optimistic about other civil rights legislation.

"It's my judgment," Talmadge said, "That if this registrar bill comes before the floor of the Senate . . . the people throughout America will rise up and strike that thing down."

HEARINGS

The Senate Rules Committee started hearings on several federal registrar proposals this week. The committee said it will end hearings Feb. 5, giving the committee staff ample time to have a report ready by Feb. 15.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex.) has scheduled debate on civil rights for Feb.15.

Neither Talmadge nor Sparkman would say that the South has enough strength to defeat some of Vegetables Damaged By Weather

MIAMI (UPI) — A crop-killing cold wave tightened its frosty grip on Florida Saturday and threatened new woes for vegetable growers, migrant crop workers and shivering tourists.

Freezing temperatures Saturday night may endanger the state's multi - million dollar citrus crop which had been spared serious damage so far.

The mercury fell below freezing and scattered frost blanketed three quarters of the state. Thousands of acres of squash, pole beans and tomatoes already were damaged by the icy weather and more than 5,000 migrant laborers in South Florida were laid off.

WORKERS

Most of the workers, cut off from income, were quartered in unheated migrant camps.

Even tourist-packed Miami shivered in 40 degree weather. A few miles south, at Homestead, the mercury plunged to 29 early Saturday.

Winter vegetable growers of South Florida apparently were hardest hit by the cold which crept into the state Monday, spread to all corners and showed little indication of moving out soon.

A slight warmup was expected Sunday afternoon but the overall forecast was continued cold and clear.

Dade County agricultural agent John Campbell said it probably would be a week or more before a true estimate could be made of damage to tender vegetable crops. However, he ventured a cautious 40 to 50 per cent damage estimate Friday, which alone could amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

If the cold continues, the nation's housewives may feel the effects in higher vegetable prices at the market.

Employment service officials said there was little likelihood of diverting idle workers, estimated as many as 5,000, who have lost

Nixon Outlines Company Cost On Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday the steel settlement cost the companies less than it would have if the dispute had been turned over to the election year Congress.

If that had happened, Nixon said, Congress might have provided in all major labor disputes for some form of compulsory arbitration which the vice president said would have led eventually to government wage and price fixing.

Nixon outlined the part he and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell played in getting industry and the union to agree in a letter to Alexander F. Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse, N.Y., Herald-Journal. Jones had written Nixon criticizing terms of the settlement.

CONVINCED

Nixon said that only after they became convinced there was no chance for a settlement otherwise did he and Mitchell enter the negotiations.

"At the beginning of these negotiations, the possibilities of settlement seemed hopeless," Nixon wrote.

He recalled the companies were offering a 21 cent an hour wage-benefit package and were asking for more leeway in fixing work

Solon Raps Gates About Reds' Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) Saturday charged that Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. has adopted a dangerous new method for estimating Soviet missile and military might.

"Any rosy picture based upon second - guessing Nikita Khrushchev can quickly turn blood-red," the Senate Democratic leader said in a statement blistering recent testimony by Gates and other administration spokesmen supporting the new defense blueprints and budget.

Gates surprised some members of Congress this week by testifying "there is no deterrent gap" in over-all U.S. military might compared with that of the Soviet Union.

ESTIMATES

He said that prior U.S. intelligence estimates of Soviet missiles and military power had been revised downward by basing them on "what the Soviet Union probably would do, as opposed to former estimates which were made on what they were capable of doing."

Fifth Test Blast Set Off In Mine

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Atomic Energy Commission touched off its fifth non-nuclear blast in its Winnfield testing series in the early moments of Saturday morning. Time of the blast was a second or two after midnight.

The shot consisted of 200 pounds of chemical high explosives suspended at the center of an underground spherical chamber inside old workings of the Carey Salt Mine.

It was the largest of the test series since the first was fired Dec. 17.

The shot was delayed 24 hours because instrument men had difficulty making necessary technical setups. There was no mention of when the next shot is scheduled. However, the AEC has said it intends to shoot ten blasts and reach a maximum five-ton shot.

There was no ground vibrations detectable manually. The salt company ordinarily uses between 300 and 400 pounds of similar explosives for mining purposes.

TO CANCER FIGHT

Laboratory Battle Could Render Key

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A battle between the forces of life and death—on a scale almost too small to comprehend — is underway in laboratories at the California Institute of Technology.

Man is only a spectator at this battle, but the outcome could be a matter of life or death to millions of men and women all over the world today and to generations yet unborn.

Paying for man's ringside seat is a just-announced $100,000 grant from the American Cancer Society, which wants to know more about the tiny victim and even tinier aggressor in this struggle.

The victim is the building block of living tissue—the cell. The aggressor is the smallest known unit of life—the virus, one ten-millionth the size of a cell.

If scientists can learn how a single virus changes a normal cell into a cancer cell they may be able to develop a life-saving vaccine.

The new study at Caltech is headed by Dr. Renato Dulbecco, whose techniques of isolating and identifying viruses were used in the development of the Salk vaccine against polio.

Several types of cancer-causing viruses will be used in the investigation, scheduled to last five years.

One of the first things Dulbecco and his associates will try to learn is where the virus goes after it has squeezed in through the cell

State Motion Set On Voters

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion Saturday prepared a Louisiana motion opposing the government's move to reinstate 1,377 Washington Parish voters before the April 19 general election.

Gremillion said he has not received a copy of the Justice Department's motion before the U.S. Supreme Court. But he said he expects to have the Louisiana motion ready to file by Wednesday.

Gremillion contends the point at issue is not the voting qualifications of anyone. He says rather it is whether the federal government has authority to run Louisiana's state election machinery.

The federal action in Washington Parish resulted from a civil rights suit which claimed Negroes were removed from the voting rolls because of their race.

Train Mishap Injures One

MILSTEAD, Ala. (UPI) — A broken rail sent three cars of the Atlanta - West Point passenger train Piedmont Limited off the tracks Saturday and they toppled over. But there was only one injury reported among 70 persons aboard.

The cars, at the end of the train, bumped off the track bed and almost gently turned over on their side in a frozen marsh just west of Milstead station.

The only injury reported was to Mrs. W. E. Gardner, 65, of Danville, Va., who was admitted to Jackson's Hospital at Montgomery for treatment of a knee injury. She was reported in satisfactory condition.

IN BATHYSCAPH

2 Navy Scientists Drop Into Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Navy scientists descended in a bathyscaph Saturday into the deepest hole in the ocean, more than seven miles down in the chill and dark bottom of the Pacific off the island of Guam.

The Navy said that Jacques Piccard, of the famous Swiss scientific family, and Navy Lt. Don Walsh had given their first report of what it was like to sit for half an hour 37,800 feet down in the Marianas Trench, deeper than any man has gone before.

The Navy relayed to newsmen here the following description, based on an early report from the two men after the bathyscaph Trieste had surfaced 210 miles southwest of Guam shortly after noon.

"It was very cold at the bottom. Both were wet when they came out of the Trieste and their teeth were chattering. (Navy experts said the did not take this to mean the craft leaked).

"They related that they had spent approximately one-half hour on the bottom and could see living and moving objects at 37,800 feet. The bottom was very soft and when they landed they stirred up silt and what they termed 'dust.' The lights were turned on as soon as the bottom was calm but it was a few minutes before they could see anything.

"They started down at 4:22 p.m.

on Jan. 22 (East longitude date) and reached bottom at 9:01 p.m. the same date, staying 30 minutes on the bottom and surfacing at 12:57 a.m. on Jan. 23. This means that they took four hours and 8 minutes to descend, stayed on the bottom 30 minutes approximately, and took three hours and 17 minutes to ascend and surface.

"They reported that they lost voice contact (apparently) with the surface ships) about halfway down but that it was re-established upon hitting bottom and maintained until about halfway up.

"The only food they ate was chocolate bars, one every hour, to keep up their energery.

"Upon arriacing, Lt. Walsh dropped a plastic container with an American flag on the spot of surfacing."

The Navy located the position as 210 miles southwest of Apra Harbor, Guam.

Navy experts here said the men probably got wet while boarding the bathyscaph, or perhaps from condensation within the gondola as it descended into the cold water. In leaving the bathyscaph, the men had to climb up through a shaft which was still dripping from the water that had filled it during the dive.

The Navy said one purpose of the series of deep ocean probes is to gather scientific knowledge of the transmission of man-made sounds. While the Navy did not spell it out, this information is important in the operation of sonar devices to detect enemy submarines.

Submarines use the "thermal layers" of different temperature levels to hide below the surface. A cold layer of water diffuses or entirely blocks sonar beams.

Comparatively little has been known of sound transmission below the comparatively shallow depths of the sea until scientists began descending thousands of feet below the surface.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, sent congratulations to the two men for their "valorous action in descending into the depths of the ocean farther than any other man."

"There is no whale in the world who has been so deep as you have," Burke added.

Burke said the accomplishment by Piccard and Walsh "may well mark the opening of a new age in exploration of the depths of the ocean which can well be as important as exploration in space has been in the past."

put their main reliance for quick relief on the drilling rig ordered from the northern Transvaal.

The rig, with a 13-inch bore, is the fastest drilling machine in South Africa.

Mine officials plan to bore a hole from the surface to the passageway where the men are believed to be trapped. This would improve ventilation and establish communication with the miners.

Five crack rescue squads are trying to work around the mile-wide rockfall through long unused passageways but the progress is slow because of other rockfalls.

Hopes rose Saturday morning with the rescue of 30 pit ponies trapped between the first rockfall that entombed the miners and a second rockfall Friday.

The ponies were in an area where deadly coal gas was believed to be concentrated. Rescuers believe that if the ponies could live in that section then there was hope for the men. Another 45 horses are caught in the same section where the miners were trapped.

Rescuers believe the miners could survive on horse meat and seeping water if necessary.

paredness subcommittees, recalled that last year Gate's predecessor, Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, said the Russians "could have a three-to-one edge within two to three years."

He added: "The missile gap cannot be eliminated by the mere stroke of a pen. If our defense programs are being based — as publicly stated by Secretary Gates on Soviet intentions rather than capabilities, there is real reason for concern.

"We certainly cannot afford to stake the lives and the future of 175 million Americans on the ability of some officials to read Nikita Khrushchev's mind."

"It is difficult to base our planning upon estimates of Soviet capabilities," he said. "Even then we must rely on bits and pieces of information, which can seldom give a completely accurate picture.

"But to go beyond this—from capabilities to intentions—and to rely upon hunches concerning the thoughts that slip Kremlin minds —is incredibly dangerous."

Johnson was out of the city this week of speaking dates when Gates and other defense leaders presented closed-door testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which Johnson is a member.

Gates also received strong criticism today from Rep. Rank Kowalski (D-Conn). Kowalski, a former West Pointer and former Army colonel, said, "Honeyed words by Secretary Gates and reassuring generalities by other administration leaders will not end the missile gap which now threatens our national survival."

the other civil rights proposals.

"The business of being in favor of civil rights as such has become extremely popular among both parties in our country," Talmadge said. "And sometimes we of the Southern states find ourselves virtually with our back to the wall.

"And, as you know," Talmadge continued, "We have only about 13 votes that we can absolutely count on to oppose any civil rights bill of any kind or character."

Both Talmadge and Sparkman agreed that "we have been making headway" in getting support of the South's position from persons in other sections of the country.

"But I'm afraid that that still hasn't reached the halls of congress to a great degree," Talmadge said.

gone briefly. The note told them that she was going to the Blackledge home. Unknown to her, young Blackledge's parents were in Casper, Wyo.

The sheriff said Tom Blackledge told him he offered to drive the girl home in his car.

Instead of driving to the Kimble home, however, he drove to the remote ranch site three miles west of town, the sheriff said.

Marshall said the boy told him he somehow lured the girl out of the car. "Then I hit her with a hammer," he quoted him.

Young Blackledge told the sheriff he left Cliffta's body where it fell in the middle of the yard, then drove home about 5:30 p.m.

The sheriff said Blackledge returned to the abandoned ranch at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and dragged the girl's body into the chicken house.

Marshall said there was no evidence that the girl had been sexually molested. He said the girl's blouse was pulled up around her shoulders, but that this could have resulted from Blackledge's pulling her by the feet into the chicken house.

Cliffta was wearing blue jeans and a blouse. Her broken glasses were found at the spot where Blackledge said she fell.

The Blackledges returned home from Casper Saturday morning.

The girl's body was found by two volunteer searchers Saturday afternoon. Sheriff Marshall, told of the girl's note saying she intended to go to the Blackledge home, went there and arrested young Blackledge.

He said the boy broke into tears and admitted beating the girl to death.

An inquest was scheduled for Monday or Tuesday.

A semi-censorship was invoked by civilian authorities. They cautioned newsmen not to publish inflammatory appeals for action by rightwing extremeists.

After the tough paratroop general came out of the meeting there was speculation he had been told his next assignment would be far from Algeria: West Africa or Madascar. Massu himself would not comment.

De Gaulle has not retreated an inch in his policy for self determination in Algeria. He has said he stated it without ambiguity and means to hold to it.

Britain Due To Lead In Disarmament

accept it and at the same time to map out long range goals for disarmament which will offset Soviet claims.

Britain is expected to take the lead in this effort because Britain apparently has the most fully developed plan for achieving both purposes. British ideas have been circulated among the leading Western governments and U.S. officials say privately they are strongly impressed with the breadth of the British approach.

It is expected, therefore, that U.S. negotiators will support at least the general lines of the British approach—especially since officials report that this country's own disarmament policy review is still under way and final decisions on the U.S. negotiating position are still to be made.

The British plan, which was sketched in outline to the United Nations by Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd last fall, calls for moving by "balanced stages" toward total abolition of nuclear weapons and all other weapons of mass destruction plus the reduction of conventional weapons and armed forces to a point where no nation would have the resources or power to launch an aggressive war.

The British plan would start with an agreement on prohibiting nuclear weapons tests—the problem now under negotiation with the Russians at Geneva — and would go through step by step development of an international inspection system and progressive arms reduction until there was set up an international control organization with the full capability for policing world peace.

In the intervening steps, each accompanied by increasing control arrangements, the manufacture of nuclear weapons should be halted and eventually existing weapons would be destroyed. Conventional weapons would be scrapped by turning them over to an international pool and military forces would be reduced in size to the level necessary for each country's internal security.

Florida Citrus Mutual said winds kept the cold from settling in the huge citrus belt, and fruit escaped "any significant damage."

However, Lakeland forecaster Warren Johnson said, "The real danger as far as citrus crop is concerned will come tonight."

The Miami Weather Bureau warned temperatures early Sunday will be "at least" as low as Saturday, with frost again likely over all except the southeast coast and keys.

Temperatures hit as low as 20 degrees at Deland in North Florida Saturday, other low readings were Jacksonville 25, Orlando 31, Tampa 33, Clewiston 32, and Tallahassee 25.

Miami's 41 matched a cold record set here on Jan. 23, 1942, but was warmer than a record-breaking 34 degrees recorded Friday morning.

South Florida farmers fought the cold with smudge pots, bonfires, and streams of water sprayed over fields.

The cold also touched off a rash of fires and power failures.

companied by a drumfire of public statements by Daley, Adamowski and other officials.

Stratton's angry attack apparently stemmed from a remark by Daley Friday when asked for comment on the governor's suggestion that Chicago's police administration be drastically revamped.

The mayor was reported to have said, "ask the governor about the Hodge scandal," a reference to the theft of more than 1½ million dollars in state funds by former State Auditor Orville Hodge, a Republican, uncovered in 1956 during Stratton's first term of office.

Stratton told newsmen Saturday "I am outraged and I am astounded." Stratton, who has claimed credit for able handling of the Hodge matter, said Hodge was an elected official, was sentenced to prison for 15 years, and that all money stolen from the state was recovered.

He said Daley was playing politics in the present scandal, and refusing to cooperate with Adamowski's investigation.

"He is going to cooperate—or else—in this situation," Stratton said. "There is no half-way measure that will be tolerated as far as the cleanup of the police department is concerned."

Asked what he meant by "or else," Stratton said:

"Under the law, there are a number of things I can do, but first I'm calling on him (Daley) to take drastic action in this police scandal.

"I don't want Delay laughing at the state's attorney or slandering the governor," Stratton said. "I want this thing cleaned up."

Informed of the governor's remarks, Daley flushed red and stood up behind his desk. "Cheap politics!" he exclaimed.

Daley announced that O'Connor, who drops in salary grade from $22,500 to $8.832 a year as a captain after 10 years as top police official, will be succeeded on an acting basis by Kyran Phelan, deputy police commissioner.

The new police commissioner, Daley said, will be selected by a citizens' committee headed by Dean O. W. Wilson of the criminology division, University of California.

wall. Does it remain in the fluid part of the cell, or does it find its way to the heart of the cell, the nucleus?

In the nucleus are the cell's genes, which control the inheritance of the cell's descendants. If the virus goes to work on the genes, it could change the pattern of reproduction, causing the growth of "wild" cells typical of cancer growth. If the virus goes to work outside the nucleus, it could use the cell's own nutrients to reproduce itself.

Or the virus might be a poison to the cell. Or it could be an agent for creating other material that alters or damages the cell.

The finest microscopes, reaching down to the basic materials of life, will be used in the study.

BUSINESS NEWS

Money Drawing Big Attention

NEW YORK (AP)—Are prices going up? Will credit be easier or harder to get? These questions—as close to the consumer as his pocketbook—drew major attention last week.

The steel industry appeared to hold the key to the price situation.

Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel Corp. hinted that steel prices may be boosted before the year ends but that an increase might not be as large as those which followed labor setlements in the past.

Producers of industrial and consumer goods say they believe the current high level of prices may remain about the same in the first half of this year but that a steel price increase would bring on boosts by many industries.

There is talk in the furniture industry about the likelihood of higher prices. Auto makers say they will have to wait and see what steel does.

However, with competition for business unusually keen, some business men say they might even cut prices in the next few months.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, forecast a gradual rise in the government's consumer price index through 1960.

He reported the index declined one-tenth of one per cent in December to 125½ per cent of the 1947-49 average but that prices averaged 1½ per cent above December 1958. The December drop was the first decline in four months.

There were demands for both tighter and easier credit.

Dr. Gordon W. McKinley, director of economic and investment research for Prudential Insurance Co., recommended a federal law putting a maximum of 24 months on consumer credit.

He told a national credit conference that such a regulation wouldn't reduce the total amount of credit extended over a period of years but would moderate the surges and cutbacks in credit which have occurred in recent years.

The new president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, Martin L. Bartling Jr., said that easier credit is needed or there will be a drop of between 200,000 and 250,000 in the number of new homes started this year.

The automobile industry built its two millionth car of the 1960 model year. It reached the mark a week earlier than last year. The week's production was around 178,000 cars, a four-year high.

UNPLEDGED

Demos Vote On Delegates

MONTGOMERY (UPI) — The State Democratic Executive Committee voted overwhelmingly Saturday to send 56 unpledged and uninstructed delegates to the National Democratic Convention at Los Angeles.

The vote means the delegates, each armed with one-half vote, can bolt the party if a national nominee is selected who is not sympathetic to the south.

The resolution, adopted on a voice vote, was a significant victory, for the anti-loyalists who won control of the committee in 1958 but lost the chairmanship by one vote.

The committee defeated 44-24 a resolution by loyalist Howard Haygood of Greenville which would have sent the delegates to the convention pledged to support national candidates until released by the state committee.

Montgomery attorney Frank J. Mizell Jr., spokesman for the anti-loyalist faction, spearheaded the successful fight against Haygood's resolution which is known as the "Virginia Plan."

In a dramatic speech, Mizell said "Democratic unity and victory require that we be given a ticket which all voters—Southern as well as Northern and Eastern—can support with enthusiasm and in good conscience. Southern Democrats are willing to cooperate, but will those Democrats from the West, East and North be equally as willing? Or will they put the shibboleth of integration and minorities above our good will?"

Judge Roy Mayhall of Jasper, former committee chairman and loyalist leader, who said he would not introduce the loyalty oath repealed in 1958 because "I know it would be defeated," said the Virginia Plan should be adopted "because we must have some control, some direction over the delegates to the convention.

"We all feel like our colleagues about segregation," Mizell added, "But we, as Democrats, have the responsibility and obligation to hold some control over our delegates."

As a whole, the committee meeting was characterized by committeeman or national compeace and harmony for the first time since Gov. John Patterson took office a year ago this month.

Photos Given Top Priority At Northeast

Photography claimed top priority Thursday and Friday on the Northeast State campus as individual pictures were made for The Chacahoula, college yearbook.

The two-day schedule included the making of individual photographs of students, administrators faculty and staff by a commercial firm.

In charge of the project were yearbook editors Brenda Gambrell of Ferriday and Jackie Tharpe of Epps, other staff members and students in a journalism class taught by Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, adviser to the publication. Class members were on a regular schedule for this work as a practical experience in journalism.

IMPORTANT

Caps and gowns were important in photographing students who plan to complete requirements for the bachelor's degree in January and at the end of the spring and summer terms of the 1959-60 school year.

Two poses were made of each person photographed to permit a choice for the yearbook.

The Chacahoula staff will include individual pictures of the faculty and staff in the publication, a recognition which is not given in many colleges having the large number of instructors and staff members which Northeast presently employs.

Chacahoula editors plan to have the commercial photographer return to Northeast for a day early in the second semester to take pictures of students who were not registered for the fall term and others unable to have pictures made during the fall semester.

Retired Postal Official Dies At Winnfield

WINNFIELD (Special) —Funeral services are scheduled for 3:00 p.m. Sunday at the Southern Funeral Home Chapel, here, for Sion E. Jenkins, 68 year-old retired local postmaster.

Burial will be in the Garden of Memory Cemetery, in Winnfield for the veteran of 40 years of postal services who died of a heart attack at 12:15 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Jenkins retired from active service in March of 1957, at which time he had held the position of Winnfield postmaster for a period of nine years. Prior to his term as postmaster, he worked as a rural mail carrier here for about 31 years.

He was a member of the Winnfield Lions Club, a former president of that organization, and a member of the First Baptist Church here. He was also instrumental in helping develop several Winnfield city projects.

Surviving are his widow Mrs. Lillie Jenkins, and one son, Dr. Sion Ray Jenkins, both of Winnfield, and three grandchildren.

DON'T SIT THIS ONE OUT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Sitting, not stuffing, makes a teen-ager overweight.

Researchers at the Harvard School of Public Health have found that lean adolescents actually eat more, averaging 4600 calories a day compared with only 3400 for the "fatties." The difference: The lean youngsters use all their food energy, but the heavy ones let their calories settle as body fat.

Homeless Family Is Given Roof

DETROIT (AP) — A homeless family of nine scored a ten-strike at a suburban Livonia bowling alley Friday night when generous bowlers provided them with money and temporary shelter.

The plight of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur March and their seven children, ranging in age from 13 years to 6 months, came to the attention of the bowlers when Evelyn March, a waitress at the bowling alley told of being homeless.

She asked a woman customer if she knew anyone who would rent a house to the family. A few questions were asked and finally Mrs. March told that her husband was jobless.

Three of her children were asleep in the family's old car parked in front of the bowling alley; two slept in a makeshift playpen in the alley's closed nursery. The other two and the father sat behind the snack bar counter while Mrs. March carried on her duties waiting on customers.

An announcement of the family's troubles was made over the loud speaker system at the alleys. Then the hat was passed and some $68 was collected. The Livonia Soroptomist Club arranged motel accommodations for the family except for baby Franky David who was taken to St. Mary's Hospital for observation.

"It all happened so fast," said the mother. "Outside of having such wonderful children, our family has been having some tough luck lately and I only hope that my husband, who is a hard worker, can find a job."

'VERY CONCERNED'

Bonsal Returns From Havana

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal returned from Havana Saturday saying he is very concerned at the deterioration of relations with Cuba.

Bonsal, summoned home for consultations in the wake of new anti-American outbursts by Prime Minister Fidel Castro, said he has had "no intimation at all" of any Cuban desire for conciliation of differences.

"It is hard to tell what his—Castro's — objectives might be in his stepped-up attacks on us," Bonsal remarked.

He said he had no idea of how long he will be in Washington but that he hopes to go back to Cuba.

Bonsal said in response to questions by newsmen that there still is a warm feeling for Americans in Havana.

Asked what Castro's objectives might be in attacking the United States, Bonsal said he would rather let Castro speak for himself on the objectives. Asked what the United States might do, he said he had come to Washington for consultations and presumably to evolve a plan.

In response to other questions Bonsal said he had no theories about why he was not jeered at the airport on leaving Havana Saturday morning, as was Spanish Ambassador Juan Pablo Lojendio on Friday. Lojendio was expelled by the Cuban government after an altercation with Castro in a Havana television studio.

Bonsal said the two cases are quite different.

CAREER SOLDIER

Turkish Officer Visitor In City

"Military study and training in the modern Turkish Army is similar to those phases of military life in other armies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization," commented Major Sahap Yardimoglu of Ankara who visited Derwood Cann in Monroe this week.

The two men became acquainted when Cann, then a U.S. Army major, served as staff advisor to the Turkish 28th Division in the early 1950's. Yardimoglu was aide-de-camp at the time to division commander, General Salih Coskun, who is now assistant Turkish Minister of Defense.

WAR COLLEGE

The major, whose rank was designated by a wreath and gold star on the shoulders, of his olive drab uniform sketched his career briefly. He completed study at the Turkish War College in 1942. Turkey at that time was a neutral nation, he recalled, and graduates were sent for maneuvers and border patrol on the eastern boundary facing Iran and the Russian provinces of Georgia and Armenia. "Even though World War II was in progress, we continued normal procedures as far as possible," the officer recalled.

Following several years duty with the eastern border unit, Yardimoglu became aide-de-camp to General Coskun, a position he held from 1951-56. That year, he became company commander of the elite presidential guard unit in charge of official parades and the posting of guards at the tomb of former head of state Kemal Ataturk, Turkish president of the 1920's and '30's who is credited with modernizing the country.

At the conclusion of this duty, Yardimoglu and two other Turkish officers — Majors Bahri Kunt and Fevzi Yesilada — were selected on the basis of interviews and examinations to attend the Associates' Advanced Infantry Course at Fort Benning, Georgia.

"Here in Monroe with my friend and his family, I am learning first hand about life in the United States," Major Yardimoglu concluded.

Don Jacoby, Neville Band Perform Here

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

A professional soloist joined forces with a local high school band for a concert last night and produced musical results which were definitely out of the amateur category.

Don Jacoby, trumpeter with such "name" organizations as Benny Goodman, Les Brown, Claude Thornhill as well as his own combination, came to town Friday and worked through one rehearsal with Herbert Gathright and the Neville High School band.

Jacoby remarked he had never seen any band, school or professional, so well prepared on the supporting score of the difficult "Essay for Solo Trumpet and Band," by Clifton Williams, which he included as one of his selections.

INTONATION

The trumpeter had a well-rounded tone at the highest and lowest registers of his horn and the whole bagful of technical tricks — rapid tongueing, lip and open valve slurs — were dashed off as a matter of course. Occasionally in a "straight and level" passage, he would lapse into the old dance band idiom of attacking a tone slightly flat then gently pull it up to pitch, but this was not objectionable even to sensitive ears.

Other selections featuring the guest soloist were "Napoli," by Herman Bellstedt, and "Toast to a Trumpeter," by David Bennett. It might be noted the last mentioned number was brought along by Jacoby and was still in the composer's manuscript. The piece was put into shape and performed within a two-day period.

CONFERENCE

In addition to performing with bands throughout the country, Don Jacoby passes on his professional know-how at so called "clinic" sessions following practice periods. This gives ambitious youngsters a chance to put questions to a person in the field of professional endeavor — one phase of education this country has not dwelt upon too thoroughly in the past.

The band itself, following the long football season, was generally in good shape in its new role as a concert organization. Outstanding among the list of marches and suites on the program was the "Folk Song Suite for Military Band," by R. Vaughn Williams.

Traveling and local professionals may take a cue from the results produced by what is accomplished in thorough day-to-day workouts.

Courtney Scores 2 Major Parties

ALEXANDRIA (Special) —Kent Courtney, States Rights candidate for governor, yesterday branded the Republican and the Democratic parties as socialist party "A" and socialist party "B" in an address before the State Rights Central Committee.

He said the issues he will push in his drive for the mansion post will be the right to work increased employment, a position against "federal tyranny" and a complete program of states rights.

"In closing," he remarked that, "the NAACP and the national labor movement pull the strings on Davis."

Courtney declared that the candidacy of himself and Vaughn Phelps of Monroe, for lieutenant governor, will be "hot and intensified."

HAPPY THREESOME — Louisiana Gov.-elect and Mrs. Jimmie H. Davis, left, beam with Congressman Otto E. Passman at a Jimmie Davis appreciation banquet in Jonesboro Thursday night. Congressman Passman, one of Davis' enthusiastic supporters during the recent campaign, introduced Davis at the banquet sponsored by the Jackson Parish Jaycee chapter, which coupled Davis appreciation affair with its annual honors celebration.

'WHIMSICAL CONTRACTOR'

Mighty Mississippi Stealing Much Soil

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The mighty Mississippi river is a "whimsical contractor," constantly altering the southern rim of the continent by quietly stealing a million tons of soil a day from states above the Gulf of Mexico.

The thieving habits of Ol' Man River are bared in a boklet being prepared to mark the 50th anniversary of the New Orleans Parkway and Park Commission.

In an article authored by Wilson S. Callender, commission president, the work last year of the commission in moving 13,000 truckloads of earth was described as an "idle gesture," compared to the "engineering" feats of the Mississippi.

The river's pilfering, according to the article, has been going on for 10,000 to 20,000 years.

"Less than five millenia ago—just a geologist's fortnight—. . . where New Orleans stands today there was no land; and below, where the Greater New Orleans bridge is located today, the waters of the Mexican sea were probably 100 feet deep."

Callender credits the work of the U. S. Army Engineers in deciphering hundreds of inshore and offshore drilling well cores for bringing to light the doings of the Mississippi.

"If you'll listen, our Great Father of Waters is telling us with geiger counters the truth about when and how the rich alluvia on which we in South Louisiana live came into being," he wrote.

Since 3,000 years ago, the article wrote, "the wiggling Mississippi was extending, widening, filling in —creating the Louisiana coastal lands south and west of and under New Orleans—an area approximately 40 miles in inland depth and generally 200 miles wide.

"By far the most enthralling chapter in the saga of the Mississippi, now being decoded from the core-scrolls of hundreds of deep wells, deals with the phenomenon of the Wisconsin glacier, which ended the glacial Ice Age in North America. From 20,000 to 40,000 years ago this great ice mass covered all of Canada and overlay most of the Great Lakes area.

"This 'deep-freeze' absorbed so much water from the oceans that the world's seas fell to a point where south of the site of New Orleans sea level was at least 450 feet below today's level."

Callender wrote that the sea began reaching its present day level about 5,000 years ago, "the rise reaching its peak at close to the time when biblical historians tell us Noah was building his Ark."

While the seas were at their low level, the article reports, the Mississippi "poured off the continent at a terrific rate, especially when the glacier began to melt, and dug a massive canyon 4,000 ft. deep and 20 miles long in the continental shelf, a part of which sill exists unfilled today."

Callender claims in his article that the area around and below New Orleans still is changing.

Eye Trouble May Doom Nike-Zeus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearsightedness may doom the Army's bold Nike-Zeus program for spotting and killing hostile missiles—if the "eye" trouble proves incurable.

Scence apparently has not succeeded in giving Nike-Zeus electronic eyesight good enough to tell a lethal warhead rushing toward the United States from its accompanying "junk."

This impression has been reported by some Congressional sources as top military figures appear before committee after committee in the annual defense briefings. It appears to be a major reason why the Defense Department has reaffirmed its decision to keep the Nike-Zeus program in the research and test stage. The Army, more confident that its brainchild can overcome difficulties, has been pushing for the preliminaries to producton.

U.S. Quits Try To Find Soviet Facts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has abandoned efforts to determine the actual accuracy achieved by the Russian missile hurled 7,762 miles into the Pacific this week, it was learned Saturday.

The Soviets claimed the nose cone of the missile crashed into the Pacific only 1.24 miles from the bulls' eye. Navy and Air Force experts have been attempting to determine whether American information would dispute or verify this.

Officials said Saturday that, despite an effort that involved thousands of men in tracking and observing the Soviet missile, U. S. information is not sufficient to dispute the Russian claim.

These officials said they could make no determination of the point at which the Russians were shooting within the 44,900-square mile area they reserved as a proving ground, 1,100 miles southwest of Honolulu, on Jan. 8.

They said the bulls' eye was not necessarily in the center of the rectangle the Russians described. The rectangle would normally be determined on the basis of "possible error," they said, and the possible error would probably not be the same in any two directions.

In addition, it was learned, American information so far has failed to establish with certainty the exact point at which the Russian nose cone struck the sea.

The officials said that in the absence of conflicting information they are inclined to accept the Russian figure as correct.

They said an accuracy of little more than a mile in a firing of nearly 8,000 miles may seem phenomenal by old standards, but that in modern missilry this kind of pin-pointing over intercontinental distances is to be expected.

President Eisenhower said earlier this month that America's Atlas ICBM had struck within an average of two miles of the bulls' eye in 14 flights over distances of more than 5,000 miles. The officials said the accuracy of the Atlas seems to be steadily improving.

Agents Work To Link Man To Crash

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — FBI agents worked in secret Saturday in their attempt to forge a chain of evidence linking Robert V. Spears to the crash of an airliner in which 42 persons died.

Spears, 64, wanted on abortion charges in Los Angeles and with record of convictions ranging from fraud to armed robbery, appeared undisturbed in his county jail by the implications of the case—how and why his name was on the passenger list of the National Airliner that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16.

In the background was a $100,000 travel insurance policy payable to his wife.

The FBI indicated it had no immediate plans to requestion Spears but was working on other phases of the case.

Spears was questioned at length Friday. Saturday he had breakfast in his cell and went back to bed, attendants reported.

The FBI was holding the bespectacled self-styled doctor on a charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines. The vehicle in question belonged to a friend, William Allen Taylor, who was presumed killed in the air crash.

Los Angeles authorities were waiting in the wings to see what develops in the FBI investigation.

Police Set To Hunt 3 Buried Men

TARRANT, Ala. (AP) — Police will begin punching holes in a highway here Monday on the chance it covers the burying place of a car and three men who vanished four years ago.

"Personally, I think we'll find the car and the remains of the men," said Police Chief Tommy Ward of nearby Fairfield, Ala., whose tip reopened the case.

Ward's theory is that a killer shoved the car with the three bodies into a hole one night while the highway was under construction, then boarded a nearby bulldozer and pushed in enough dirt to cover the wreckage.

The next day, according to Ward's theory, the workmen returned and resumed their filling job, unaware of the grisly scene just a few inches under the dirt at the bottom of the hole.

"Anybody who knows how to operate a bulldozer could have done it," Ward said. "All construction companies leave their equipment around overnight. And there's no way to lock up a bulldozer."

Ward said he had no idea why the men might have been killed.

Ward wouldn't say whose tip laid the foundation for his theory. "It was a confidential source," he said.

Finch Trial Will Enter Fourth Week

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The lurid Finch murder trial enters its fourth week Monday on this legal wrangle:

Should Dr. R. Bernard Finch's preliminary hearing transcript be admitted to evidence?

The defense says no, claiming that Finch's young mistress and co-defendant was trapped into testifying at the hearing—without prosecution warning that she could incriminate herself.

The prosecution says red-haired Carole Tregoff, 23, was arrested immediately after the hearing because of discrepancies in her testimony.

The 42-year-old surgeon and his pretty paramour are accused of murdering his wife, Barbara Jean, 36, to prevent her from winning a large divorce settlement.

The statuesque brunette socialite had sued the wealthy doctor for divorce last May, charging he tried to strangle her.

LSU Murder Case Classic

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The tall, middle-aged man — known throughout the scientific world for his work with heredity—grapples with a problem of environment he can't immediately solve.

He is in jail, charged with murder.

His name is Dr. George Henry Mickey, dean of the Graduate School of Louisiana State University. He will be 50 Tuesday.

The sheriff's office says he killed a longtime friend, Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan. She was a 38-year-old biology professor, working at the New Orleans branch of LSU.

Dr. Mickey says he didn't kill her.

The job of finding out the truth makes up a murder case of classic type.

The circumstances are these: The killer struck Dr. McMillan 13 times with something sharp like a tire iron as she stood on a lonely lane near LSU and the Mississippi River. That was the night of Jan. 9, a few hours before 12:45 a. m. Jan. 10 when the coroner believes Dr. McMillan died.

The body was found the next morning. Dr. Mickey was arrested Jan. 14 after submitting to a lie detector test. The results of that test have not been disclosed.

The state's case, as told in driblets to reporters, rests on (1) Dr. Mickey's long friendship with Dr. McMillan; (2) Three dry blood spots found on the left front of his car, and (3) what the state calls his lack of well-founded alibi. (The blood spots were of the same type as Dr. McMillan, Type O.)

The district attorney, J. St. Clair Favrot, said publicly he thought the slaying came out of a love triangle.

Dr. Mickey said such a supposition was ridiculous.

The dean was steadfastly denied any knowledge of the killing. He said he was engaged early in the evening with a U. S. education official whose name he couldn't exactly recall, and that from 9 p. m. on until the next day he was at home. His wife backs his alibi.

The Bang-Jensen Case Still A Mystery

No Solution To Killing Of Danish Diplomat

NEW YORK (AP) — The mystery of Povl Bang-Jensen, the Danish diplomat who refused to hand over the list of Hungarian witnesses, still haunts the corridors of the United Nations and may wind up getting a posthumous hearing in the halls of Congress.

The handsome 50-year-old Dane was found shot through the head last Thanksgiving Day in a lonely wooded park on the outskirts of New York City.

Thus ended the career but not the cause of a forlorn lawyer who tried to fight the world, or at least the world's top governing body, the United Nations.

Police called it suicide. So did many of Bang-Jensen's closest friends and admirers. Others were not so sure. They felt the circumstances of his death left too many unanswered questions.

Either way, Bang-Jensen died as he lived, in loneliness and mystery, still the central figure in the most bitter personnel controversy in the history of the United Nations.

The death came more than a year after he was fired from his $17,000 a year U.N. job for persistently charging that someone higher up tried to sabotage the U.N. report on Soviet suppression of the Hungarian revolt and for stubbornly refusing to surrender the list of witnesses who appeared before the investigating committee.

DYING DAY

To his dying day, Bang-Jensen passionately maintained that the final published report was not the same as the committee had signed. Someone, he insisted, had altered some of the findings at the last minute.

He further claimed an attempt had been made to riddle the report with obvious errors and to soften its implications about the Soviet Union, particularly in regard to the mass deportation of Hungarians and the curious behavior of Ukranian divisions, which reportedly not only refused to fight the rebels but provided them with guns and tanks.

In regard to the witness list, which he kept as pay vouchers, Bang-Jensen insisted but never could prove that he was authorized to promise that no one, not even Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, would ever know their names except himself and the committee.

These were spectacular charges by a minor diplomat.

The U.N., after a series of investigations that Bang-Jensen and his followers labeled a "complete whitewash," rejected them as "groundless and unfounded." It denied he ever had been designated sole proprietor of the witness list and fired him for "grave misconduct." It further suggested he was mentally unbalanced and should seek medical attention, an allegation that caused him grave anxiety in the months to come.

The list, or what Bang-Jensen claimed was the list, was finally burned in his presence on the roof of the secretariat building.

Now, nearly two years after that dramatic burning, a new wrinkle has developed in the controversial case. The Senate Internal Security subcommittee is interested in finding out whether Bang-Jensen, some time after his firing, became involved in an even larger mystery involving Iron Curtain diplomats who were kept from defecting to the West by a security leak.

ALLEGATIONS

"Certain allegations have come to our attention which might involve the security of this country. That is why we are investigating," says Sen. Thomas Dodd (D-Conn), the subcommittee vice chairman. "We have some information concerning defectors but apparently there was a leak somewhere and the names got into the hands of the wrong people."

Dodd declined to say whether one, two or three would-be defectors were involved, as the three separate versions of the affair now circulating about the U.N. corridors variously attest.

By one account, a Soviet U.N. delegate sought asylum in the West through Bang-Jensen's help but wound up in Siberia instead when his identity was leaked—somewhere in the U.N.—to his superiors.

Another version says that three Iron Curtain diplomats, nationality unknown, were kept from defecting when, against Bang-Jensen's urgent instructions, their names showed up in reports passed around the State Department and the U.S. mission to the U.N.

Still a third version, and the one given greatest credence among exiled Hungarians, maintains that two Soviets at the U.N. tried to defect a few months before Bang-Jensen's death. One was shipped home when his identity leaked out. The other got away and has since dropped from sight.

Which—if any—of these versions is true or even remotely true?

If the Dodd committee can answer that question it may go a long way toward unraveling the whole Bang-Jensen affair.

Bang-Jensen's leap from relative obscurity to international headlines was almost as sudden and emotion packed as his tragic end. For nearly 20 years he led the uneventful, unspectacular life of a career diplomat, first as counselor to the Danish legation in Washington then as a senior political affairs officer at the U.N. To his few close personal friends and to most casual acquaintances he seemed the very epitome of what a career diplomat should be: Intelligent, reserved, dedicated, a bit aloof but not stuffy.

"Povl was a serious-minded man, very conscientious and dignified, a man who knew his worth, not a back-slapper or life of the party type," says Caspar Hasselriis, director of the Danish Information office, who knew him from years ago in Copenhage. "I had the greatest admiration for his character and principles. When I heard he was dead, I cried."

To his enemies—and he made some over the years, even in New York's tiny Danish colony—he was coldly ambitious to the point of feeling deep resentment against fellow Scandanavian Hammarskjold for not promoting him to a higher post in the secretariat.

Regardless of which character estimate is correct, Bang-Jensen came to prominence when the U. N. named him deputy secretary to the five-nation committee that investigated Soviet intervention in the 1956 Hungarian revolt. Denied admission to Hungary, the committee gathered most of its evidence from refugees, mostly freedom fighters, at hearings in New York, Geneva, Rome, Vienna and London. Of the 111 who testified, 81 asked that their names be kept secret. Bang-Jensen's job was to make physical arrangements for the hearings, interview some of the witnesses, keep the pay voucher list and help in the writing of the report.

Almost from the start he became convinced that someone wanted desperately to learn the identity of the witnesses and what was going into the report. His hotel room was broken into in Vienna, his desk drawers rifled at U.N. headquarters in Geneva and later in New York. Attempts to keep certain witnesses from testifying and to appoint a Soviet national as committee interpreter.

SOURCES

According to Hungarian sources here, the identity of five secret witnesses became known when one Miklos Szabo, a member of AVH, the Hungarian secret police, posed as a refugee in Vienna and managed to shoot pictures from a rooftop as the witnesses entered the building, he pictures later appeared in a Budapest Communist newspaper and the families of all five were deported.

When the committee returned to New York in mid-April of 1957, Bang-Jensen's suspicions of sabotage increased. Ultimately they got him into trouble with fellow Dane Alsing Andersen, the Committee chairman, and Australian Ambassador Keith Shann, the official rapporteur in charge of drafting the report. There followed an incident in the delegates lounge in which Bang - Jensen seized Shann by the arm and tried to get him to listen to his accusations. A sheaf of papers tumbled to the floor in the embarrassing episode, and Shann complained to Hammarskjold.

According to Bang - Jensen, Hammarskjold promised to hear him out upon his return from home leave to Denmark that summer., but instead the found himself dropped from the committee assignment and returned to his regular job in the secretariat.

In October 1957, the question of the list first came up. For more than six months Bang-Jensen had been hiding it. No one had bothered to ask for it. No one, according to the U.N., even knew he had it until an inquiry came from the U.S. mission about a deportation case involving a Hungarian who claimed he had testified before the committee.

Fearful it might fall into Soviet hands, Bang-Jensen refused to give it up. Through Andrew Cordier, Hammarskjold's executive assistant in charge of security, the U.N. insisted it was perfectly capable of keeping top secret documents and never had a leak in its entire history. Bang-Jensen and the Commission on Human rights, which came to his defense, argued this was nonsense as long as Soviets worked at the U.N. in high positions. They pointed to the case of a U.N. employe from Ceylon who was fired for passing confidential information to the Soviets at the very time the Hungarian committee was at work.

Two months later, Bang-Jensen was escorted off the U. N. premises by uniformed guards, told that he had been dismissed and instructed to discuss the case with no one, not even the members of the Danish delegation who were to dine at his home the following night.

NOW ADMITS

The U.N. now admits the method in which his suspension was carried out was a "personnel blunder." Bang-Jensen insisted it was done that way to keep him from getting at documents that would prove an attempt had been made to sabotage the report.

From that time on his case became a cause celebre involving some of the top people at the U.N., including Hammarskjold, Cordier, Ralph Bunche, and, arrayed on various sides, three former assistant or deputy assistant secretaries of state: Ernest Gross, Adolf Berle Jr. and J. Anthony Panuch.

Even his death, though officially written off by police as a suicide, has raised almost as many questions as his short, unhappy life in the U.N. limelight.

Bang-Jensen was last seen alive on Monday morning, Nov. 23, when he kissed his wife, Helen, goodbye and headed to his temporary job at CARE Inc. He had $10 in his wallet. A woman neighbor gave him a lift from his home at Lake Success, on the outskirts of New York City, to the bus that connects with the subway. She could not say whether he actually boarded the bus.

Three days later, Thanksgiving morning, Bang-Jensen was found shot to death beside a bridle path in Alley Pond Park, less than two miles from home. The pearl-handled .25 caliber automatic he had bought in 1941 as a protection against Nazi agents was in his right hand and a suicide note addressed to his wife in an inside pocket. Although never released, the note reportedly begged her forgiveness, said he was despondent about his U.N. difficulties and gave funeral directions. A few feet from the body police found a discharged cartridge. The wallet contained $4.

One medical report said he had been dead 24 hours or less. Another said 24 hours or more. Even with the discrepancy, it still left some 48 hours unaccounted for. Bang-Jensen never got to his CARE office. Nor did he bother cleaning out his desk the previous Friday or in any other way indicate to family and friends that he was contemplaying a drastic step.

Where did he spend Monday, Tuesday and perhaps part of Wednesday? How did he survive on $6? How long had the body lain in the woods? Did he, as his wife and others claimed, have a mysterious meeting a few months before with someone in possession of new evidence in his case?

Was he, as police believed and the U.N. implied, mentally unbalanced?

CLOSE FRIENDS

His closest friends know that in the first few months after his firing he was depressed about many things. About not being able to find a suitable job. About the future of his wife and five children. About the manner in which the U.N. handled his case. About finally accepting the $17,000 severance pay check after first sending it back. And, most of all, about the implications and allegations that he was mentally ill.

The last claim first showed in a report prepared for Hammarskjold by an investigating committee headed by Ernest Gross, former assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration. It was branded a "prime libel" by Adolf Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state under Roosevelt, J. Anthony Panuch, deputy assistant secretary of state under Truman, and Clifford Forster of the Commission on Human Rights, all of whom volunteered their services in Bang -Jensen's defense.

"In view of what finally happened," says Gross, "it appears that our concern for his mental health were justified."

But Dr. Frederic S. Friendenberg, a Brooklyn psychiatrist who treated Bang-Jensen for a "mild depression" over a period of several months before he died, says it is "utter nonsense to imply he was mentally unbalanced. He was a man of the highest intelligence. He came to me because he was slightly disturbed over his situation and wanted to get a better insight into himself. He responded to treatment very rapidly. I was surprised to hear he had committed suicide."

Others who knew him felt that while he may have been dejected at first over his fate, he made a remarkable comeback in the last six months of his life and seemed fully reconciled to the situation. CARE officials, cognizant of the U.N. charges about his mental condition, put him through a rigid personnel test which he passed with flying colors. Also, only a few weeks before he died he took an involved IG test for executives and wound up in the top 2 per cent.

Some of his friends and defenders, including Forster, who identified the body, importer Just Lenning, who knew him over a period of years, and lawyer Panuch are convinced he committed suicide.

Others, like his wife, Berle and Brutus Coste of the Commission on Human Rights, while having no reason to disbelieve the police verdict, cannot accept it without knowing where he spent the missing 48 hours.

And still others, like Msgr. Bella Varga of the Committee for a Free Hungary, think it is a moot point. "What difference does it make whether he was killed or driven to suicide?" asks the monsignor. "The important thing is that here in this beautiful free country a man of principle was compelled to suicide. This is moral assassination and far more sinister than physical murder."

Was Bang-Jensen the martyr for a cause? Or the cause of a needless U.N. melee?

The Dodd committee has its work cut out.

Sees New Fad After Success Of One Singer

NEW YORK (UPI) —The million-record success of singer-composer Brook Benton threatens the start of a new fad among aspiring singers—pushing a hand cart in the New York garment district.

Benton's baritone voice sounded loud and clear in the Seventh Avenue canyons during his learner days of a decade ago, but went unnoticed except by traffic cops, cab drivers and a few startled pedestrians.

"I would hire any kids that showed up and have them help me unload," Benton said, recalling the days when he was 17 fresh from Camden, S.C., and discovering New York was oversupplied with song-writers and singers.

"The best spot for writing for me in New York was 24th Street and 9th Avenue. Somehow I always felt more inspired there."

This inspiration plus hard work and the musical talent probably inherited from his Methodist choirmaster father has snowballed into Broadway's latest Horatio Alger success story.

His recording of his own song "Just a Matter of Time" with a battalion of violins gained the Negro singer's admission to that select group of modern musical aristocrats — those who have sold million-copy records.

"Endlessly," "Thank You Pretty Baby" and "So Many Ways" followed in rapid succession, all selling more than a half - million pressings and putting Benton into undisputed first place in last year's overall record sales sweepstakes. Only Bobby Darin, with his exhuberant "Mac the Knife," marked up a higher single recording sales total.

"I try to sell the song's lyrics for its own meaning. I want to feel it. I deliver it like I feel it. I want the audience to feel it."

The 6-foot, 28-year-old ballad singer still has some remaining ambitions. He would like to appear in a motion picture or two and sing with a big band of the type that galvanized audiences during the swing era of World War II.

"We need the big bands very badly," he said. "We need to educate some of our young listeners to good, modern, popular music again."

JOHN C. MERRILL

Journalist At NSC Author Of Text Book

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — A text, published last November and authored by a member of the Northwestern State College faculty, will be used in undergraduate and graduate courses by two major universities in the nation's educational system.

Louisiana State University and the University of California have already indicated they will use John C. Merrill's "A Handbook of the Foreign Press" in their schools of journalism. Merrill is an assistant professor of journalism and English at the Louisiana institution.

The book was published by the LSU Press early in November of 1959 and advance copies were distributed late during the same month.

INTRODUCTION

Designed to serve as an introduction to the foreign press, the work may be used as either a textbook or as a reference book. The idea for the publication was conceived while Merrill was conducting advanced study at Iowa State University in the Summer of 1957.

Merrill's book deals chiefly with the newspaper press of the principal foreign nations, with some emphasis given to the magazine press. Base on hundreds of sources, including the foreign publications themselves, its objective is to present the panoramic picture of the world's press systems.

In a large - size form at, the book contains 394 pages with some 200 illustrations. Photographs are by Paul Marx and Thoma Hennigan, both of the NSC faculty; John C. Guillet, Natchitoches, and by other photographers from various parts of the country and from foreign countries.

The book is divided into three sections: a survey of the general foreign press picture, an examination and analysis (country by country) of specific press situations, and a section containing several useful appendices.

Rounding out the text are a bibliography of basic courses, an index, and a foreword written by Dr. F. J. Price, director of the LSU School of Journalism.

Merrill's text is the first of its type published since 1937 when Professor Robert Desmond of the University of California converted his doctoral dissertation at the London School of Economics into "The Press and World Affairs".

Merrill is writing his doctoral dissertation at Iowa State University on "The Image of the U. S. in the Mexican Daily Press".

A native of Yazoo City, Miss., Merrill received his B. A. degree from LSU in 1949 and his M.A. in journalism from LSU in 1950. He taught at Southwestern College in Winfield, Kans., before coming to Northwestern in 1951.

AT NORTHEAST STATE

Profile Editors Are Announced

Production plans for Northeast State college's annual literary publication, the Profile, officially began this week with the naming of an editorial board.

Ellen Brown is editor, Ronald Marionaux and Dianne Mears are associate editors, and Tommy Parks is art editor. All are seniors in English education.

SPRING

Staff members on the board are Jonnie Blaylock, a senior in English education: Camille Camp, sophomore in social studies education: Donna Knotts, senior in English; JoAnn Williams, senior in English education, Randy Pierce, senior in social studies; Elton Latham, senior in social studies; and Theda Pettigrew, sophomore in English education.

The Profile is published each spring semester by the two literary organizations on the campus, the Writers Club and Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity.

Contained in the publication are poems, short stories, familiar essays, one-act plays, and feature stories written and submitted by interested students at Northeast.

According to Mrs. Brown, the editor, this year's issue is expected to be a great deal bigger and contain more material than in the previous editions. Between 80 and 100 pages are planned.

The publication is written, edited and put together by students, and is printed in the college printshop.

Faculty sponsors of the Profile are Dr. Willa Claire Cox, associate professor of English, and Dr. Marvin L. McKneely, associate professor of English.

Special Class In Electronics Starts Monday

A new pre-employment class in industrial electronics will begin Monday, January 25, according to S. W. Jackson, director of the Ouachita Valley Vocational Technical School. The class is scheduled to meet on Mondays and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Jackson also said that registration for another course in industrial electronics recently installed at the school, has become so large, that two sections have been organized instead of the one originally planned.

Jackson said that those classes now meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m.

He announced that the school still is taking applications from others interested in the program. Those enrolled late will be put on a waiting list, and taken into classes as soon as possible.

A number of local and area industries are currently participating in the vocational school program.

Free Cookbook Offered By Rep. Passman

Availability of cookbook for free distribution to homemakers, as well as others who are interested in receiving it, in Louisiana's Fifth Congressional District was announced yesterday by U. S. Representative Otto E. Passman.

He explained that the booklet, which contains numerous ideas and practical suggestions on home management and tested recipes for preparing most types of food, was prepared by experts in the Bureau of Nutrition of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"This useful book belongs to the people," said Passman, "and you may receive your copy free, postage paid, by addressing a card or letter to me, requesting it."

ADDRESS

The address is: Congressman Otto E. Passman, 1013 House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C.

He said, "As all of us are well aware, we are plagued by continuously rising inflation, so it is not only good business, but also patriotic, to utilize all food resources to the best advantage. The information and suggestions obtained from this cookbook will be very helpful in working toward these objectives, while improving nutrition and mealtime enjoyment. Therefore, I welcome your request for the book, which will be mailed promptly upon receipt of your card or letter."

Woodin New Branch Dean At Alexandria

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Dr. Martin D. Woodin, a Louisiana State University agricultural economist and administrator, has been appointed Dean of LSU at Alexandria.

The appointment, the first at the newly-established two - year institution, was announced at a meeting of the LSU Board of Supervisors here Friday. (Jan. 22).

Classes at the LSUA campus are expected to be held for the first time next September, two years following the opening at LSU in New Orleans. The new institution was established by the LSU Board of Supervisors and is supported as an undergraduate division by a $650,000 appropriation of the 1959 Legislature.

"The University is confident that Dr. Woodin is well qualified to develop the high - level educational institution we desire at Alexandria. He excels as a scholar and an administrator and is thoroughly familiar with the University's educational aims and standards," said Milton M. Harrison, LSU Vice President and Dean of Academic Affairs.

Dr. Woodin, who has served as director of resident instruction in the College of Agriculture since last April, holds the rank of professor of agricultural economics.

As director he coordinated the several departments of the College, supervised curricula and courses and had charge of balancing research and instruction.

Dr. Woodin came to LSU in 1946 and became professor and head of the department of agricultural economics in 1957. In 1952 he served as a economic consultant to the Mutual Security Agency in Formosa.

A native of Sicily Island, La., the new dean is a graduate of LSU. He received his master's and Ph.D. degrees from Cornell University.

Dr. Woodin is the author of more than 75 publications in agriculture and has held positions of leadership in numerous educational and agricultural organizations.

An additional $350,000 was earmarked for the new division in a bill dedicating funds derived from state mineral leases.

Crossett To Take Control Of Malaria

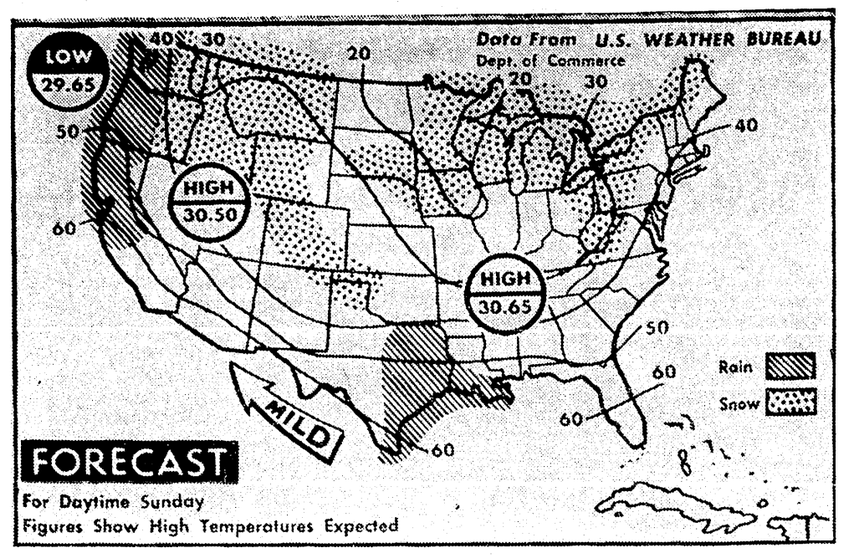
CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett City Council voted Monday night to take over the malaria control program for the city which in the past has been operated by The Crossett Company.

In a letter to the Council, Paul B. Kays, head of the Company Town Division, said they would turn over to the City all of the equipment used in the program for spraying ditches, ponds, and other water holes; as well as a boat. In addition they would give a cash donation of $11,000 to the city for the first year's operation of the project. After this year the job of keeping down the mosquitoes and other insects will be the city's task.

The Council passed a resolution accepting the gifts and voted to carry out the spraying program in the future.

The Council passed an ordinance allowing a salary of $200 to be paid to the Deputy City Clerk, and voted to allow the Fire Department to purchase 1,000 feet of new fire hose.

Mayor Vaskell Carter named two new members to the City Park committee. They are Kelly Oliver and Robert Fisher. Chairman of the group is K B.. Crossland.



WEATHER FORECAST—Snow is expected today over the Great Lakes, Rockies, Appalachians, upper Mississippi valley and Montana. Rain is due for north and central Pacific coast and western Gulf coast. It will be warmer in southern Plains states and western Gulf coast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Rites Scheduled For Mrs. Dowdey

Final rites will be held Sunday at 2:00 p.m. at the Highland Baptist Church in West Monroe for Mrs. Evalie Dowdey, former local resident, who died early Friday morning at her Atlanta, Georgia home.

Officiating will be the Rev. Filer J. Seal. Burial will be in Hasley Cemetery under direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home. The body will be brought here from Atlanta by train Sunday morning.

Mrs. Dowdey is survived by her husband Ellis Dowdey, Atlanta; two sons, James Ellis Dowdey, and Charles Richard Dowdey, both of Atlanta; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cupples Sr., West Monroe; one brother, Raymond Cupples, Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. Myrtis Watson, and Miss Maxine Cupples, both of Monroe.

ADEN, Aden Protectorate (UPI) — To overcome resistance against anything new among the local fisherman, Sultan Abdulla bin Othman el Fadhli himself went fishing with a blue - gray nylon net that was practically invisible in the water.

The result was that he caught 19 sharks at one time. The local fishermen were impressed.

Trading Declines To Lower Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock trading during the past week declined to a three - month low with prices again registering a decline in all major departments.

A decline that had been in progress since the industrial average hit a new record high on Jan. 5 at 685.47 seemed to have run its course by the Wednesday close. The list registered small gains in the two final sessions of the week.

Trading for the week amounted to 14,219,090 shares, or a daily average of 2,843,818 shares. That was the smallest for a full week since Oct. 23 when the weekly total as 13,536,806 shares. So far this year sales have totaled 49,926,872 shares, against 60,939,271 shares a year ago.

At the close Wednesday, the industrial average showed a loss from its 1960 high of 41.73 points or 6 per cent. Rails did much better and utilities performed best of all.

At the close this week the industrial average stood at 645.85 off 13.83 points from the week before; rails 155.63 off 2.35; utilities 86.38 off 0.75 and 65 stocks 212.55 off 3.79 points.

The market fell of its own weight. There was a minimum amount of selling. Demand equally was lacking. Bears remained idle and the short interest fell off to a new low since Oct. 15, 1957.

Money remained tight but the Federal Reserve retained its discount rate at 4 per cent, possibly awaiting end of the Treasury's 11 billion dollar refunding job scheduled for next week.

Inflation received a blow as a market factor when the President released his budget figures, anticipating a surplus of 4.2 billion dollars.

The selling that took place in 11 of the first 13 sessions of the year hit the blue chips and the glamor stocks hardest. Losses in the former ranged to $20 a share in DuPont and in the latter to $11.50 a share in Motorola.

Steel operations were around a record high. Automobile output hit a four - year high and truck output was the best in four years. Car loadings rose on the week and were above last year and 1958.

Construction slipped a bit but the total for the year to date was well above a year ago. Electricity output and coal output dipped from the previous week but held above a year ago. Retail trade was 1 to 5 per cent higher than a year ago.

All major groups declined in the stock market and the blue chips suffered a series of beatings. DuPont in that group fell 7¾ points and International Paper was down 7½. General Electric and Westinghouse Electric lost more than three and Alcoa was down three.

PAUL HELAMS

Fellowship Awarded To NLSC Senior

Paul Allen Helams, Northeast State senior in agriculture has been awarded a fellowship by Louisiana State University to do graduate study in agricultural economics, it was announced yesterday.

Helams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Helams of Delhi.

The fellowship which he received was granted on the basis of the student's academic record and "fine personality," according to L. L. Price, head of Northeast's Division of Agriculture and Home Economics.

CANDIDATE

He is a candidate for the B. S. degree in farm equipment management at the end of the current semester. Helams has earned additional college hours beyond curriculum requirements for graduation and has maintained a "B" average. He holds membership in Delta chapter of Demeter, national honorary agricultural fraternity.

During his study toward the master's degree at LSU, Helams will major in agricultural economics.

He will join at the university Harvey Ferguson, a former Northeast football captain, who currently is working as a fellowhhip student toward the master's in agricultural economics, and Earl Bernis Williamson, who has completed the master's degree on a fellowship and presently is studying for the doctorate.

Price said that during the past ten years from one to five of Northeast graduates in agriculture have been consistently doing advanced study through fellowships. Most of these students have majored in agricultural economics.

Flood Control Plan On Miss. Is Successful

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Maj. Gen. W. A. Carter, president of the Mississippi River Commission, said Saturday a flood control plan for the lower Mississippi River Valley has been proved successful.

Gen. Carter said that during a theoretical flood, the fuse plug levees, the flood regulating structures and the floodways were able to pass their designated flood flow.

CUSTOM REMEMBERED

AKRON, N.Y. (AP) — A reminder of the popular political campaign custom of pole-raising stands about a mile from here at the intersection of routes 5 and 93.

It's the Grant Club, a 30-foot-high oak pole. In the late 1800s and early 1900s, it was a custom to bring a pole from a nearby woods and hoist it into place while bands played and crowds sang. It usually bore a banner with the candidates' names.

The original Grant Club was erected in 1872, but deteriorated, and another was put up in 1904. It serves now as a guide post on the routes to the village of Akron.

Gambling Back In E. B. Parish, Newspaper Says

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Blackjack tables and slot machines suddenly lunged back into action Friday night along the gold strip of West Baton Rouge Parish.

Only Monday, Col. E. P. Roy, state police superintendent, handed Louisiana's sheriffs an ultimatum to close down illegal gambling operations in the state or see his troopers swing into action.

The Baton Rouge State-Times said in Saturday's editions the blackjack tables and slot machines were partially concealed—in side rooms and flimsily petitioned areas—apparently in token compliance with the state police chief's order.

In one night club along the U.S. Highway 190 row, West Baton Rouge Parish deputies reportedly stood guard at a dance 50 feet from where a blackjack dealer whipped through a game.

The newspaper identified the establishment as Paul's Lounge. Once, it said, the same deputies strolled behind the petition halfway concealing the game and passed within three feet of the table.

JUDO IS POPULAR

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Two policemen have set up a judo course and find that about half of their students are women.

Says one of the patrolmen, Ralph G. Froehlich:

"Some of them took the course just so they can walk up the street at night without being afraid."

DUPAS RISKS STREAK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tony Dupas of New Orleans opposes Victor Zalazar of Argentina tonight in the main bout of 10 rounds at the New York Academy of Music. Dupas is risking a winning streak of six bouts while Zalazar has won eight of 12 outings in this country.

Best Church Telecasts Not Entertainment

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

A few years ago, religious leaders were hailing television as the greatest evangelistic medium in history.

They saw in TV a matchless opportunity to reach the homes of millions of people who never go to church.

Today, when church leaders talk about television, it is in tones of frustration, disappointment and bewilderment.

They are unhappy with both the quantity and the quality of religious programs.

The National Council of Churches recently surveyed television stations from coast to coast to find out how much free time they were providing for religious programs. The average station was devoting less than 2 per cent of its total broadcast time to such programs.

Moreover, religious programs are usually scheduled at off-hours, when they are least likely to command a large audience. A large proportion are broadcast on Sunday morning — when one half of America is at church and the other half is sleeping late or reading the papers.

If religious television programs were extraordinarily good, they might be able to overcome these handicaps (and TV stations might be willing to give them more and better time.)

But the sad fact is that churches, by and large, have not made very good use of the little bit of TV time available to them. "With few exceptions," says Paul Molloy, TV columnist of the Chicago Sun-Times, "religious programs are poorly produced, poorly promoted and poorly presented." Not many churchmen would argue with that verdict.

The vast majority of religious broadcasts — perhaps 90 per cent of the total — are straight "devotional" programs. The TV camera is simply focused on an actual church service, or on a preacher delivering an inspirational talk in a TV studio.

That kind of program may appeal to pious shut-ins who are unable to attend church. There is no evidence that it has much attraction for the "unchurched

Teacher Under Suspension For Drinking Beer

HOUSTON (UPI)— Edward J. Mazeika, an English and journalism teacher at Davis High School, was under temporary suspension today because he drank beer at a school function which students attended.

Mazeika said he drank one bottle of beer with his dinner at a journalism banquet Wednesday night at a restaurant. Some 40 students were present at the banquet.

Mazeika said he grew up in a Lithuanian household "where we drank beer with meals."

"I like beer with Mexican food," he said. "I had one bottle with my meal and when I ordered it, it didn't occur to me I was doing anything wrong."

However, he said after the beer was served he "began wondering whether or not it was a good idead." Then, he said, he put the bottle on another table which was unoccupied so it "wouldn't be obvious."

Mazeika, secretary of the Houston Federation of Teachers Union, said Richard Jones, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, suspended him with pay until Monday when the Houston School Board meets. His case was expected to be taken up by the board Monday.

IN SHREVEPORT AREA

Pines Sanitarium Spacious, Modern

By BILL STUCKEY
Of Shreveport Times

The Pines tuberculosis sanitarium, which is located in a park-like area about 10 miles west of downtown Shreveport, has plenty of room to spare.

The buildings themselves are surrounded by about 30 acres of forested, well - kept grounds. Inside, the space situation is equally generous.

Although the state - operated sanitarium has a maximum capacity of 190 beds, only about 100 are occupied at present, said medical director Dr. Walter W. McCook Jr.

SERIOUSLY ILL

In the main building, where the more seriously ill patients are housed, each room is equipped with two beds. Toilet facilities are located between each pair of rooms. Each room is equipped with a communications system, which patients use when they need assistance.

At the rear of the main building is a new wing, where ambulatory patients, whose treatment is drawing to a close, are housed. In this wing, the rooms each contain four beds.

Recreation and reading rooms are in both buildings.

For patients who grow tired of the inactivity that acompanies long convalescense, there are educational activities. The vocational rehabilitation division of the State Department of Education offers Pines patients courses in ceramics, leather, wood and metal working, the domestic sciences and clerical skills. Such rehabilitation activities are housed in a small cottage adjacent to the main building.

For the more ambitious patients,high school diplomas may be obtained through other courses offered by the State Education Department.

APPROPRIATION

Formerly a private sanitarium, the state assumed operation of the Pines in 1947. Since, its annual state appropriation has risen from about $200,000 to the 1960 fiscal year appropriation of $377,971.

With these funds, the sanitarium maintains a 75-man staff which includes three doctors, 23 practical nurses and a dietician. The interns and resident physicians at Confederate Memorial Hospital are also available when needed at the Pines.

Patients who are admitted to the Pines are usually in the lower economic brackets, Dr. McCook said. The only requirements for entry are that the patient has "active pulmonary tuberculosis" and is unable to pay for private care. The latter requirement, however, is waived in some instances, the doctor said.

The medical facilities of the Pines are limited to dental equipment, some laboratory and X-ray equipment and trade tools used in making general physical checkups. If more elaborate facilities are required, sanitarium doctors have access to the comprehensive facilities of the state-operated Confederate Memorial Hospital — which is "a 15-minute ambulance drive from the Pines," said Dr. McCook. If a Pines patient needs surgery, it is performed at Confederate Memorial.

In addition to the 100 patients housed at the Pines, medical treatment is also provided for some 400 out - patients who live at home. These outpatients are given routine checks, and the drugs they need to aid their convalescence.

The period of convalescence varies from several months to life, said Dr. McCook. About 80 to 90 per cent of the patients are eventually released, however, when they reach the "arrested" or "inactive" stage of the disease, he added. The Pines staff keeps close tabs on all released patients to prevent possible flareups of the lung ailment.

Due to new drugs and treatment methods, the period of convalesscense has been greatly reduced over the years, Dr. McCook said.

"TB is ordinarily a very curable disease if caught in the early stages," he said.

The Pines is one of five state-operated sanitariums. The others are located at Greenwell Springs, near Baton Rouge; Pineville (for patients in the state mental institutions there); Lafayette and New Orleans.

STYLE SHOWINGS

Fashions Of Italy Heavy On Pleats

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Features of Italian fashions for the coming spring and summer are tunics, accentuated waistlines, plenty of pleats and all kinds of prints.

As the mannequins remove their false eyelashes and greasepaint and the buyers go off to Paris, these are the highlights of the collections shown by 30 major Italian fashion houses the past 10 days in Rome and Florence:

Skirts remain short despite the attempt of some designers to drop it an inch or two. Designers and buyers continue to think short skirts look young.

Waistlines are there—but definitely. Most often they are widely belted, enclosed in seamed borders and indicated with waist-point bows.

If the Italians have their way you'll see the tunic look everywhere—in jackets, coats, daytime and evening dresses. They will also be known as cossacks, chiltons, long basques, three-quarters, seven-eighths and nine-tenths coats, and belted shifts.

Underskirts will often be pleated, and so at times will be the tunics.

Beaches and resorts this summer will resemble a Turkish harem if the Italian fashions catch on. Tunics worn over long fitted silk or shantung pants come in fabulous Middle Eastern-inspired prints. They are also embroidered, beaded, painted with gilt, sewn with metallic thread and worn with bulky collar necklaces that Cleopatra migh thave liked.

Prints of all kinds star in the Italian collections. Checks, stripes, geometric and abstract designs are for daytime wear. As the sun goes down fabulous floral prints, with roses of all colors predominating, take over.

In fabrics, light wools, linen, taffeta and shantung are featured.

Skirts are fancy. They're tiered, layered, puffed or ruffled.

There is a lot of side draping in soft materials like chiffon and silk.

Many Italian designers emphasize sleeves and shoulders for spring and summer—not the bust. Almost all bodices are simple, without detail, and decollatage is restricted to evening wear.

Coats and jackets for day and evening wear often have a cape look, when not actually trailing a back panel or using slits for sleeves.

Ladies may prefer to turn their backs to the gentlemen when the weather gets warm. To compensate for the modest bosom, Italian designers really bared the back this year. When sunburn time comes around it may be more popular to lie on your tummy.

LINES FLATTER FIGURE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Optical illusions can "add" or "subtract" pounds. For instance, vertical stripes in a man's suit or a woman's dress make the wearer appear leaner. Horizontal stripes seem to add pounds. Dark colors slim the silhouette, and light colors broaden it. Hard fabrics seem to outline a form more tightly than soft textures such as tweed. And in a shirt or dress collar, long points appear to draw the face thinner, and short points accentuate broadness of the cheeks.

WEST MONROE'S FIRE FIGHTERS

Ready For Action

By TOMMY AYRES
Staff Writer

Today West Monroe boasts a well - equipped, full - manned fire department, that gives little indication of leaner times in the organization's history.

Back in 1928 when West Monroe was a growing young city, its fire fighting capacity consisted of one truck and one fireman, who did his job alone, without the aid of a volunteer department.

Probably the best authority on growth of the department from this early period is Fire Chief Earl C. Taylor who was the lone member of the force in the early part of 1928.

A reminder for the chief of those early days is a 1924 pumper truck, which is still in use at the central station in West Monroe.

PROTECTION

Seven trucks, 13 trained men and four stations today protect the city, which 30 odd years ago might have witnessed a lone man battling a blazing building.

"Back then when a call came in, I would jump in the truck go to the scene, string the hoses by myself, and most of the time fight the fire with the aid of one or two helpful spectators."

That was how the soft spoken chief described his early efforts as a fireman during a recent interview at his central station office. The office walls were lined with brown-framed certificates and awards, which he had won over the years from various fire fighting schools he attended.

Taylor was born February 26, 1900 in Cheniere, a small community near here. He moved to West Monroe at the age of 21, and became a volunteer fireman.

APPOINTED

In 1928 he was appointed chief of a new department consisting of one truck, and Taylor himself. He has since served under five city mayors for a total of 33 consecutive years.

"The department has grown a lot," reflected the chief. "Our turning point was really 1949, when we received two sub stations and a new truck. Prior to that time we only had three active members on the force, and two trucks. One of the trucks was a 1924 model, the other a 1928."

The department as it now stands came into being in 1957 when two more stations. and three trucks were added to the city's force.

NEW STATION

West Monroe's modern central station was built the same year, and included in the construction was a slide, replacing the standard firehouse pole. At that time it was the second such fire station device in the United States.

Taylor has seen new and better equipment, created, tested and approved, along with many improvements of fire fighting techniques in past years.

"Hoses are now coated with dacron, instead of cotton, making them about 35 pounds lighter," was one improvement cited.

The old type hose which was 50 feet in length weighed about 70 pounds, compared to 35 for the same length of new hose, according to Taylor.

The "fog nozzle" which operates on the same principal as a garden hose nozzle, is a recent device which has aided the fireman, according to Taylor.

This piece of fire fighting equipment is very useful in house fires, where it can be used in close quarters. Though it does not eject water as far as straight stream hoses, it can cover a much larger area, with less water damage to property.

Assistant chief Aubrey G. Taylor, brother of the chief says the "fog nozzle" revolutionizes fire fighting almost as much as when the steam engine replaced horses.

TRAINING

Asked about the training of his men, Taylor said they received practical, as well as classroom instruction at the central station.

The chief also pointed out that a fireman's job included more than the basic task of fighting fire. In reality, his men possess varying aptitudes. In West Monroe firemen must have some knowledge of mechanics, bookkeeping, and carpentry, to name a few.

"Some people," said Taylor, "think a fireman has nothing to do while waiting for an alarm, but actually we stay pretty busy."

"We do most of the maintenance on our equipment and buildings, besides keeping our own records and paper work. And I'll bet you've never seen a dirty fire station," he added.

Equipment which must be ready for action in a minute's notice, is constantly checked, so that it will always be in working order.

OUTLOOK

Taylor believes the department will fare better under Civil Service, when West Monroe's population count is made known from census reports sometimes this year. The city's population must exceed 13.000 for the fire department to be recognized by the organization.

Financial assistance will possibly allow the department to take on more men, according to Taylor. A shortage of personnel has been a problem of the departemnt since its four stations went into operation.

"The three sub stations are often manned by one man each," said Taylor. He went on to say that with the aid of Civil Service, that problem should be solved, by hiring new men.

The addition of civil service will complete the cycle which began in 1928, designed for the protection of public life and property.

If satisfaction follows accomplishment, Chief Earl Taylor will be a satisfied man, for his part in helping build the West Monroe Fire Department into the organization it is today.

When you see a fireman, ask him to let you look at the Maltese Cross he wears on his hat.

Chief Earl C. Taylor, of the West Monroe fire department recently pointed out an article in the "International Association of Fire Chiefs News Letter" which gave a colorful history connected with the symbol.

The Maltese Cross is a symbol of protection, and a badge of honor. Its story is hundreds of years old.

When a courageous band of Crusaders, known as the knights of St. John, fought the Saracens for possession of the Holy Land, they encountered a new weapon unknown to European warriors. The weapon was a fire.

BOMBS

As the Crusaders advanced on the walls of the City they were struck by glass bombs, containing a highly inflammable fluid. When they were saturated with the liquid, the Saracens hurled a flaming tree into their midst.

Hundreds of the knights were burned alive. Others risked their lives to save their comrades, and thus became our first firemen, and fire fighters.

Their heroic efforts were recognized by fellow crusaders, who awarded each hero a badge of honor, which was a cross, similar to the one firemen wear today.

Since the knights of St. John lived on a little island in the Mediterranean Sea named Malta the badge came to be known as the Maltese Cross.

Today as then, the cross is a symbol of protection. It means that the fireman who wears it is willing to sacrifice his life for you, just as the Crusaders did many years ago.

The Maltese Cross is a fireman's badge of honor, signifying that he works in courage.

Past Resembles Present

Vacationing Chief

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President who once had been a general was impatient to get out of town for a few days.

But Congress dawdled, as only a Congress can. And overhead, like an ominous cloud that might develop into a furious storm at any moment, was the foreign menace.

This general-President was not Dweight D. Eisenhower, but George Washington.

COMPARISON

And the foreign menace wasn't Russia, but France.

History, although it may rearrange the details with delightful inconsistency, often remains much the same. And most presidents, whatever their politics or their ideas of recreation, have looked forward to sneaking away, if only for a short time from the burdens of the job.

If he can get away when Congress is in session, so much the better.

To many of us, vacations are a problem. Where to go? What to do? And, most worrisome of all, how shall we pay for it?

A president may be spared worrying about the cost, but he has many another factor to consider.

PRESUMABLY

Eisenhower, when he decided to go to Palm Springs, Calif., for four or five days starting Jan. 28, presumably had mulled over such items as:

He wants a place where he can golf, and maybe fish. He needs a spot where an airplane can land easily. Since his heart attack, he prefers a place where the altitude won't bother him. He would like a spot where privacy is assured, where he can be protected from those who are merely curious and those who are merely crazy.

Even then he's on borrowed time. A problem of interstate proportions may mean a special meeting with a governor. An unexpected development abroad may bring the secretary of state winging in.

And it has always been that way.

"I came here," Washington wrote from his beloved Mount Vernon, "to look a little into my private concerns, but have not time allowed me for this purpose, being followed by other matters."

Even then, Washington was resigned to cutting off his stay on a moment's notice.

"If matters are particularly embarrassed," he said, "I should be on the theatre of information"—he meant the capital, Philadelphia —"with documents and other aids about me that could not be had here."

PREFERENCES

Presidential preferences in vacations have been as varied as the men themselves.

The better known resorts have always got a good play.

Seventeen presidents, for example, have visited Newport, R.I.

Fourteen presidents have gone to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

None arrived in greater splendor than Franklin Pierce. He was driven up in a Concord coach drawn by six white horses wearing plumes on their proud heads.

None ate more heartily than Millard Fillmore. A stag hunt was held for a big stag party in his honor.

"At long tables under a rhododendron arbor," one observer wrote, "a hundred gentlemen of moment, some of fame, sat down to a feast of three courses.

FOODS

"For palate ticklers there were squirrels, pheasants, trout, chicken and turkey. The main dish was venison, in three forms, roast, steak and stew. Those who stayed the course could have pie, apple and cherry, quite lean.

"Behind the arbor a large band played continuously. The music was shot through with the incessant popping of champagne corks."

With such goings on, it's not surprising to run across this sentence in a biography of Fillmore:

"His person was massive."

But many of our presidents have had little enthusiasm for high living.

Teddy Roosevelt liked to rough it on hunting trips. Calvin Coolidge went fishing in the Black Hills of South Dakota or loafed on his father's farm in Vermont. During the dismal depression days, Herbert Hoover liked to slip away to a fishing camp on the Rapidan River in Virginia.

LUCKIEST

The luckiest presidents are probably those who like the water. Boat trips guarantee privacy, and Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman enjoyed them.

But not all presidents were gadabouts.

Take the case of the unfortunate James K. Polk, as told by David K. E. Bruce in his book, "Sixteen American Presidents."

"His attention to the details of his many executives duties obliterated his capacity for play," Bruce wrote. "In four years he seldom left Washington and soon after his retirement died of causes directly attributable to overwork."

Contrasts Are Plentiful In Afghanistan

Editor's Note—Among the most colorful Asian lands recently visited by President Eisenhower was Afghanistan. A. I. Goldberg of the AP's Moscow staff helped cover the visit, then remained for some time in this crossroads of old and new, East and West. Here's a vivid record of his impressions.

By A. I. GOLDBERG

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—Kabul is a strange mixture of tree-lined boulevards—edged with open drainage ditchs—and muddy by-paths through bazaars.

The contrasts are plentiful.

Palaces in huge courtyards, luxuriously furnished villas in the French manner behind drab walls each with its locked gate, hovels built into the sides of mountains that cut through the city, and modernistic new brick and concrete dwellings that give you a million-dollar view of peaks that turn pink in the early morning sun.

The smart-looking new Kabul hotel, the very modern offices of the Ariane Afghan Airlines next to the old Hotel Kabul, which houses a bazaar or two, a barber shop,and a couple of airline offices.

HORSES, CARTS

Quite a few foreign cars—and also picturesque, horse - drawn taxis. They're not the big four-wheeled droshkies, like the ones that still line up at the station to meet you in Warsaw, Poland. They're two-wheeled carts, driver facing forward and brandishing a whip around the ears of his scrawny beast, passenger facing to the rear, as in an Irish jaunting cart.

Government offices and a bank building that give only a hint of what we'll just call very old-fashioned interiors.

The post office, hidden behind a courtyard where a dozen buses, mostly Russian, take on a motley load of passengers, is old and dusty inside.

But a showroom with radios, phonographs, kitchen equipment and the like glows with a modern light in a corner of the modern two-story Kabul Hotel.

MOSQUE

There's a mosque whose minaret is lighted at night and casts its beam toward the Kabul International Club in one direction, the Shari-I-Nau movie — where "Call Me Madam" was shown during President Eisenhower's recent visit—and toward the tiny fruit shops, meat stalls with carcasses hanging outside, and other shops.

Some things that touring President Eisenhower and his retinue didn't have a chance to see during their six-hour trip to Kabul last December:

Little Afghan girls playing hopscotch exactly the way little girls play hopscotch in the streets of New York.

Little boys kicking a soccer ball around by the embankment of the Kabul River, just like French and British boys do.

ANCIENT

The country's only railroad — well, railroad equipment: Two ancient steam engines and tenders given Afghanistan by the late Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany. The train used to make miniature runs from the Parliament building to the palaces in the center of town. Now there's not even a track and the engines are kept as curiosity pieces.

Hatmakers shaping karakul fur hats before your eyes. Tourists who go to Moscow and buy fur hats—usually with earlugs there —may be interested in knowing that when Soviets go to Kabul they buy fur hats here—the Persian type, without earlugs and with a little peak in the front crown.

Afghanistan's most fascinating sport, Buzkashi. Horsemen take up sides. There can be as few as five riders on each side, as many as a thousand. Each team has a goal. A sheep's or a goat's carcass is the ball. Riders swoop down the field en masse, one man on a side trying to seize the carcass and carry it to the goal. The opposition tries to ride him down, his teammates try to protect him. It can get pretty spirited.

Afghanistan has been off the beaten path since the original Aryans moved around these parts and Marco Polo dallied along the route of silk. But in recent years tourist traffic has been confined chiefly to technicians of a number of flags, including the United Nations, banner.

Despite the barbaric beauty of the countryside, which may mean cash in the pocket to the Afghan Tourist Bureau someday, officials here are realistic about present tourist possibilities.

"We're just not geared to handle any big tourist influx," says S.K. Rishtiya, president of the government press bureau. "We'll take anyone who comes along and give him the best we've got. But, frankly, tourist travel in Afghanistan now would be pretty rugged."

PREDICTS

Someday, an Afghan official predicts, this kingdom will have to change its prohibition laws so a foreign tourist can buy a legal drink.

In Islam, drinking alcoholic beverages is forbidden by religious law and this is a Moslem monarchy.

The tastefully designed new Hotel Kabul has a built-in bar. But right now, all you can get is orange squash, tea or coffee. Some Afghans say if tourists and businessmen are to keep coming there it will have to stock scotch and brandy.

American cigarettes in stacks of cartons, Soviet matches in boxes by the gross, a jumble of trinkets from all over the world, plus overshoes from Czechoslovakia, powdered milk from Holland, chocolate from Switzerland, writing paper from Red China, envelopes from Norway.

Read what political symbolism you will into it, but they furnish the theme in Kabul's bazaar shops—those five-by-five department stores which fill the main streets side by side.

SOFT SELL

It's the epitome of the soft sell.

For the most part the shop owners sit or lie under rugs against the cold, bestirring themselves only when a possible customer makes some motion to buy.

As a measure of Kabul's progress, the new Kabul University buildings will have the first sewage disposal system in the city.

The new Kabul Hotel was the first to have central heating. Elsewhere the smell of burning wood pervades on chill days as four-foot-high stoves—potbelly stoves without the potbelly—are fired up. You open a door and then have to push aside a rug or other heavy drapery that covers the doorway against drafts.

Davis Administration To Have Benefit Of Government Studies

When Governor-elect Davis and the new Legislature go into office, they will have the advantage of two important governmental studies — one immediate and one in the past — as a springboard from which to meet the campaign pledges of Mr. Davis for a state government operated on business-like lines of a balanced budget, no new taxes, and common sense in spending.

One of these studies is under way now and will culminate at Baton Rouge in April in what amounts to "A School for Legislators and State Public Officials." It has the full support of Mr. Davis. All of its "students" will be persons elected to state offices in the incoming Davis administration — especially the new members of the Legislature. By odd political coincidence, the other study was made by the Davis administration of 1944-48, with much of its value still available for the new Davis administration if needed.

The present study has been made possible by a $22,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to the Louisiana Public Affairs Research Council. The latter now is carrying on a period of intensive research and will conduct "the School" professionally. Besides PAR, sponsors will be three Louisiana endowed colleges—Centenary of Shreveport, Loyola of New Orleans, and Louisiana College of Pineville.

Officially called "the Pre- Legislative Conference," this school for Legislators will meet for two days with its curriculum divided into three major sections:

1. Operation of State Government — from the Governor's office on through the major departments whose heads are elected and into some 150 state agencies operating under appointive executives or boards.

2. Revenue for State Government — fiscal affairs — collecting agencies—sources of revenue.

3. The Spending Side of State Government — cost of operation of departments and agencies in comparison with similar agencies in other states and in past years; studies of what is accomplished by this spending.

The Pre-Legislative Conference will be fact-finding and educational. It will reveal problems, but offer no remedies, no legislation. That is for the "students" later.

Close to half of the new Legislature will be persons who have never served in it before or who served in administrations prior to the present one. All of them, as well as the re-elected Legislators, have been invited to the Pre-Legislative Conference and most of them already have accepted.

In addition, there will be executive and administrative heads of various agencies, both elective and appointive. These agency heads and experienced legislators will conduct some half a dozen special discussion panels after the major portion of the Pre-Legislative Conference ends. Civic leaders, such as former public state, parish and municipal officials will be speakers.

But, fundamentally, the pre-legislative conference will have before it a tremendous amount of detailed data on state government now being gathered by three professional researchists for PAR.

Chairman of the Steering Committee for the Conference is Paul Brown of Shreveport. On the Committee with him are President Joe Mickle of Centenary, President G. Earl Guinn of Louisiana College, Father Patrick Donnelly, President of Loyola University; State Senator Robert Ainsworth of New Orleans, State Representative "Buddy" Napper of Union Parish, Lester Kabacoff, New Orleans Attorney; Felix Kurz of Lafayette, President of PAR; and Ed Taussig of Lake Charles, former PAR President.

The three study sections of the conference will include all of the state's administrative boards from the smallest on through LSU, and all of its departments and agencies, such as welfare, highways, education, wildlife and minerals. In each of these there will be detailed study of the three major fields — operation, revenue, spending. Such subjects as putting into the teachers pay scale already authorized will have intensive study.

No state administration in Louisiana has ever gone into office under such opportunities for knowledge and background study for government prior to taking office. The Conference should be especially beneficial to new Legislators and officials, for they should be able to gain as much knowledge of state government from it as they normally might gain in an entire legislative session.

The other study which may be of value to the new Davis administration is one made under the previous Davis administration of 1944-48, but shelved in its major portions by all state administrations since then. While it is a decade and a half old, it presents sound and solid thinking on certain phases of state revenue by the Davis administration of the 1940s. If nothing else, it would be an indication of how Mr. Davis may be expected to approach fiscal problems in his second term. Some portions are not applicable now. Others could be quite controversial.

The 1944-48 Davis administration study dealt entirely with state revenue and was made by the Louisiana Revenue Code Commission, created by the first Davis Legislature. H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge was Chairman, and John R. Hunter, Jr. of Alexandria Vice Chairman. A. L. Wedgeworth of Shreveport was one of the seven members. Other members were Fred G. Hudson, Jr. of Monroe, E. Leland Richardson, of Baton Rouge, and Ambrose Smith, Leo Guenther and Bentley Burns, all of New Orleans.

This Commission drew up a projet for a Revenue Code for Louisiana. While some of the work, including the Code it proposed, may be out of date now, the report includes many sound principles of taxation and revenue which are just as applicable and just as desirable today as they were then.

Eight proposals by the Commission were enacted into law before the Davis administration went out of office. Two of them were of special value in providing greater revenue for municipalities — in dire financial need then as they are now. But the entire study was not completed until the Davis administration ended and actually was presented to the succeeding administration, where it got no attention.

One of the important phases of this study dealt with the ever increasing amount of tax burdens for Louisiana people, business and industry. The report used hypothetical businesses and showed the tax cost in business operations in Louisiana and in other places. For example, it was brought out that a hypothetical oil refining corporation of a certain size would pay state taxes (at that time) of $20,728 in Texas, but if located in Louisiana its taxes would be $49,218.

This type of problem exists today as it existed then — perhaps to a greater extent today, for the huge general state tax increase of 1948-1952 and some tax increases of 1956-1960 have been added. The report also delved soundly into special tax exemptions, which it found in the end usually do more harm than good.

The Revenue Code Commission also brought forth evils of multiplicity of special taxes — numerous taxes affecting the same gross receipts of a company, for example.

Another revenue subject that is coming more and more to the front now and which was covered in the Revenue Code Commission report is constitutional dedication of state funds. The Commission complained — a decade and a half ago — of too much dedication of state funds and pointed to the obvious evils of this system. But, under succeeding administrations, dedication steadily has increased until now around 80 to 85 per cent of state spending is dedicated. This means agencies may receive more money than they need while other agencies figuratively "starve," and the Legislature can do nothing about it.

Dedication now has brought a condition where the Legislature, constitutionally endowed with the responsibility for state spending as well as for state revenue, finds its hands tied to a point where actually it has available for state statutory spending only a very small portion of state revenue.

For those who must find solutions to the problems of state government in the new Davis administration there is much to chew on in this study of the same subject in the previous Davis administration. The Louisiana Code Commission study is not one that necessarily could be adopted now, under present conditions, but it is one which advocated basic fiscal principles of both collecting and spending which are thoroughly sound today as they were in the 1940s. That this study of the 1940s came out of the previous Davis administration makes it especially worthwhile as at least a reference work for the new Davis administration.

Frightened Scientists

Fear That Comes To Men Who Create Instruments Of Destruction Must Indeed Be Devasting

Mary Godwin, the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley and daughter of the feminist Mary Wollstonecraft, wrote the story of Victor Frankenstein and the monster he created. Frankenstein, after this feat of science, lived in everlasting torture because of his achievement. Describing how she came to do such a thing, Mary Godwin wrote:

"I saw — with shut eyes, but acute mental vision—I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together—I saw the hideous phantasm of a man stretched out, and then, on the working of some powerful engine, show signs of life, and stir with an uneasy, half vital motion. Frightful must it be; for supremely frightful would be the effect of any human endeavour to mock the stupendous mechanism of the Creator of the world. His success would terrify the artist; he would rush away from his odious handiwork, horror stricken . . ."

We often speak of Frankenstein as though he were the monster and not its author. It would be as though we were to call Dr. Enrico Fermi, Mr. Atom Bomb and Dr. Harold Urey, Mr. Heavy Water. The fear that comes to men who create instruments of destruction must indeed be devastating and that perhaps is why so many atomic scientists demand that the alchemy which they threw together be banned.

Many scientists are having a very difficult time reconciling knowledge and sense, technical genius and wisdom. They are moving so fast, they achieved so much, they conquered ignorance so brilliantly that they have not had time enough to catch their breaths and to grasp the meaning of it.

I see a letter by Richard C. Bradley, assistant professor of Physics at Cornell University. He is very much concerned about over-population. The question of population or over-population is related to the food supply. There is plenty of room on Earth, the Sahara Desert, the Gobi Desert, the Arabian Desert, to take three examples of roominess, but roominess (one dare not use the word, space, any more) is not our concern. It is food. And food is plentiful so plentiful that wheat is stored in the bottoms of otherwise useless ships and in warehouses. The scientist then need not worry himself about over-population but about inadequate distribution of the food supply of the Earth and the meaningless failure to teach underveloped peoples to use organic fertilizer.

It would make much more sense to teach the people of India how to use cow manure on their land than to teach them birth control. As a matter of fact, those who govern India are well-informed about fertilizers and birth control and if, for political reasons, they prefer to use dung for coal instead of for fertilizer, that is strictly their business. If we desire to save India from a revolution because of misrule, the logical method is to take it over and manage it until we are driven out, as the British were, by the superior use of words, with no accompanying action, as Gandhi did.

To revert to Professor Bradley, he sat down pencil in hand and did some simple arithmetic calculating, which is somewhat of a come-down for a professor who should use at least x's and y's, and he produced this:

"Take the world population at mid-century (about 2,000,000,000), take the present doubling rate (once every fifty years), and project the population indefinitely into the future. We see that by the year 2000 there will be 4,000,000,000 people, by the year 2050 there will be 8000,000,000, and soon Before ten centuries will have passed, our descendants can count on having 200,000,000,000 neighbors—which is slightly more than the number of square feet of land surface on Earth, including the South Pole, the Sahara Desert and Mount Everest."

This is very correct arithmetic. But what is the Q.E.D.? Does the professor desire that we should all limit ourselves to two children, to one child, or to no child at all? Shall we practice infanticide if, by the grace of God, an extra child appears? Are the limitations upon children to be imposed only upon the black, yellow and brown peoples or also on the whites? Suppose some nation secretly violates the international agreement on child limitation, is the United Nations required to raise a Police Force to extirpate that nation strewing its land with slaughtered surplus?

PRAISES EDITORIAL

Shreveport, La.

To The Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to congratulate you and commend your splendid editorial of last December 29, regarding the proposed "National Fuels Policy" which the National Coal Policy Conference is attempting to push through Congress.

I have discussed your editorial with a number of people, all of whom have been lavish in their praise of the manner in which it so thoroughly and completely demolishes the arguments of those who would apparently be willing to sacrificie our present way of freedom to do business on a competitive basis for a socialistic scheme designed to head off progress in the fuels industry.

Trusting it will be my pleasure to see you again soon, and with kindest personal regards, I am

'OUR GOOD FORTUNES'

Alexandria, La.

To The Editor:

The editorial in your Monroe Morning World, dated January 16, 1960, entitled "Our Good Fortunes," has been brought to my attention.

This is an excellent editorial regarding the conservation of our soil and water, and the problems that workers in this program are faced with. Your knowledge of this subject, and the very fine way in which you have presented it, is most gratifying to us in the Soil Conservation Service. It is also pleasing to find editors of large daily newspapers who recognize and comment in the manner you did, on problems effecting the agricultural aspects of our country.

Let me compliment you very highly on this editorial, and say to you if members of the Soil Conservation Service in Louisiana can be of any assistance to you, please let us know.

State Press Group Names New Officers

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Press Assn. Saturday elected Samuel D. Reeks, editor of the Jefferson Parish Times, president of the association at the close of its 80th annual convention.

Others elected were: M. V. Wolcott, New Iberia Daily Iberian, first vice-president; Robert J. Angers, Franklin Banner-Tribune, second vice-president; and Matt Vernon, Eunice News, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Named to the association board of directors were Joseph Silverberg of Thibodaux, James Goodman of Ponchatoula and Paul Myers of St. Joseph.

The principal speaker was William J. Oertel, manager of the Ohio Newspaper Assn.

Panel members discussing newspaper legislative problems included C. P. Liter, Baton Rouge Morning Advocate; Kenneth Walker, Natchitoches Enterprise; Eddie Jackson, Lafourche Comet; Donald W. Coleman, The Times-Picayune; and Bruce R. McCoy, manager of the Louisiana Press Assn.

Interest Costly

About $12 Of Each $100 Paid In Taxes Goes That Way

This Monday, when President Eisenhower submits to the nation his fatly balanced budget for the new year, he'll tell you an all-time high of almost $12 of every $100 you'll pay in taxes in the next 18 months will be used for interest on the national debt.

The President is making no effort now to hide the staggering size of this one single expense, and even if he wished to, he no longer could. For debt interest has become a drain on our taxes second only to that for national defense. During Eisenhower's terms in office this expense has soared by billions. The total the Government is now paying out in interest on the debt each year is not much smaller than the whole debt as recently as 1929.

Actually, though, when the President last week scooped himself by forecasting he'd introduce a budget balanced at $79.8 billion to show a surplus of $4.2 billion, he went out of his way to stress the chunk earmarked for debt interest. He did so by prefacing his comments about balanced budgets in 1960 and 1961 with the words, "The debt with which we are now confronted is about $290 billion. With interest charges alone now costing taxpayers about $9.5 million, it is clear that this debt growth must stop . . ."

But the emphasis in those sentences easily could mislead you into thinking that the reason interest on the debt has been skyrocketing is that the total of the debt on which interest must be paid has been skyrocketing.

This is not so.

And if you are to understand the heart of the great and crucially important money debate now developing in our land you must recognize that this is not so.

In 1946, after the end of World War II, the U. S. debt was at a war - swollen total of almost $270 billion. It's not much bigger now.

But in 1946 the annual interest cost of that debt was $5.3 billion. The cost of carrying the not-much bigger debt has almost DOUBLED.

While the climb in the total debt under Eisenhower has been relatively modest, the climb in its carrying cost has been spectacular.

The explanation? It lies, of course, in the upsurge in the level of interest rates — the cost of borrowing money — in this era.

And while a private businessman may decide to shelve his borrowing plans in a phase of expensive credit, the U. S. Treasury has no similar choice. It must borrow to cover the Government's bills when outgo exceeds income. It must constantly tap the market for new loans to replace maturing I. O. U.s. These days, it must compete in the marketplace for the cash, pay the rates demanded by lenders for funds.

Thus, this one figure in the budget to be revealed Monday will capsulize the impact of tight and expensive money on a borrower.

This one statistic will dramatize the tight money issue — which many believe will be the key issue in the Democratic campaign this year.

Don't underestimate this. It is a major issue which warrants plenty of honest questioning. As an illustration, the aim of tight and expensive money has been to discourage fringe speculation and thereby control inflationary activities which spur price rises. But while the price rise has slowed, it hasn't stopped. A fundamental objective of the GOP has been to reduce the total of the national budget. But the soaring interest cost item in the budget has been steadily raising the budget total.

When interest rates rise to a level forcing the Treasury to collect a gigantic $9.5 billion a year from all taxpayers to pay out only to those who own U. S. Government securities, the entire economy is directly and vitally involved — and that means you are involved.

When debt interest becomes this massive a factor in the budget our taxes pay for, a national debate on the reasons and justifications for the expense becomes not only desirable but also imperative.

Draft For Rock?

Orangization Kept Intact Despite Announced Withdrawal

His Republican contemporaries in age — he has just turned 47— who have the confidence of political youth in their predictions, believe that Vice President Richard Nixon is an overwhelming favorite as the next President of the United States, but more seasoned observers of his party are not sure by any means that he will succeed Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A few of them are not even convinced that he will be the Republican nominee, and though they may be scoffed at, their reasons are worthy of attention.

Nixon Republicans, regardless of age, have learned with concern, that Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller is holding together the preliminary campaign organization which was preparing a high pressure drive for delegates before his announcement on Dec. 26 that he would not be a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Questions as to how long the 70 or more people housed in Rockefeller owned buildings in New York City will remain on his payroll have not been answered. But the New York governor has intimated that he would not resist a draft by the Republican convention, and that is the cause of Nixon concern.

Early polls of Republican state organization leaders demonstrated Nixon to be such an overwhelming favorite that Rockefeller's advisors told him the best immediate strategy was to withdraw from active contention.

The settlement of the steel strike a week later, for which Nixon was given substantial credit, seemed to give the Vice President a fresh boost, which would make his nomination almost beyond doubt, but there are still those — some of them in his camp — who see pitfalls ahead.

While Gov. Rockefeller will not be entered with his consent in any Republican primary, Nixon will seek delegates in several state primaries. The first of these will be in New Hampshire on March 8, and his advisors in Washington are giving it careful thought. Senator John F. Kennedy will be seeking New Hampshire's Democratic delegates in the same primary. There are but 11 convention votes at stake, but the real importance of the first primary will be in the preferential vote for candidates. Suppose then, that Kennedy receives almost as many votes as Nixon?

There is also the possibility that two candidates for Republican delegate, already announced for Rockefeller, will insist on staying in the race, ignoring his request that they withdraw, and that they are elected on the GOP slate. Political experience indicates that either eventually would be considered a setback for Nixon, minor though it may seem, as New Hampshire has in this century always been a Republican state when a Republican was elected President, and twice when a Democrat was the choice.

The next test could be the Wisconsin primary in the first week in April, which Nixon strategists are convinced he must enter. While he would be running without opposition, Kennedy and Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota will be contenders for the Democratic delegation and their combined vote may be considerably larger than Nixon's.

For a typical New England state and a similar Middle Western state to roll up Democratic primary votes close to or larger than the Republican totals would be disquieting. It could even start a "draft Rockefeller" movement, and that would be disturbing to Nixon if not threatening.

That does not end the speculative possibility of danger, for Nixon has given permission for his name to be entered in the Ohio primary on May 3, in which Governor Mike DiSalle will look after the interests of Senator Kennedy, who is assured of the delegation unless Senator Frank J. Lausche, independent Democrat and former Governor, should decide to challenge DiSalle's authority by seeking delegates himself.

In any event, a heavy Democratic vote there could set more Republicans to thinking about Rockefeller. Then there is the fateful Oregon primary of May 20, in which all presidential possibilities of both parties seem sure to be on the ballot, since a petition of 1,000 voters can accomplish this, and that would assure a straight out Nixon vs. Rockefeller test of strength. In addition, it will produce some comparison in Oregon of Republican - Democratic presidential strength, though nothing conclusive.

Draft of a Republican presidential nominee in the literal sense is unheard of, but not impossible. Perhaps that is why Gov. Rockefeller, who can well afford to do so, is keeping his 70 member primary campaign staff at work. Republican confidence in Nixon's ability to win is generally high, but they will watch the milestones along the route.

An American Duet

German Opera House

By REINHOLD ENSZ

BERLIN (AP) —Divided Berlin has opera houses in both East and West. In the West, one of the leading baritones happens to be a real westerner — from Texas.

But hardly anyone would suspect that tall, handsome 31-year-old Thomas Stewart hails from San Saba, Tex. German is the language for almost all of the opera's productions and Stewart sings them like a German.

"His German is often easier to understand than that of German singers," says Dr. Horst Goerges, one of the opera's top officials. "Stewart has a definite gift for languages."

WIFE ALSO SINGS

Stewart's pretty, 31-year-old Brooklyn - born wife, whose stage name is Evelyn Lear, also sings with the opera.

Stewart makes 70 to 80 appearances a year, while his soprano wife makes 30 to 40.

"It is unusual that a man and wife are both singers," Stewart says, "but it is even more unusual for them to sing in the same opera house."

When they're not singing, they're at home in West Berlin's fashionable suburb of Dahlem, practicing their opera roles, or playing the roles of parents. They have two children, Jan, 13, and Bonni, 11.

GERMANY TOGETHER

How did the family get to West Berlin?

"It was simple," Stewart says, "my wife and I got Fulbright scholarships for singing lessons here."

The scholarships were for West Berlin's College of Music. They arrived at the school in August, 1957, and immediately began studying German, in addition to singing. It wasn't long before both were singing at the West Berlin opera, thus joining the scores of Americans who are singing professionally in West Germany.

West Germany has about 65 opera houses and many of them have one or more Americans on their rolls. The influx of Americans has caused some grumbling among German singers, some of whom suspect that the American government is forcing the opera houses to hire Americans.

"Anyone who says this is being naive," Stewart says. "The director of our opera hires only on the basis of singing ability. Germany has a definite shortage of trained singers."

NEWSPAPER

Hamburg's independent newspaper Die Welt recently made a survey on the subject and came to the same conclusion as Stewart. The paper said there is no evidence of favoritism, but added that the United States is turning out more opera singers than it can possibly use.

On this point, Stewart says: "It's very hard to get practical experience in the United States. Only three cities have opera houses — New York, Chicago and San Francisco. What's more, they have short seasons. German opera houses operate 11 months out of the year."

Before starting his singing career, Stewart put in a three - year hitch in the United States Air Force as a statistician. He stuck with statistics for one year after his discharge, but then switched to his real love, singing.

He sang with the New York City Center Opera, with the NBC TV opera and at Chicago's Lyric Theater.

He says there is very little difference between stage life in Germany and America.

MORE SUBDUED

"Musicians are musicians. But there is a basic difference in personalities. Germans are much more subdued than Americans.

"The average American will go to a party and within two minutes he will be telling someone his life history. Germans simply do not do that. You have to know a German some time before you can possibly become close friends."

Stewart and his wife want to remain in Germany until 1962. Then they would like to go back to the United States and land jobs at the Metropolitan Opera in New York.

"We like Germany," Stewart says, "but after all, America is home. We are well treated and I have never encountered any anti - American resentment."

Stewart adds with a grin: "What's more, you can't get any American - style ice cream over here."

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

A 16-year-old Monroe area girl and 15-year-old boy performed last week with the El Dorado, Arkansas, symphony orchestra as two of three solists winning the organization's annual youth auditions.

Miss Mary Lou Holley of Pioneer and Jerry Rankin of Tallullah, pianist and violinist respectively, appeared with the musical organization which is directed by Felx Spooner. Also appearing with the orchestra was Miss La Nell Dean, 17, of El Dorado, vocalist.

Miss Holley played the Piano Concerto in G Minor by Mendelssohn and young Rankin played "Gypsy Airs" by Sarasate.

A similar program featuring winners of youth aiditions was slated for the month of February by The Twin Cities Symphony here in Monroe, according to Harry Lemert, director of the organization.

LIVE ONSTAGE

Pericles Alexander who peers through the Shreveport spotlights with a critical eye noted in a recent column the Ark-La-Tex live touring theatre may stand or fall by response to this season's last three presentations: "Odd Man In," "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," and "Look Homeward, Angel." The second mentioned play, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," is slated for a March 5 performance here in Monroe.

In addition, "Sabrena Fair," will get a performance by Monroe Little Theatre during February. Also in the planning stage is a workshop presentation of "The King and I," by the Northeast State College speech, music and art departments.

There has been a gap in the middle of the concert season this year as if the dash separating 1959-60 were extended to include about two full months. Perhaps the touring artists are taking advantage of the better than average economic situation and are spending some time "off the road" for Christmas and New Year's.The trend—if that is actually what this may be called — is a healthy one. Too much serious entertainment can condition audiences to where they are less sensitive to the fine points of good performance — or the rough edges of mediocrity.

CONTEST

Mrs. Leslie D. Fain, president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, has announced the deadline for the organization's annual composition contest has been set for March 1.

Complete rules for the contest — which is open to composers of serious music for piano or instrumental compositions of two to five instruments — may be obtained from Mrs. Fain, 608 Kimball Ave., Alexandria.

Judging this year's competition will be Arthur Kreutz, a member of the school of music faculty at the University of Mississippi. An award of $50 will be presented to the winner of the statewide event.

FOLK WAYS

The concert of folk singer Richard Dyer - Bennett at Louisiana Tech a week ago pointed up the informal approach as opposed to the "cut-numbers which are widely used on television. It was interesting to observe some members of the audience have become so accustomed to the latter medium, until they took to the halls during some of the quieter selections.

Though the folk concert lacks the "now hear this" tone of a well programmed variety show, the roots of the best serious music lie deep within the folk idiom. And while Dyer-Bennett's manner stressed understatement, his songs revealed much that is never said or written about the Americans, Englishmen, Irish, French and Germans about whom he sang.

Woman Is Seen As Salvation Of Man--Opera

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the length of a Wagnerian Act, which is no brief span, Leonie Rysanek convinced a Metropolitan Opera that woman is the salvation of man. Since this antiquated idea goes against general 20th century impressions, this was spectacular confirmation of her stature as consummate actress—with an emotionally supple singing voice and with gesture and postures.

No one on the audience side of the footlights had anticipated anything so much as approaching such a result from the Met's first staging of Wagner's youthful opera, "The Flying Dutchman," in nine years.

You can see from the years between stagings, this piece has no hold on opera audiences. Indeed, it is reasonable to believe if Wagner hadn't created his later and overwhelming masterpieces, this one would now be pretty well forgotten.

But Met manager Rudolf Bing has long been known to harbor faith in its latent possibilities. He had the acting art to realize them in Miss Rysanek and in George London, who took the part of the Dutchman; and the scenery was gathering dust in a warehouse.

So he quietly slipped the opera into this year's repertory. There was no advance fanflare. No word leaked from rehearsals that operatic magic was in the making. Thus Miss Rysanek's achievement —and London's — struck the first night audience with tremendous impact.

Woman-man's redemptress was an obsessive idea with Wagner and it runs through the towering masterworks such as "Tristan and Isolde" and "The Ring" operas. But in "The Flying Dutchman" it is badly stated; it is the raw and undisguised theme.

At the beginning of the long second act you discover the redemptress (young and pretty, of course) beguiling herself with visions of a particular man who desperately needs redemption. Finally the man comes onto the scene and the redemptress is committed to the assignment.

The way Miss Rysanek did it, you could feel in your depths the woman's dedication growing from a girlish whim into a pure, selfless, and heroic deed. You knew that the man was redeemed then and there. Naturally and manlike, the man didn't know it. But that's the dramatic snap.

London's part in the triumph was indispensable. He was the man and he sang and played it to perfection. But man is essentially a foil for his redemptress, according to Wagner. He contributes two things—his need for salvation and his physical presence.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The new books received at the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week cover a wide range of subjects, and will appeal to many different people. An interesting new book of fiction is "The Strange One" by Fred Bodsworth. This is the story of Rory MacDonald, a Scottish naturalist and his love for a young Canadian Indian girl. The story is tied in with the beauty of the Hudson Bay Country and presents an authentic picture of life in that region.

Each year as the Lenten season approaches there are many books of a religious nature released by the publishers. The titles mentioned in this category today would make good Lenten reading. Edith Alderman Deen has done a wonderful job with "Great Women of the Christian Faith". She has gone into the characters of many women who contributed to the growth of Christianity, although in a humble way. An unusual book, written by Gustavus Swift Paine is called "The Learned Men". It is the story of the men who compiled the King James Version of the Bible. It is well done and will have quite an appeal. A most appealing book for devotions is "In His Likeness" by G. McLeod Bryan. It is an thology of excerpts from the writings of 40 men of God, who through the centruies have tried to make it clear what it means to be a man of God. "Dust on My Toes" by Sister Del Ray is another story of the Maryknoll missionaries and their work in the near and far East.

One of the most beautiful books which we have received in a long time is "The Larousse Encyclopedia of Mythology". This is a large book and contains a wealth of material on this subject. It is a companion volume to the "Larousse Encyclopedia of Astronomy" which we received last month. Both of these books are beautifully done and add a great deal to our collections on these two subjects. Those who have read the books written by Herbert Wendt are always eager for another one. This week we received his latest title called "Out of Noah's Ark." In this book the author recounts legendary and true stories of the most exciting aspects of zoology. This is a fascinating introduction to the subject and should lead readers on to further exploration. One of the foremost writers in the field of space literature is Roy A. Gallant. His latest book is called "Mans' Reach into Space" and presents an interesting summary of all that has been done in this field. It is written for the lay reader and is not technical in any sense.

One of the most popular sections of our library collection is that dealing with flower growing and arrangement. This week we have two new titles in this category "Camellias for Everyone" by Claude Chidamian is a revision of a book which came out several years ago and has much material added. "Flowers around the Clock" by Seiko Hara is an interesting book on the art of Japanese flower arrangement. A very practical new book which will be very popular is "How Photography Works" by H. J. Walls. Practially everyone is interested in Hawaii at this time and we have been adding a number of books on the subject. "The Hawaiian Reader" by A. Grove Day is a collection of literature through the centuries written by Hawaiian writers or about Hawaii. It will bring to the reader a fresh reading experience.

A beautiful and interesting new book is "Japanalia" by Lewis Bush. It contains a great deal of information about the social life and customs of Japan as well as descriptions of the country. It is beautifully illustrated and is a distinct contribution to our collection. Another intresting new book about Japan is "Living Japan" by Donald Keene. It is also beautifully illustrated. Reading is a wonderful opportunity to open new worlds of the spirit. The resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are absolutely free to the people of the Parish.

HI-FI and STEREO

by Greg Hare

"RENATA TEBALDI SINGS VERDI." London OS 25062. Verdi who liked to have his singers in mind when he was writing was always on the alert for singers for his operas. There was no question of fitting the parts to the singers, only of bearing the voice in mind. Nevertheless Verdi was fussy and usually blamed bad singing for his occasional failures. This is all to say that if Verdi was alive today he would certainly have wanted to write for Renata Tebaldi. A clear, full, dramatic soprano, with a well controlled dynamic range, in her may be seen the ideal Verdi heroine. The London personnel haven't spared the sound or background and Renata Tebaldi is at her best.

"A PIANO INVITATION TO THE DANCE." Ann Schein. Kapp, KC-9042-S. Ann Schein, an amazing young pianist, who joined Kapp's recording stars last year has astonished even the hardiest critics with her fine technique and interpretive powers. This is her third album, an examination of dance music composed for the salon rather than the ballroom. The stereophonic sound is what you would expect from the one instrument. The album's recorded sound and range is free from distortion and noise.

BEETHOVEN "PIANO CONCERTO NO. 1 IN C MAJOR (Op. 15) and PIANO SONATO NO. 8 IN C MINOR (Op. 13.)" Wilhelm Backhaus with The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Hans Schmidt - Isserstedt. London CS 6099. The C major concerto belongs to Beethoven's "First period" and much of it shows a typical eighteenth century lightness of spirits, though now and then we are conscious of profounded feelings which give a foretaste of his later works. The musical interest is good throughout both the concerto and sonata. This album should prove to be just what you are looking for to help complete your Beethoven collection.

Popular

"SOMETHING TO SWING ABOUT" Carmen McRae with Orchestra directed by Ernie Wilkens. Kapp KL-1169 (LP); KS-3053 (stereo). Carmen's latest album are uptempo swinging arrangements written by Ernie Wilkins. The sounds generated by these two are imaginative, breathtaking and well just cool, dad. Members of the all - star band are Zoot Sims (tenor), Richard Williams (trumpet), Jimmy Cleveland (trombone), Phil Woods (alto), and Dick Katz (piano). Good attention has been paid to the recorded sound and stereo balance by the Kapp technicians. Some of the selections include "Three Little Words", "That's For Me", "Love Is A Simple Thing", and "Falling In Love With Love."

Memo To Civil War Buffs Now

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) —Memo to Civil War buffs in this time of centennial exactitude:

Don't pick on Saul Levitt. After all, he's the first to put a segment of your favorite epic on the Broadway stage in this momentous year. Be grateful.

In the first place, Levitt is a little fellow. Secondly, he's a dramatist, and, although he's fond of your favorite period, he's not a fanatical disciple of its chapter and verse. He doesn't care whether Stonewall Jackson did or did not trim his beard before Chancellorsville, or what brand of whisky Grant used to win the war.

FOUR YEARS

"The dramatist dealing with historical matters has the right—rather, the duty—to juggle details to get theatrical effectiveness so long as he doesn't distort the over-all picture beyond recognition," said Levitt, author of the favorably received "The Andersonville Trial" at Henry Miller's Theater.

"I've been asked where I get the license to stress the moral problem of choosing between military orders and common decency, as I do in the play. The matter is inherent in the records of the trial. Possibly not to the extent that it shows up in the play, but, as a dramatist, I have to try to achieve a theatrically effective point of view, or I have no play at all if I adhere strictly to the official record."

Actually, "The Andersonville Trial" goes back some four years with Levitt, and he got interested in it, not through any special attachment to the Civil War period, but because it appealed to him simply as an interesting legal case which he chanced upon while going through a book about famous trials.

NO PARALLEL

His original script was written for television. After various misadventures in that field, it finally wound up as a one-hour show on the late CBS "Climax" program. After that Levitt rewrote it for the stage. The play deals with the trial of Confederate Captain Wirz in 1865 on accorted charges of being responsible, as camp commandant, for the death of thousands of union soldiers in the Andersonville, Ga., prison.

"There is one other thing I'd like to make clear aside from the fact that I didn't write this play because of a dedication to Civil War events," Levitt said. "I also didn't write it because I wanted to make a preachment about war criminals linked to the experience of our own time with the trials of the Nazi leaders at Nuremberg.

"The reviewers have brought out this point with varying degrees of emphasis. My only answer is that the Wirz story impressed me as rich dramatic material only, and that I was not concerned with drawing a parallel or making a propaganda point by implication."

Human Cousin; Scores With His First Try

COUSIN TO HUMAN. By Jane Mayhall. Harcourt Brace. $4.50.

Lacy Cole, 15, plays the piano, goes to school, has a friend Valeda, a practical mother Cleanth, an improvident father Norman, a brother who has left home to marry, a sporty cousin Sarah, a teacher Mr. Jackson.

The story is set in Louisville, Ky., where the author of this first novel was born.

Yet it isn't a story, really, it's closer perhaps to a documentary. Lacy visits her ill grandfather whose grim prospects are the poor house and a pauper's grave; she sees her father squander foolishly the pennies her mother has skimped painfully to save; she observes the worldliness of cousin Sarah and the reckless ways of Valeda; she has a wrestle with a boy and a fight with a girl too fond of her and long baffling sessions with Mr. Jackson who thinks she's talented and feels, too strongly, how lovable she is. At the end, just as she plans to escape to study music in Boston, she has contacts almost too scaring to believe with violent, agonizing death.

This is an unusually honest and straightforward novel, never overdrawn, never glamorized. You may suspect Mr. Jackson — and Miss Mayhall, too, maybe — over estimate Lacy's talent. Yet she is an uncommon child. "Cousin to Human" gives you the rare experience of watching the mysterious process by which chance and circumstance singled her out for a promising future. This is the social weeding - out process. If Lacy is a genius, she owes it all to people only Miss Mayhall would have thought to choose — Cleanth Valeda, Norman, cousin Sarah, William and Tessie, Aunt Dinna, Mr. Jackson and her entire multicolored circle.

Silver Keys; Digging In Deep At Fast Pace

THE SILVERY KEYS. By Clifford Lindsey Alderman. Putnam. $3.95.

The Maine coast — summer —1675 — what a pioneering time and prosiac place to get ideas about sunken treasures in Bahama waters! But that's what Jon Marsh and Willie Phips are up to at the opening of this novel based on the true story of Sir William Phips. He marries money so he can build a ship and sail in search of Spanish gold lying fathoms deep in ancient galleons. Before he and his friend can ever grasp the fabulous wealth revealed to them on an old map, they must sue for the help of Charles II and later James II, and time after time fight off a conniving pair of villains, Warren and Knepp. Their other enemies, or so it seems for a worrisome long time, are a conniving pair of pretty girls, Griselda and Ann.

Alderman in his third novel sets a fast pace and whether he's in London, Boston, Montsweag, some romantic southern port or aboard ship, doesn't let it slacken.

New Approach To A Biography On A Governor

THE GOVERNOR AND HIS LADY. By Earl Conrad. Putnam. $5.95.

The governor of the title is William Henry Seward of New York, better known for his statesmanship while secretary of state in the Lincoln cabinet. The lady is his wife Frances.

Their life together was a strange one. Seward, pursuing his ambition for public life and politics, was away from home for months at a time. His wife, lonely and neurotic, took refuge in invalidism and isolation.

Earl Conrad has written a tender, sympathetic chronicle that will attract many readers who might shy from a sober biographical study. Unfortunately, he is one of those authors who takes liberties with facts — he reconstructs conversations, even thoughts, word for word. At one point, we are given more than a page of direct quotes representing a Seward soliloquy with himself. The most casual conversations are reproduced with all the cloakings of authentic quotes.

To jumble matters even more, there is no hint of a bibliography, not a footnote, on sources. The reader has no guidance to judge between fact and fancy. As a matter of fact, there isn't even a picture of Seward.

'Talk' Tells An Incredible Story

A HERITAGE AND ITS HISTORY. By I. Compton-Burnett. Simon & Schuster. $3.75.

Two brothers, Hamish and Sir Simon; Hamish's wife Julia; their two sons Simon and Walter; the servant Deakin; and no less important in this fascinating novel, the great old English house itself in which they and preceding Challoners have lived for scores of years or centuries—these are the principal figures in this new novel from Miss Ivy Compton-Burnett.

At the close of the story a long generation later, there remain some familiar faces, Julia, Simon, Walter, Deakin, for instance, and some fresh ones have appeared: Fanny and Rhoda, a young Hamish, Marcia, Naomi, Ralph, Graham, Claud, Emma. Miss Dolton, and always the Challoner mansion, originally the property of Sir Simon, who was to leave it to the older Hamish who in turn would bequeath it to his elder son Simon.

The "heritage" of the title is this property; and the junior Simon's love, in fact his passion for it — a sort of possessiveness which Americans with their apartments by the month and their repeated May-Day moving can't really share — serves importantly to motivate the story. In brief, the senior Hamish's death leaves Sir Simon so lonely that he marries Rhoda. Since it is a marriage in form only, Rhoda, also lonely, yields to young Simon's advances, and they have a child, Hamish. The secret is known only to Walter, the titular father, the actual father and the mother. But this gives Sir Simon a direct descendant of his own, or so it looks to the larger world, and is thus due to deprive young Simon of the great house he cherishes — a life - long craving thus sacrificed to a moment's pleasure. He marries Rhoda's sister Fanny; among their children is Naomi; young Hamish falls in love with her and wants to marry her — the daughter though he doesn't know it of his own father.

So the story develops, in a tone more serious than usual in Miss Compton - Burnett, along a sinister line from adultery toward incest. But though you accept this plot and these people, too, as quite credible, the thing about this author is, as always, not her matter but her manner. It is almost entirely dialogue. Once in a while "he said" or "she said" provides a check on the speaker's identity; once in a while a door opens or closes to indicate an entrance or departure; once in a great while a gesture is described to intensify a mood. Otherwise, here are solid pages, indeed a solid book, of conversation.

But beyond that, it is a very special kind of conversation; it is uniquely I-for-Inimitable Compton - Burnett conversation, dry, bold, formal, superior all at once, and never for one syllable realistic. But it is notional and develops ideas. Someone starts the ball rolling and off it goes at an unpredictable speed in an unforeseeable direction for an unguessable distance. This is not always easy to read, and you can never skip a word. But no one else alive writes talk as good as this, as driving, pointed and inevitable.

Family Row Fatal To Two In Connecticut

ASHFORD, Conn. (AP)—What was described by state police as a family row burst into rifle fire early today, and a 53-year-old woman and her 19-year-old stepdaughter were killed.

State police from the Stafford Springs Troop said Mrs. Mery Naun was killed instantly in her home. Her stepdaughter, Brenda, 19, died at the Johnson Memorial Hospital at nearby Stafford Springs shortly after the shooting.

Being held for questioning in connection with the shooting was James F. Naun, 48, husband of the dead woman, who was captured at the home of a neighbor by state police shortly after the shooting.

Lt. Edward Formeister, commanding officer at the Stafford Springs Troop, said the shooting had been witnessed by George Naun, 15, a stepson of the dead woman. The boy fled to the nearby home of Mrs. Carl Welch, and she called the police.

Jules Vernes' Greatest Now On Screen

Jules Verne, the first and perhaps the greatest of all science fiction writers, was more than a century ahead of his time when in his nineteenth century writings he described the atomic submarines and the airships that have become the fare of modern warfare. Who know: how far ahead he was looking when in 1864 he wrote "Journey to the Center of the Earth," now a Twentieth Century - Fox production opening today at the Paramount Theatre, about man's first invasion of inner space?

Fox doesn't claim to answer the question in its forthcoming CinemaScope, De Luxe color film, but it will give you an excellent glimpse at the imagined marvels that are said to lie under the earth's crust.

The guides on this perilous journey into the innards of the earth are none other than Pat Boone, James Mason, Diane Baker, Arlene Dahl and Peter Ronson, a new face on the screen from Iceland, and his pet duck, Gertrude.

On their way to the lost city of Atlantis, this attractive quintet actually encounters a giant forest of mushroom trees, a reptile stampede, a cavern of glistening quartz, an underground natural shower, a magnetic storm, a waterspout, and a huge subterranean ocean. The expedition begins in Iceland and ends when the party rides a great altar stone — like a cosmic elevator — up through the volcano Stromboli and out onto the floor of the Mediterranean Sea.

James Mason plays the part of the University of Edinburgh geology professor who leads the expedition. Mason's an old hand at Jules Verne, having played the dour Captain Nemo, master of the Nautilus, in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

As the lady explorer, Arlene Dahl is making a departure from her usual sophisticated roles. No chic wardrobe for her in "Journey." In fact, her costume gets more and more tattered and scant as the journey progresses.

"Journey" is the third picture for Diane Baker, who debuted as the quiet older sister Marbot in George Stevens' Twentieth production "Diary of Anne Frank," and followed up with a lead in Jerry Wald's "Best of Everything." A finalist in the annual Miss Rheingold contest a few seasons back, Diane plays Jenny in the picture, James Mason's daughter, and Pat Boone's intended.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

The blocking has been done on Sabrina and now the cast can get down to the learning of lines. Blocking as you probably know is each move that has to be memorized along with the lines. It looks so natural when a person is saying his line and moving —but each step, raise of the hand, facing the right or left of the stage, etc., has been learned very carefully before the show opens.

A partial cast was named last week and the remainder is as follows: Linus Larrabee, Jr., Paul d'Argenson, Bernard Lyons; a girl, Florette Snyder. This is the first appearance for each of these at our thatre. Lyons is a student at Louisiana Tech commuting from his residence in Monroe. Florette Snyder, a high school student, is the daughter of Sol and Anna Snyder of Bastrop, active members of Little Theatre for a number of years.

Other cast members making their debut at Monroe Little Theatre are: Joanne Lay, Jim Knuckles, Florence Gentry, and Violet Cotton.

Joanne Lay, a school teacher in Monroe, is certainly no stranger to the stage. This summer Monroe audiences saw her in Oklahoma and perhaps other performances at Louisiana Tech.

Jim Knuckles is a newcomer to Monroe and a native Texan. He was just released from the service about a month ago and Little Theatre is glad to welcome him.

The role of Gretchen will be played by Florence Gentry, a native of Monroe.

In the leading femine role will be Violet Cottor. Vi is also a schoolteacher, a graduate of Tech and has participated in plays there.

Patsy Pickett has been active in our Little Theatre for several years. Two years ago she can be remembered for her wonderful cockney dialect in Witness for the Prosecution and last year her imaginative stories in Detective Story.

Our recent bride, Joanne Genung Busby, is well known in the Monroe area as a successful businesswoman with her "Joanne's House of Sound" music store. Joanne's husband, Jerry, missed her previous performances in Anastasia and Detective Story.

Dr. Jack Rawls of Bastrop is a trooper we have missed for the last two years. Jack can well be remembered for his superb performance as Percival Browne in Boyfriend and another show that year — Light Up The Sky.

Colonel Dick Longfellow, last seen on the panel of "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", will be talking this play in his portrayal of Fairchild.

The two most outstanding shows on Broadway according to Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. Marguerite Guerriero, are Mary Martin in "The Sound of Music" and "The Miracle Worker" with Patty Duke and Anne Bancroft. While in New York they also attended Geo. Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House", "A Majority of One," "Flower Drum Song," and "A Distant Bell."

Opening date for Sabrina will be announced next week.

'NEVER SO FEW' — Frank Sinatra and Gino Lollobrigida, in her first Hollywood-filmed motion picture, for the romantic team of "Never So Few." which starts Wednesday at the Jim Theatre. Co-starring in the big cast are Peter Lawford, Steve McQueen, Richard Johnson, Paul Henreid, Brian Donlevy and Dean Jones.

World Waiting On Outcome Of Space Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world is watching to see whether the United States or the Soviet Union is first to put a man into space, the head of the U.S. Information Agency said Friday.

As of now, added George V. Allen, the betting is that the Soviet Union wins.

In testimony before the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, Allen said the United States has suffered a devastating propaganda defeat through Soviet space accomplishments.

In many parts of the world, he said, space has become the symbol of world leadership in all military, scientific and technological fields.

"And the great expectations of American achievements in space are no longer in evidence," he said. "Soviet space leadership has been widely accepted."

Allen said no matter how the United States wants to look at the situation, the fact is it is in a space race with the U.S.S.R.

"We can't deny it and we can't avoid it," he said. "No matter what we do, we are in it. And right now the race is primarily to see who is going to put the first man up there."

Allen, whose testimony was based on the information agency's worldwide contacts and on foreign opinion polls, was the second high-ranking government official to agree the United States is in a space race, a position heretofore shunned by the administration.

Undersecretary of State Livingston T. Merchant, testifying before the committee Wednesday, added a fervent hope that the United States would be next to achieve something spectacular in the field.

Divers Slated To Hunt Debris Of Gulf Plane

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Navy ship Penguin will leave Key West, Fla., Monday with divers aboard to search for wreckage of the National Airlines plane which went down in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16 with a loss of 42 lives.

Navy spokesmen said they hope to locate the wreckage Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday.

The Navy located an object on the Gulf floor with electronic sounding equipment last Saturday night, a short distance off the southern tip of Louisiana in the general area where the plane went down.

Only one-tenth of one per cent of the DC-7B four-engine plane's wreckage has been recovered, along with the bodies of 13 passengers.

Investigators, in the dark about what caused the crash, are anxious to recover the wreckage in order to determine the cause.

The FBI's arrest of Dr. Robert V. Spears in an Arizona motel this week led to speculation that there may have been a bomb aboard. Spears was listed as a passenger aboard the plane. The speculation rose even higher when it was learned that Spears had electric tape and flashlight batteries along with dynamite blasting caps in his luggage picked up at a Phoenix motel. He also had a $100.000 insurance policy.

Earlier, a cache of dynamite had been found at the place where Spears was hiding out in Arizona.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

REBEL REVIEW

The West Monroe High football Rebels will make a strong challenge for the state triple-A championship this year if the contentions of the West Monroe Quarterback Club are correct, but we believe Coach Cecil Pirkey will be happy if the Rebs can just make a strong district race. However, if the Rebs can pass the district, Pirkey could be happier.

"We do have experience . . . . we now have fewer holes in the forward wall than when beginning (a season) in the past . . . . we will have the fastest, hardest hitting backfield in our history," are the raves mailed within the week to old Quarterback Club members and publicity outlets in drumming up interest for a club meeting tomorrow night at the WMHS field house, 7:30 o'clock.

Actually, West Monroe hasn't had a bad season under Pirkey who is aiming for his fourth campaign. The Rebs of '56 had won only one, tied two, and lost eight, but jumped to a 7-3 season in '57, Pirkey's first year with the Confederates. For three Pirkey campaigns the Rebs show an 18-12-1 record.

The Quarterbacks have a goal of 400 members to help carry out a program that includes a training camp in August, a junior-senior game to highlight spring work, and a public luncheon in March. They hope to replenish their membership at tomorrow's meeting. They think prospects of one of West Monroe's best teams will be a major selling point.

Certainly the Rebs will have a team with a little more experience than the one that opened the '59 season against Neville's state double-A champions with nine new faces in the starting lineup. The line should be some better, despite heavy graduation losses hitting the tackles, and a crackerjack backfield appears in the making.

Five tackles——Glenn Bell, Steve Hamm, Kenneth Wilson, Hiram Young, and Richard Booker—have ended their Reb careers. Only tackles Tommy Averett and Richard Drew return from the '59 squad, but already Pirkey is planning to move center Jimmy Randall, a 190-pounder letterman, to tackle, thus improving the lot of this department. Joe Pleasant, Jerry Harris, and Ory Miller are gone from the guards, but starter Lamar Greer returns with Jewel McBroom, who played enough to letter last season.

Center and the ends will be in capable hands. "Butch" Lobrano, who clinched the pivot as a sophomore, has two more seasons at the hub. Vance Harrelson backs him up. All the ends are returning, including all-district Jimmy VanZile. The end situation is a complete reverse from a year ago when Pirkey lost six terminals and had to come up with a complete new set for '59. Back with VanZile are Fred Hooter, Stanley Green, Robert Parker, Larry McCullough, and Rickie Fields.

Despite backfield losses in Ronnie Farmer, John Moses, Leon Miletello, Dwain Johnston, Sidney White, and Roscoe Holcomb, the Rebs have a fine starting trio apparently assured in Buck Fox, John Covington, and Don Harrel. All they need is a quarterback to go with them. Deciding on the quarter is the Pirkey problem in the backfield. John Green, David Martin, Ronnie Perkins, and Fred Newton are squadmen due to return for backfield duty. Sophs up from the freshman squad should be a big help. New names like Doerner, Liner Funderburk, Smith are due to show.

Summarizing: The line is not hurting as bad as a year ago. The backfield is better fixed of the two departments, but needs a quarterback.

The Quarterback Club has placed arrangements for their "public luncheon" in the hands of a committee of past club presidents—Lawrence Wilson, F. C. McConnell, John C. Watson, Johnny Scalia, Dick Bell, William L. Stovall, and C. O. Wilson. President of the 'Backs for the new year is George VanZile.

NEW TIGER TALENT

Thirty-one high school seniors have accepted grant-in-aid football scholarships at Louisiana State University in the past few weeks, and the list includes nine north Louisiana boys, thirteen from the southern section, and nine out-of-state.

The list shows two of the biggest linemen in the state in Mickey Cox, Neville of Monroe and Rob Hucklebridge, Bossier City, both 225-pounders, but they're topped in weight by Ted Randolph, a 266-pounder of Niles, Ohio.

In addition to Cox and Hucklebridge, the north Louisiana representatives on the 1960 LSU freshman squad are due to be linemen Malcolm Hodnett, 200, Minden, and Perry Riley, 210, a Rodessa senior at North Caddo; and backs Pat Shows, 175, Ruston; Ken Newton, 175, Delhi; Derwood Thomas, 165, Homer; and Larry Sessions, 175, and Bain Slack, 165, both of Springhill.

Southern state additions are linemen Walker Chaney, 180, Zachary; S. P. LaRussa, 185, St. Francis of Houma; Remi Prudhomme, 190, Opelousas; Jerome Young, 205, Lafayette; Richard Granier, 207, St. James; Ralph Pere, 195, LaRose; Milton Trosclair, 200 Thibodaux; and James Turner, 190, Istrouma of Baton Rouge; and backs Anthony Armand, 160, Bunkie; Clarence Gaudin, 175, Redemptorist of Baton Rouge; Garland Hamic, 195, Crowley; Edward Red, 190, Lafayette; and Ruffin Rodrique, 175, Thibodaux.

From outside Louisiana will come, in addition to Randolph, linemen Mike Morgan, 185, Natchez, Miss.; Charles Simmons, 190, Moss Point, Miss.; Giles Hamm, 200, Memphis, Tenn.; and Joe Sanders, 186, Smackover, Ark., and backs Mike Edwardes, Texarkana, Ark.; White Graves, Crystal Springs, Miss.; Charles Marshall, 185, Memphis, Tenn.; and Lee Rikard, 165, Semmes, Ala.

Tribe Outguns Nicholls, 95-81

Hot Redskins Race To 2nd Win Of Year

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Northeast's Indians — as sharp a set of shooters as the braves that massacred Custer — riddled familiar Nicholls, 95-81, here last night for their second win of the season and first in three tries over the visitors.

Hitting a torrid 55 per cent from the floor, Lenny Fant's Redskins took over the lead for good with a hot streak in the early moments of the game and were never headed after the first three minutes as they galloped to their second win against fifteen defeats, setting a season scoring record in the process.

The Tribe's 95 points were the most this season. The former high was 82, achieved against the same Nicholls team in the Northeast Tournament in late December. Northeast lost that one, 92-82.

Chief deadeye for the Indians was Lanny Johnson, high point man for the winners with 23, but everybody got into the act in a great team performance.

All five starters hit in double figures and late-blossoming Robert Cook turned in great backboard game similar to the one he played in the win over Southwestern, pulling down a high of 15 rebounds and scoring 14 points.

Fred Bradley got 16 points, big Charley Barnes 15 and Ronald Doyle 14.

Slim Frank Etheridge of Nicholls was the game's high scorer with 24 points, keeping the Thibodaux club within reaching distance with a hot second half.

Nicholls, which defeated Northeast, 72-55, in the first of the teams' three games, took its 7th defeat in 17 games. The south Louisiana team took as many shots as Northeast, 76, but could hit on only 32 compared to the Indians' 41 connections.

Nicholls drew first blood in the game, played before a small crowd, on Jim Geiger's basket with slightly over a minute gone. Johnson tied it up 10 seconds later before John Vickers gave Nicholls the lead again with a free throw.

Cook sank a charity toss for Northeast to tie it up at 3-3 and Barnes put the Indians ahead at 5-3 with 3:05 gone. But Frederick knotted the count again with a fielder 3:55 deep in the game.

Then Northeast racked up four straight field goals and a charity throw while the visitors went scoreless to go ahead to stay. By the time Geiger hit again with 13:20 remaining in the half, Northeast had a 14-7 lead and was on its way to win No. 2.

Northeast increased its margin to 14 points on Dave Harkins' basket with 3:45 left but a late spurt by the visitors cut the lead to 42-34 at halftime.

A field goal and free throw by Cook quickly stretched Northeast's lead as the second half opened. Nicholls chopped the lead down to eight points twice early in the half but that was as close as they got.

With 4:15 left, Barnes sank the last of two free throws to push Northeast's total to 83 points and the Indians continued to hit the basket regularly to win easily.

Last night's game was the last of the month for Northeast. The Tribe will next see action Feb. 1 with a GSC game against Southeastern at Hammond. The Indians play Southeastern here Feb. 6 in their next home game.

Baton-twirling competition provided the between-halves entertainment with girls from Winnfield, Pineville and Ferriday performing. Miss Cherrie Martin of Pineville was the winner and will compete in the finals later this season.

Lions Top Tigers On Big First Half

Ouachita handcuffed Neville's first half offensive with only one field goal, then withstood a furious second half comeback to defeat the Tigers, 52-41, here Saturday night. The Tiger girls squeezed out a 46-45 thriller over Ouachita in the night's opener.

The Lions threatened to make the game a complete rout through the first 16 minutes, smothering the Bengal point-makers and building up a commanding 24-5 advantage at intermission. But the hosts, taking advantage of some loose Ouachita ball handling and playing a heads up game, whittled away steadily at the scoreboard in the final two quarters before the Lions snapped back to preserve the victory.

The Ouachita win evened the inter-city series at one game apiece and avenged a 43-32 setback at the hands of the north Monroe school in the Calhoun tournament.

Harry "Rabbit" Crowe, Ouachita's foul-drawing sharpshooter, maintained his 15.5 average, connecting for 16 points to take game scoring honors. Little Dooley Haddad, who bagged his team's first three field goals in the initial 17 minutes of play led the Tigers with 12. Don Long of Ouachita also pitched in 12 counters and Mike Fettinger of the osers sacked 11.

With the Neville attack anything but that in the opening two stanzas, the Lions cruised to a whopping lead at the half. Haddad got a field goal and L. M. Welch hit two free tries and Ad alker got one in the first quarter for Neville and that was all the Tigers had at the half. The Lions blanked them in the second quarter as Neville missed on five four shot attempts.

Then in the second half the Tigers made a game of it, narrowing the lead to seven points early in the fourth. With Ouachita leading 30-13 midway in the third, the Bengals finally found the range. Welch, Fettinger and Frank Keith hit consecutive fielders and Fettinger added a charity toss to make it 30-20. Crowe hit for two and then Neville pulled off the game's biggest oddity, scoring a pair of 30-foot field goals in the final five seconds Fettinger stole the ball at half of the quarter.

Haddad tosed in the first one from the right side and a couple os seconds Fettinger stole the ball at half court and his shot touched on the bottom of the net.

Fettinger's two points from the line early in the fourth stanza brought the Tigers to within seven points of the lead but Long, Johnny Roach and Hendrix found the basket to give Ouachita a safe lead.

The Lions upped their season record to 10-13 while the Tigers stayed above the .500 mark with a 10-8 slate.

Ouachita hosts Bossier City Tuesday night in a pair of boys games. The contest will be the Lions' third district 1-AAA encounter.

Neville's girls overcame a six-point deficit in the final eight minutes to take the first game. With the score knotted a 10 10 after a quarter, Ouachita hit a hot streak and moved out front 27-18 at the half and were ahead 34-28 after the third turn.

The Tigerettes' twin point makers, Cecile Menuet and Brenda Cobb, paced the victory with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Janice Holloway of Ouachita was the game's leading scorer with 20.

Wins Calvin Cage Crown

CALVIN, La. (Special) Winnfield boys and Atlanta girls took first place honors in the annual Calvin cage tournament here last night.

Winnfield whipped Calvin, 60-57, in the boys finals and Atlanta downed Calvin, 26 24, in the girls championship contest. Gary Rayburn topped the Winnfield effort with 17 points while Benny Barridge hooped 20 for Calvin. Patty Bennett scored the winning goal and had 13 for the game for Atlanta. Linda Lowe had 8 for the Calvin girls.

Calvin tripped Atlanta, 65-44, and Winnfield edged Weston, 62-57, in boys semifinals and Calvin defeated Winnfield, 39 37, and Atlanta handed Saline its second loss in 35 games, 42-34, in girls semifinal play.

Donald Bates of Calvin hit on 42 of 50 free throws to win the tournament foul shooting contest. James Johnson of Verda otched 41 and Danny Carpenter of Calvin connected with 40.

Marilyn Thomas won the girls foul shooting title with 39 out of 50. Sue Dearman of Sikes had 37 and Jackie Terreira of Sikes had 36.

Davis, Cannon Guests At Hunt

RUSTON (Special) — Governor-elect Jimmie Davis and Billy Cannon, LSU football phenomenon, yesterday tried their hand at bird shooting near Ruston. Davis and Cannon were members of a hunting party hosted by former lieutenant governor C. E. (Cap) Barham.

Although the party was comprised largely of politicians, Davis stated that the gathering was "strictly non-political."

Murray Rallies To Beat Tech In Sluggish Game

MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — Murray State rallied to beat Louisiana Tech 54-47 Saturday night in a sluggish basketball game where defense was the main factor.

Murray shot often from the outside to counter Tech's zone defense, but connected for only 33 per cent—lowest of the season. Tech hit only 30 per cent.

Tech led 34-28 at intermission. Jarrell Graham's basket put Murray ahead 44-43 midway the last half and the host team stretched the gap.

Joe Daigle of Tech scored 17 points. Gene Herndon's 15 was high for Murray.

The Greensboro Generals and the Charlotte Clippers represent North Carolina in the Eastern Hockey League.

NEW PUTTER PAYS OFF

Venturi Cards Subpar 68 To Lead By One Stroke

By JACK STEVENSON

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)— Ken Venturi fashioned a 4-under-par 68 over the tricky Cypress Point Course Saturday for the third round lead at 209 in Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament.

Venturi was using a new putter that he had designed.

The San Francisco native now playing out of Palo Alto, dropped a 25-foot uphill putt on the 11th hole for his fourth birdie of the day. He described it as "the best putt I can remember."

Ken needed it for a one-stroke advantage over San Diego's Gene Littler who finished with a 71 over Cypress and a total of 210. Littler made the nine-hole turn 4-under par but lost three strokes on the final nine.

Sunday the golfers all shoot their final 18 holes of the 72-hole event with its $4,000 top prize for the leading pro and $2,000 for the pro on the championship pro-amateur team.

Deadlocked in third place at 212 were Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who had a 70 over the Pebble Beach Course, and Don January with a 69 there.

Billy Maxwell of Dallas, Tex., wound up at 213 with a 68.

Second-round leader Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., slipped to a 77 and a 216. Ed Oliver, Denver, shot a 73 at Pebble Beach for 213.

Venturi sank birdie putts of 6 and 15 feet at the second and eighth holes and the long one at the 11th. At No. 10 he hit his third shot 6 inches from the hole and sank the putt for his other birdie. He didn't go over par on any hole.

Littler fired the first nine in 32 with birdie putts of 12, 8, 20, 2½ and 12 feet. But on the 12th, he went 2-over-par and he bogeyed the 14th and 16th. He kept second place to himself with a 12-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

In the pro-amateur division, two teams tied for first with best-ball totals of 195.

Deadlocked were pro Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., and Don Schwab of Santa Monica, Calif., and George Bayer of Pasadena with Morgan Darofsky of Lafayette, Calif. The first pair had 64 and the second carded 63.

George Buzzini of Turlock, Calif. enlivened the proceedings with the first hole-in-one of his career. The veteran pro used a No. 2 wood to hole out from the tee on the 218-yard 17th at Pebble Beach. But he finished well back after the third round with a 226.

The leaders:

Ken Venturi	70-71-68—209

West Monroe Boys Take Local Meet

The West Monroe Junior High boys won their own tournament here last night when they romped past Ruston 50-36 behind Lawrence Robinson's 20 points.

Melvin Shows, of Ruston was high scorer in the meet final with 22 markers to his credit.

Carolyn Carson, of Jefferson, scored 25 of her teams 35 points as Jefferson downed West Monroe 35-18 in the girls finals. Betty Patton had nine points for the losers.

In the boys consolation round Bastrop topped Jefferson 25-24 in a hard fought contest. Head was high for the winners with 11 points, while Joe Canal collected 12 for Jefferson.

The girls consolation saw Ouachita take a 20-19 contest from Lee. Bradford and McCoch had nine each for Ouachita, while Ensminger collected eight for the losers.

Listed below is the boys all tournament team for the tournament:

Melvin Shows, Ruston; Bill Adney, Ruston; Lawrence Robinson, West Monroe; Chuck Crawford, West Monroe; Joe Canal, Jefferson.

The girls all tournament team consisted of Carson and Vonadore, of Jefferson, English and Puckett, Sterlington, Osborne, West Monroe, and Crow, of Lee.

Block Boys Beat Belmont At Ferriday

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Block boys topped Belmont, 51-46, and Newellton girls squeezed past Ferriday, 28-26, in the finals of the Ferriday invitational tournament here last night.

Billy Eaves led the Belmont attack with 15 points, while Billy Brooks tossed in 18 for the winners. Linda Harper was high for the winning girls with 15 markers, and Dorothy Staggs collected 12 for Ferriday.

In the boys consolation game for third place, Monterey downed St. Joseph, 40-22, as Butch Cross notched 12 points for the winners. Fowler had seven markers for St. Joseph.

Monteray trounced Vidalia, 45-13, in the girls consolation contest, as Betty Trisler scored 30 points for the winners. Johnnie Calhoune had five for the losers.

The boys all-tournament consisted of Butch Cross, Monteray, Billy Edwards, Block, Jimmy Wyatt, Belmont, Eaves, Belmont, and Billy Brooks, Block.

The girls all-tournament selections included Trisler, Monteray, Harper, Newellton, Staggs, Ferriday, Stevens, Ferriday; Cullens, Newellton, and Clark, Newellton.

Robertson Held To 13 Points But Cincy Wins

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Fabulous Oscar Robertson was held to 13 points Saturday night, but No. 1 ranked Cincinnati managed to squeek by upset-minded Duquesne for a 61-58 basketball victory.

Only once before has the Big O, the nation's leading scorer, been held to 13 points. Houston did it last season.

Despite All-America Robertson's low scoring output, Cincinnati never trailed while running its record to 14-1. The Bearcats lost their first game last week to Bradley.

With only 39 seconds remaining in the game, the Dukes—4-9 for the season — threatened to take the lead and Cincinnati Coach George Smith was on his feet.

FAIRVIEW WINS

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Fairview Cardinals kept a clean slate in district 4-AA play here last night when they downed Crossett 45-39. Three men scored all of the winners points, as Churchill led the trio with 22 markers.

Crossett whose district record leveled out at 3-3 with the loss was paced by Wayne Jackson with 11 points, and Robert Mizell who was the games leading rebounder with 16 grabs.

The other members of Fairview's three man scoring punch were Howerton and Brodnax with 13 and 10 respectively. The Cards now have a 4-0 district record.

In a junior game, Crossett topped the visitors 32-28, as Richard Merideth and Alan Etheridge had 10 each for the winners. Keith Dunlap was high for Fairview with 16 points.

Celts Cruise To 130-121 Win

BOTON (AP)—The hot-handed Boston Celtics, led by Tom Heinsohn's 32 points, buried Syracuse under an early point avalanche and went on to a 130-121 National Basketball Assn. victory.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Eastern Division leaders, who now lead runner-up Philadelphia by five games.

Though the Nationals, tough for the defending world champion all year, moved closer after intermission they couldn't erase the lead fashioned on Boston's fast getaway.

The Celtics stepped out to a 42-23 first period bulge and were in front 73-48 at halftime.

In that initial quarter, Heinsohn hit on six of seven field goal tries for 12 points. Bill Russell connected on five out of seven and added 14 rebounds.

George Yardley and Dick Barnett each contributed 20 points to the losing cause.

St. Matthew's Wins Baskin Tournament

BASKIN, La. (Special) — Charley Biggar led the way with 17 points as St. Matthew's whipped Baskin, 64-53, in the championship game of the annual Baskin basketball tournament here last night.

Crowville's girls toppled Central 64-36, to win their division.

Miller pushed in 13 points in the losing effort for Baskin. Pierce was the big gun in the Crowville victory, scoring 36 points, while Walker topped Central with 20.

The Irish cruised past Central, 67-47, and Baskin defeated Fort Necessity, 72-63, earlier in the day to gain the finals. Accardo tossed in 18 points for St. Matthew's and Blake connected on 18 for Central. Miller again paced Baskin with 20 points while Billy Linder hooped 21 for the Fort quint.

In girls' semifinal play Central toppled Baskin, 51-44, and Crowville moved past Mangham, 43-39. Pierce was Crowville's leading scorer with 28 points. Johns netted 19 for Mangham. Blake sparked the Central win with 32 counters and Evans steered Baskin with 22.

Baptists To Hear Cannon

SHREVEPORT (UPI) — Billy Cannon, Louisiana State's All-America halfback, will be a speaker at a three-day evangelism world missions conference beginning here Feb. 25.

An estimated 10,000 Louisiana Baptists are expected at the conference. Night sessions will be held in Municipal Auditorium and day meetings at the First Baptist Church.

Topic of Cannon's talk will be "What My Church Means To Me."

Forest Cops 28th To Win L.P. Meet

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Forest continued its unbeaten ways last night, defeating Kilbourne, 51-44, to win the championship of a tournament here last night.

The host Lake Providence girls jolted the Forest sextet, 40-28, in the other championship game.

Lanky Larry Butler, averaging better than 20 points per game, tossed in 19 points as Arlon Adams' quint notched its 28th consecutive victory without a loss. Billy Hendrix, the tournament's most outstanding player, paced Gene Stephens' Kilbourne crew with 20 points.

Johnson was high with 20 markers in the Lake Providence triumph. Betty Jo McCowan chalked up 19 points for the Forest girls.

Epps toppled before Kilbourne, 53-42, and Forest defeated Oak Grove, 50-32, in boys semifinal play. Hendrix led Kilbourne with 29 points and Ken Thrower hit 18 for Epps. Butler was again the Forest sparkplug, netting 19 points while Ronnie Myrick put in 16 for Cecil Johnson's Oak Grovers.

In girls semifinal action Lake Providence turned back Kilbourne, 45-33, and Foreet edged Oak Grove, 38-33. Johnson notched 27 for the Lakers and Phyllis Dosher dropped in 14 to top Kilbourne. McCowan with 22 was high for Forest and Richey hooped 18 for Oak Grove.

Tallulah boys and Epps girls received the tourney sportsmanship awards.

Don Bragg Will Enter SLI Relays

LAFAYETTE, La. (Special) — Though the 32nd Annual Southwestern Relays, proclaimed by many as the greatest track and field carnival in the South, is still some months away from April 7's opening day, Relay director, Bob Evans announced the first of the many stars to be participating with the naming of world's record holder Don Bragg as entered in the pole vault, an open event.

Bragg is the world' Indoor Record holder in the pole vault with a jump of 15 feet, 9 and 5/8 inches. He set the record in Philadelphia in 1959 to break a 16 year record held by Cornelius Warmerdam.

The year 1959 was a big one for Bragg. While the world's record was probably his greatest feat, he also set the European record in Paris with a jump of 15 feet, 5 inches and won the Russian-American meet with a 15 foot 2 and 3/4 inch jump. Don also set the Pan American Record with his victory in the Pan American games with a 15 foot 2 and 1/2 inch leap.

Because of his feats, Bragg was nominated for the Sullivan award and as one of the top ten men in America.

He is currently the National Indoor and Outdoor Champion and is the IC4A Indoor and Outdoor Champion and Record Holder.

Bragg missed the 1956 Olympics due to a pulled muscle and a technicality but has set his sights on making the 1960 U. S. A. team to compete in the Olympics to be held in Rome beginning in August.

Bragg has one other goal to hit this year. He is given a good chance of being the first athlete to clear 16 feet in the pole vault and who knows but that he won't attain his goal and break 16 feet in the 32nd Annual Southwestern Relays to be held in Lafayette April 7, 8, and 9.

Officials Still Attempting To Settle Race

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Perplexed officials worked over sheets of statistics and penalty figures Saturday night trying to determine the winner of the 29th Monte Carlo Auto Rally.

They went to work after the last 79 survivors parked their cars along the palm-lined streets of Monaco at the conclusion of a gruelling 12-hour mountain driving test. Drivers reported icy conditions at some points during the night. Several withdrew or were forced out by accidents.

Two teams named on almost every list of favorites were Walter Shock and Rolph Moll of Germany, driving a Mercedes, and Carl-Otto Bremer and Esko Vainola of Finland in a Swedish-built Saab.

It was generally agreed, however, that any one of a dozen other teams could capture the big prize.

Winners are not expected to be known until around mid-day Sunday.

There was an original starting field of 298 cars which converged on Monte Carlo from various cities in Europe.

Don Delling, Bethel, Conn., and Lt. William Dodd, Amherst, Ohio, were the only surviving U. S. team. They drove a Volvo.

"It wasn't as bad as I thought it was going to be," Delling said after the mountain drive. "We got some penalty points, but I imagine everyone did.

"The worst part was on one sector where the road up a mountain was covered with half mud and half snow. It was a real workout."

Spearsville, Bernice Take Tourney Titles

BERNICE (Special) — David Bailey of Summerfield poured in 34 points here last night, but his team lost to Spearsville, 75-70, in the finals of the local invitational tournament. R. V. Lockwood paced the winners with 24 markers.

The Bernice girls won a 43-34 final contest from Marion, as Betty Jackson was high for the winners with 24 points. Judy Taylor had 18 for the losers.

In semi-final contests, Summerville defeated Marion boys, while Spearsville was downing Farmerville. The girls semi-finals saw Bernice beat Strong Ark., and Marion top Spearsville.

Selected on the boys all tournament team were, Lockwood, Spearsville, Joey Barron, Spearsville, Norris Moss, Summerfield, Don Denton, Summerfield, and Henry Bresser, Marion.

On the girls team were Jackson, Bernice, Elliot, Bernice Taylor, Marion, Drummonds, Strong, Ark., Aulds Spearsville and Fife of Marion.

Schedules LSU

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina 1960 football schedule, released Saturday night, includes a game with Louisiana State University.

The schedule:

Sept. 24, Duke (N); Oct. 1, at Georgia; 14, at Miami (N); 22, North Carolina; 29, at Maryland; Nov. 5, at LSU (N); 12, at Clemson; 19, N. C. State; 26, Wake Forest; Dec. 3, Virginia.

TO PERFORM AT SLI RELAYS — Don Bragg, world record holder in the pole vault, will appear in the 32nd annual Southwestern Relays at Lafayette, La., in April, meet director Bob Evans has announced. Bragg holds the indoor record of 15 feet, nine and five-eighths inches.

WILDLIFE UNIT

Top Sportsman To Be Selected

An Outstanding Conservationist of the Year will be named and officers for 1960 will be elected by the Ouachita Wildlife Unit in a meeting Tuesday night.

The session, described by unit president Jack Rushing as the most important of the year, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Ouachita Parish Agriculture Building in West Monroe.

Highlighting the meeting will be the naming of the Conservationist of the Year award, presented annually to the sportsman who performed best for conservationist.

In addition, the unit's Membership Award will be presented to the member who sold the most memberships during 1959.

Officers for 1960 will be elected with nominations coming from the floor as well as from a committee.

As a sidelight, three shotguns will be given away — one to the hunter who killed the largest mallard this past season, a second for the smallest hunter and a third to be presented from a drawing.

Besides that, plans for the 1960 convention, to be held this year in Lafayette from March 11-13, will be discussed.

"This is the most important meeting of the year," Rushing said. "It not only will honor our hardest workers but also will bring in a new set of officers, which is most important."

All sportsmen in the Twin City area are invited to attend, including ladies and youngsters.

Miss. State, Houston Ink 4-Year Pact

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Mississippi State and the University of Houston have signed a four-year football contract, it was announced Saturday.

Wade Walker, director of Mississippi State athletics, said the contract calls for the first game to be played this Sept. 24.

Walker said he and Houston Athletic Director Harry Foulke signed the contract. The site of the first game has not yet been selected, he said.

Both the 1961 and 1962 games will be played in the 70,000-seat Rice Stadium in Houston, Walker said. The final 1963 tilt will be held in Mississippi.

The Houston Cougars replace Florida on the Maroon's 1960 slate.

But the Gators — one of seven Southeastern Conference teams on the 1959 Maroon slate — will return to the State scheduled in 1962.

Houston and State met only once previously on the gridiron. The Cougars won the 1956 encounter 18-7 during Walker's first season as Maroon head coach.

Oilman Offers To Buy 'Skins From Marshall

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — E. Dale Shaffer, oil millionaire and Detroit sportsman, said Saturday he has made "solid overtures" to George Preston Marshall to buy the Washington Redskins.

Marshall, attending the National Football League's annual meeting here, said the club is not for sale.

Meanwhile, in New York, Harry Wismer, an executive of the New York Titans in the new American Football league, said he was willing to sell his 25 per cent interest in the Redskins to Shaffer.

Leo deOrsey, attorney for the Redskins, said he didn't think Shaffer was interested in minority holdings. Marshall commented that Shaffer was a friend of his and he would be glad to see him buy the Wismer stock.

How's This For A Good Night? —114 Points

BRISTOL, Pa. (UPI) — Bristol High School senior, Pete Cimino, a 17 - year - old scored 114 points on 44 field goals and 26 fouls Friday night to lead his team to a 134-86 victory over Palisades High School in a lower Bucks County basketball league game.

Cimino, a six-foot, two inch, 190 pound pointmaker, hit on 44 of 79 attempts from the floor and connected on 26 of 29 free throws.

Most of his field goals were scored on jump shots from about 20 feet out. He piled up 44 points in the first half and ran wild in the second as Palisades players fouled out of the game repeatedly in their attempts to stop him.

Cimino, the high scorer on an undefeated team, had averaged 23 points in the team's first ten victories before Friday night's contest. His previous high in league competition was 34 points against the same team. He also is the team's top rebounder.

Nationals Top AL Oldtimers In Benefit, 3-0

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The National League team Saturday defeated the American League 3-0 in the annual oldtimers charity game which brought together some of baseball's greatest players of the past and present.

Bill McKechnie, who won three championships during his days in the major leagues, outmanaged his rival Al Lopez, manager of the 1959 pennant winning Chicago White Sox, by resorting to bunts in the seventh inning.

More than 2,200 fans witnessed the March of Dimes charity game at Al Lang Field. The victory put the senior circuit team ahead 3-2 in the series.

McKechnie used a combination of greats in the pitching spot. Rip Sewell, former Pittsburgh ace; Johnny Vander Meer, who pitched two successive no-hitters; Ewell Blackwell, former Cincinnati star, and Bob Porterfield, past Washington and Yankee player, all took to the mound for the Nationals.

Losing pitcher was Tommy Bridges, former Detroit player.

Also included in the American team lineup were such present day players as Johnny Temple, Cleveland; Billy Goodman, Chicago White Sox; and former greats as Johnny Mize, Giants, and Heinie Manush, American League batting king in 1926.

AND NO END IN SIGHT

NFL Meet At Standstill, No Leader, No Decisions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There was no new commissioner, no decision on expansion and no end in sight Saturday to the marathon National Football League meeting.

The only hope for a sudden break in the stalemate over a commissioner appeared a compromise in which a veteran club owner or official would handle the job for one year. Philadelphia's Joe Donoghue and Detroit's Edwin Anderson were mentioned as possibilities.

Another alternative discussed was adjournment for a cooling off period of a month or so.

Apparently San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago Cardinals, Green Bay, Detroit and New York will not desert their No. 1 candidate, attorney Marshall Leahy of San Francisco. However, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh and Baltimore are just as determined that Leahy won't get the job and carry the league office home to San Francisco with him.

The minority doesn't insist on any one candidate. It has supported during the 14 ballots acting Commissioner Austin H. Gunsel, Don Kellett, Baltimore general manager, Paul Schissler, Los Angeles Times, and Anderson.

The one definite objective of the latter group is to keep the league headquarters from Chicago east. Leahy probably could win if he would leave San Francisco.

The 49-year-old barrister not only won't leave home but has set a five year contract at $75,000 a year as his terms. The late Commissioner Bert Bell received $50,000.

Donoghue, 64, says he would take the job for one year only if it would help settle the bitter debate even temporarily.

Anderson said he would not allow his name to come up again unless he was assured all the owners wanted him.

Donoghue told The Associated Press there was nothing definite on his chances of being asked to fill in. He said:

"Art Rooney is going to try once more to ask the Leahy people to let Gunsel serve a year. He asked me if that fails would I serve for a year while they look for a permanent commissioner. I told him I would do it for the year if it would help the league.

"I don't know what those people (Leahy backers) will say. They have refused to budge so far. Maybe when they realize this impasse cannot be broken, they'll listen to reason."

George Halas, Chicago Bears' owner, has passed on every ballot in order not to offend either side and thereby lose votes for expansion. Halas wants to admit Minneapolis - St. Paul and Dallas in 1960 and perhaps St. Louis and Miami, Fla., the following year.

Saturday the owners approved suggestions that a team waiving a player with a no-cut contract permit the claiming team to give him a two-week tryout before taking over the contract, and any player waived out of the league could be reclaimed by the waiving club after a four week lapse.

Defeated were efforts to change the date of the annual player draft meeting now held either the last week of November or first week of December.

The owners met for two hours in an afternoon session and again accomplished nothing. They adjourned until 3 p.m. EST Sunday.

Gunsel, who ran the business meeting in his capacity as acting commissioner, said most of the discussion was about a proposed professional football hall of fame. He asserted:

"The city of Detroit and the Greensburg - Latrobe, Pa., area have asked to locate a hall of fame in their communities. The matter was referred for study to the commissioner, whoever he will be, to be reported on at the next annual meeting, if this one ever ends."

The acting commissioner also said the owners decided to take up Sunday the Orange Bowl proposal for a game between the second place clubs in each conference next January. Receipts from such a game would be shared with the players pension plan.

O'Brien Starts New Year In Grand Style

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shot putter Parry O'Brien, who hopes to win his third straight Olympic gold medal this summer, has started off the year in grand style with a world record for his pet event.

The 27-year-old Beverly Hills banker got off a toss of 63 feet, 1 inch at Los Angeles' first indoor track meet Friday. And he set the mark after a three-day bout with the flu.

O'Brien's effort before a capacity crowd of 12,753 at the Sports Arena eclipsed his own indoor record of 62-1¾, set Feb. 21, 1959, in New York. He also owns the outdoor record of 63 feet, 2 inches for the 16-pound ball.

Sharing the spotlight with the veteran O'Brien was youngster Dyrol Burleson, a sophomore miler from the University of Oregon. The slim 19-year-old beat an imposing field including Sweden's Dan Waern in a respectable early season time of 4:06.

Ex-Villanova star Don Bragg, who holds the world indoor pole vault record of 15-9½, gave the crowd a thrill with a near miss at 16 feet. He settled for 15-5 .

A major upset was the 2-mile victory of Jim Beatty, formerly of North Carolina University and now running for Santa Clara Valley Youth Center. He came from off the pace and nipped Max Truex and Alex Henderson in 8:57.0.

Charlie Dumas, 1956 Olympic high jump champion, won with a leap of 6-10½.

Charlie Boy Captures F.G. Sprint Title

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—W. W. Carroll's Charlie Boy, given a stiff challenge by a 70 - 1 shot, streaked to a length and a half victory in the $13,375 Pelleteri Handicap Saturday and wrapped up the Fairgrounds' sprint title.

Charley Boy overhauled Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's Questar, longest price entry in the 10- horse field, at the head of the stretch and charged to victory. George D. Widener's Pundit took second and Argonne Stable's Grand Wizard finished third.

Charlie Boy was the 8-5 favorite of 13,892 chilled fans and returned $5.60, $3.60 and $2.80. Pundit paid $6.20 and $3.80, Grand Wizard, $2.80.

Questar jumped out to a two-length lead with Charlie Boy running second. Coming around the final turn Questar still had the advantage but jockey William Skuse had Charlie Boy rolling.

Charlie Boy passed the fading Questar midway in the stretch as Pundit made his bid on the outside. Skuse needed only the mildest urging to keep Charlie Boy in front.

Charlie Boy was timed in 1:11 2-5. The victory was worth $9,875.

William & Mary Slates Tulane

WILLIAMSBRG, Va. (AP)—A 10-game schedule that includes Tulane was announced Saturday for William and Mary's 1960 football team.

The schedule:

Oct. 1, George Washington, home; 8, Furman, there; 15, Virginia Tech, home; 22, Florida State, there; 29, Tulane, there (N).

Nov. 5, The Citadel, there; 12, Vanderbilt, there; 24, Richmond, there.

Big 10 Slates Study Of Rose Bowl Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten will study an invitation to resume Rose Bowl football competition in a special meeting Sunday.

Conference athletic directors and faculty representatives will weigh a letter from Tom Hamilton, executive director of the newly formed Athletic Assn. of Western Universities, to sign another long term bowl contract.

A 14-year Rose Bowl Series between the Big Ten and the defunct Pacific Coast Conference ended with last New Year's Pasadena classic in which Washington trounced Wisconsin 44-8.

Last spring, the Big Ten split 5-5 in a vote to resume bowl competition, a deadlock which killed possible renewal of a contract. However, by the same divided vote, the conference failed to expunge from its code a clause which would permit a conference school to play in the Rose Bowl on an individual basis.

Bowl proponents within the conference now feel that formal organization of the AAWU, including Stanford, UCLA, Southern California, California and Washington, plus Hamilton's official bid, may swing the tide in favor of a new bowl contract.

A proposal by conference football coaches to permit free substitution in conference football games is expected to be rejected at Sunday's meeting. The NCAA recently liberalized the so-called wild card substitution rule after squelching a move for a return to platoon football. Although the NCAA would permit an individual conference to try free substitution Big Ten leaders presumably will turn down their coaches' request.

Konrads Misses World Record

SYDNEY (AP)—John Konrads, Australia's swimming ace, missed on another world record assault Saturday night but won both the 220-yard freestyle and 1,650-yard events in the New South Wales Championships.

Konrads, 17, won the 220 in 2 minutes, 2.2 seconds, matching his former world record. He lowered that mark in a preliminary heat Friday night with a 2:01.9 clocking.

Konrads' time for the 1,650 was 17:54.5, well behind his world record of 17:28.7.

Billy Cannon On Blocking All-Star Club

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 football aggregation this past season placed two men on the 23rd annual blocking team announced Saturday night by the Chattanooga Times.

Sports Editor Wirt Gammon, who made the selections with the help of sports writers across the country, called the team one that could "throw up a great wall of interference for its ball carriers —a team of players who like to knock the other guys down."

Roger Davis, Syracuse guard, was named captain of the squad. The other Syracuse player picked was end Fred Mautino.

Others on the first of two teams were:

More Than 70 Switch Clubs Since '59 Baseball Season

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 70 ballplayers have switched major league clubs by way of trades and purchases since the close of last season, an Associated Press survey shows.

The Kansas City Athletics head baseball's shift parade with 10 new additions followed by the Philadelphia Phillies with 8, the Chicago White Sox with 7 and the Boston Red Sox and Cincinnati Reds 6 each.

Kansas City has obtained pitchers Don Larsen, Tom Acker, Bob Trowbridge and Dick Hall, infielder Marv Throneberry and Ken Hamlin, outfielders, Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern and catcheers Pete Daley and Hank Foles.

The Phillies hauled in outfielders Bobby Geene Smith, John Callison and Ken Walters, infielders Alvin Dark, Ted Lepcio, Alex Cosmidis and Jim Woods and pitcher John Buzhardt.

The White Sox acquired outfielders Minnie Minoso and Harry Simpson, infielder Gene Freese, catcher Dick Brown and pitchers Frank Baumann, Don Ferrarese and Jake Striker. Simpson was with the White Sox until last August when he moved to Pittsburgh in a deal involving Ted Kluszewski. Two months later, the Pirates sold him back to the Sox.

Boston picked up via trades pitchers Tom Sturdivant and Dave Hillman, infielders Ron Jackson, Jim Marshall and Ray Webster and outfielder Bobby Thomson. Cincinnati's new faces include pitches Cal Mc Lish and Bill Henry, outfielder Lee Walls, infielders Billy Martin and Gordon Coeman and catcher Frank House.

Cleveland, Baltimore and St. Louis each obtained five players. The Indians got pitcher Leo Kiely, infielders Johnny Temple, Norm Cash. And Bubba Phillips and catcher John Romano. Baltimore acquired outfielders Jackie Brandt John Powers and Gene Green, pitcher Gordon Jones and catcher Roger McCardell. Moving to St. Louis were infielder Daryl Spencer, outfielders Bob Nieman and Leon Wagner, pitcher Ronnie Kline and catcher Carl Sawatski.

Detroit and the Chicago Cubs each dealt for four players, with the Tigers getting infielders Chico Fernandez and Casey Wise, pitcher Ray Semproch and catcher Mike Roarke and the Cubs netting outfielders Frank Thomas and Richie Ashburn, infielder Dick Gernert and pitcher Al Schroll.

The New York Yankees, Pittsburgh and San Frncisco collected three players apiece. The Yanks got outfielder Roger Maris and infielders Kent Hadley and Joe DeMaestri. The Pirates obtained outfielder Gino Cimoli, pitcher Tom Cheney and catcher Hal Smith while the Giants added pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes and infileder Don Blasingame.

Milwaukee's lone addition was catcheer Charley Lau. The world champion Los Anglese Dodgers and thee Washington Senators were the only clubs which failed to complete a deal.

In addition to the trades and purchases, four free agents, each with many years of major league experience, were signed. Outfielder Elmer Valo was signed by the Yankees, pitcher Mike Garcia and infielder Chico Carrasquel by the White Sox and pitcher Ernie Johnson by Cleveland.

FOR RETURN MATCH

Pender To Insist On Boston Site

By JACK HAND

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender, the new "world" (two-state) middleweight boxing champion, looked ahead Saturday to a lucrative rematch with Sugar Ray Robinson and a big money fight with Gene Fullmer, the National Boxing Assn. king.

The obscure ex-fireman from suburban Brookline who had quit the ring three times because of hand trouble, upset the 5 to 1 odds against him Friday night by winning a split decision over 39-year-old Sugar Ray to get title recognition in Massachusetts and New York.

"Sure I'll fight Robinson again," he said early Saturday at a neighborhood party in his honor at his home. "It will be another difficult fight. He still punches with authority and he is cagey.

"But it makes me laugh. Here I was the dupe to be sacrificed and I won. It gives me a tremendous feeling of consolation. Now I hope to reap the rewards of what happened to me last night."

Robinson's unofficial manager, George Gainford, said he planned to meet Monday with Madison Square Garden officials, hopeful of setting up an April 1 rematch at the Garden.

Johnny Buckley, manager of the 29-year-old new champ, said he was "sitting tight to see what was going to happen." He admitted there was a rematch contract calling for a return fight within 90 days. However he wouldn't be tied down to a date and would insist upon Boston as the logical site.

"Robinson can't tell me where to go or there ain't going to be no fight," said the 70-plus manager who piloted Jack Sharkey to the heavyweight title 30 years ago. "He's lucky to be getting a return. Pender will beat him even easier next time."

Buckley said Fullmer still has an unfulfilled contract on file with the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to meet Pender. The fight was to have been held last March 17 before Fullmer won the crown. Fullmer claimed a hand injury that forced postponement. Buckley indicated he would consider having Pender box Fullmer over the weight with no title at stake before the rematch. "It all depends on the financial situation," he added. "I am not going to be tied down to any date right now. I want to stop and think things out."

Robinson called off a scheduled press conference and then agreed to talk briefly with some writers. He claimed he has the say-so about the promoter and site of the rematch.

"That 20 months layoff was just too long," said Robinson, dismissing a Dec. 14 tuneup that didn't last two rounds. "My timing was way off but I still thought I won. I tried to take him out in the first round but I couldn't get to his head. He held that right hand up high.

"I want to keep fighting until I get this middleweight mess all cleaned up by beating Pender and Fullmer. This fellow (Pender) didn't start doing anything until the seventh, still one judge gave me only two rounds. Pender just wanted to be there (stay). I think I'll make a little better showing next time."

Referee Joe Zapustas voted for Robinson 146-142 under the "10-point must" system in which the winner of a round must get 10 points and the loser nine or less. His score by rounds came out 8-4-3 in favor of Sugar Ray.

Judge Joe Santoro had Pender the winner 147-138 on points and 11-3-1 in rounds. He gave Robinson only the first, second and sixth. Judge John Norton's point edge for Pender was 148-142 and 8-2-5 in rounds. He gave Robinson only the fourth and seventh. A poll of ringside press showed 15 of 27 thought Robinson was the winner.

A crowd of 10,608 paid a gross gate of $85,010. Robinson's cut, including 75 per cent of the $75,000 TV money, was estimated at $83,311 and Pender's, $23,935. Each is supposed to get 30 per cent of the gate in the rematch although Robinson reportedly still will have the big TV edge going for him.

Pistons Grab 130-110 Win Over Warriors

DETROIT, (AP) — The Detroit Pistons ganged up on the Philadelphia Warriors Saturday, getting seven men in double figures and downing the Warriors 130-110 despite a 44-point splurge by Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain.

The Pistons broke on top, had a 20-point lead at the half and never let the Eastern Division club get close. The victory was Detroit's fourth in a row, the longest winning streak of the season.

Chamberlain, although he scored twice as many points as any other player, was weak on defense. Archie Dees, whom Chamberlain was assigned to guard most of the afternoon, clipped Wilt for 22 points—most of them on 15-footers from the side.

Although Wilt thrilled the Olympia Stadium crowd of 8,271 and a national television audience by dunking several easy shots, he missed 13 of 25 chances from the free throw line.

Dees, who shared Detroit scoring honors at 22 with Gene Shue, scored 15 of his points in the first half when the Pistons swept in front 63-43.

Walt Dukes drew four personal fouls in the first eight minutes when guarding Chamberlain, but the Pistons kept pushing up their lead despite the fact that the 7-foot Dukes was on the bench.

Dees hit five quick shots from the corner and enabled Detroit to pull away.

The Warriors were guilty of throwing away several passes and never did get their floor game untracked. The Warriors drew to within 11 points in the third period as Chamberlain poured through 19 points in the quarter.

But Detroit Coach Dick McGuire inserted himself in the line-up and quickly hit three straight set shots that killed off Philadelphia's chances.

Kramer Feels Alex Threat To Gonzales

BOSTON, (AP) — Professional tennis champion Pancho Gonzales frees, in Alex Olmedo, the biggest threat he has ever encountered, Jack Kramer said Saturday.

Gonzales, five-time world pro champ, and the young Olmedo, who is making his start as a pro, head the touring crew that comes to the Boston Garden Feb. 1-2.

The tour opens in Los Angeles Thursday, and touches on four continents before ending in Australia.

"Gonzales is trying to make it six straight championships, but he's never had the challenge that Olmedo presents," Kramer said in Los Angeles Saturday.

"Lew Hoad gave Pancho a duel at the start of last season's tour, but he couldn't stay with Pancho down the stretch. Olmedo, on the other hand, is a big, strong boy and has a service which is equally as good as Pancho's. He has beautiful control of his shots and he doesn't show any signs of choking up. It looks like Gonzales is in for a tough winter," he said.

Streit, Cici To Meet In Tourney Final

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., (AP) — Marlene Stewart Streit Saturday advanced to the final of the Helen Lee Doherty Golf Championship for the third year and will meet Mrs. Jean Cici, who never has survived the first round of a major amateur tournament.

Mrs. Streit, Fonthill, Ont., ousted Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., 1 - up with flawless putting. Mrs. Cici, Long Beach, N. Y., who was eliminated in the Doherty 11 years ago, rallied to beat Alice Dye, Indianapolis, 2-up.

Mrs. Streit, 25-year old defending champion, overtook Miss McIntire on the 12th hole of their 18 - hole match at Coral Ridge Country Club's 6,041-yard par 76 course. Two down after 10 holes, Marlene rallied for a birdie 4 on the 11th with a 10-foot putt and parred the 12th to win both holes.

On 13, she holed in a 40-footer for another birdie to go 1-up. But Barbara evened the match with her bogey putt on the 16th.

Miss McIntire was forced to sink a clutch 5-footer for a half on 17.

On the 18th Miss McIntire was short in two and chipped poorly. Marlene rammed her approach chip within 3 feet and when Barbara missed her 15-footer, sank hers to win the hole and the match.

Mrs. Cici was three down after nine holes but rallied to win the 10th when Mrs. Dye, four times Indiana state champion, hit her second shot out of bounds, the 11th when Mrs. Dye three-putted and the 13th with a 4-foot putt for a par when Mrs. Dye had a bogey.

On No. 15, Mrs. Cici went 1-up when Mrs. Dye hit her drive into a fairway sand trap.

Mrs. Dye again hit a fairway trap on the 18th for a bogey 6, while Mrs. Cici had a par 5.

Mrs. Streit and Mrs. Cici will play 36 holes Sunday.

Stratmat Cops Royal 'Cap At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Modan Stable's Stratmat, claimed last summer for $3,500, won his biggest purse when he took the $28,800 Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday. The odds-on favorite, Dunce, finished fourth.

Stratmat, a 6-year-old chestnut, caught the pace-setting Captain Kidd 2nd entering the stretch and won by half a length. Open View took second and Captain Kidd 2nd finished third.

After Dunce came Pensilvania 3rd and Muscadel, completing the field before a crowd of 20,505.

Stratmat, owned by Moe Fiengold of Miami Beach, ran the mile and an eighthin 1:49 1-5 and paid $10.30, $4.60 and $3.90. Open View returned $9.40 and $6.50, Captain Kidd 2nd $4.80.

Captain Kidd 2nd set a fast pace and led by three lengths approaching the stretch turn, with Open View holding second.

Jockey George Bibb, who made up most of the 114 pounds on Stratmat, said when he passed Open View "I thought I had him but my horse was loafing.

"Open View showed more speed than I looked for but when my horse got up to him coming to the stretch turn he seemed to loaf or check himself a little. Then I used the whip and I felt as we turned into the stretch that I was going to win it. This is one of the biggest races I have won."

Manuel Ycaza, who rode Dunce, said the Claiborne Farm's star "just didn't want to run." Dunce went off at 35 cents to the dollar.

Stratmat earned $18,170. He won 13 races and $35,255 in 18 starts last year and added $10,970 in two previous races this month.

Tech Downs Vols To Hold SEC Lead

ATLANTA (AP)—Sixth - ranked Georgia Tech surged back from a three-point halftime deficit Saturday night and whipped Tennessee 74-69 to retain its Southeastern Conference basketball lead.

Roger Kaiser and Dave Denton sparked the Tech comeback. Kaiser fired 25 points for top individual honors, and Denton followed with 22. Dalen Showalter topped Tennessee with 16.

The victory left Tech with a 5-0 SEC record and the loss put a severe crimp in Tennessee title hopes, leaving the Vols with a 2-3 record. Tech is 14-2 over-all and Tennessee 7-7.

Kaiser, the conference scoring leader with a 21.9 average going into the game, bagged 13 points after intermission and Denton had 12 of his 22 in the second half.

Tennessee took the lead for the first time at 22-20 on a basket by Glenn Campbell with 8:26 left in the first half. The Vols had tied Tech three times previously.

Tennessee could never stretch the margin to more than three points and led 38-35 at halftime.

Tech regained the lead for keeps on a free throw by Denton with 11:49 left to play.

Burton Casts Lot With Boston Club Of AFL

BOSTON (AP) — Ron Burton, Northwestern halfback, Saturday signed a contract with Boston in the American Football League. He was the club's No. 1 draft choice.

Burton, a 180-pound speedster, also was the first draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

"We think Ron will mean to us what Ted Williams means to the Red Sox," Billy Sullivan said.

Sullivan is a spokesman for group which owns the Boston franchise.

"He has been the No. 1 man in our plans all along," added Sullivan. "We went for him even before we went for a quarterback. We had a great deal of competition from the Eagles for this fellow."

The "eighth pole" at race tracks is located one eighth of a mile from the finish line. Most tracks have "sixteenth poles" and "quarter mile poles."

4-Man Tag Bout Heads Monday Card

A four-man tag team affair labeled "grudge match" draws top billing at the B&B Arena Monday sight.

The Canadian giant Adrian Baellangeon, unbeaten in several bouts in the local arena, teams up with Chris Belkas against the charges of Firpo Zybysko and newcomer Billy Sky in the night's feature. The main event is scheduled over a one - hour time limit with two falls to win.

Baellangeon, 6-4 and 248 pounds, handled Zybysko rather roughly in a couple of meetings here recently and the bald Pole has reached into a different department for his partner this time. Sky is relatively unknown as a grappler in this area but handled the officiating in last week's card here.

Belkas, a frequent visitor to the local ring, has on occassion held the state heavyweight championship and is well versed in the manly art of grunt and groan.

The semifinal fray sends Ken Rooper against Mexican Carlos Mendozain a one - hour limit affair with two falls needed to win.

Sky and Belkas will warm up for the tag tussle with a 15-minute, one fall opener.

Doctor Says Williams In Good Shape

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, a terror with a bat until last season when he suffered his celebrated pain in the neck, Saturday was pronounced in better physical condition than last September.

The veteran Red Sox outfielder was examined at Lahey Clinic by Dr. Charles A. Fager, neuro-surgeon.

As Jack Fadden, Boston trainer, watched, Dr. Fager put Williams through a thorough test.

Williams, who will be 42 next Aug. 30, was declared in top shape except for a chronic pain in his spinal cord, about 4 inches below the neck.

Williams had compained last year that he could not turn his head to the right sufficiently to watch the ball from his left-handed batting stance.

Fadden said Williams Saturday seemed to have full range of motion. In any case the doctor, and Fadden who has had some medical training, prescribed a course of exercise for Williams.

Dr. Fager's checkup showed Fadden relayed to Sox officials: Muscles perfect, no atrophy, no nerve injury, no infection.

Williams will meet Monday with Bucky Harris, Sox general manager, concerning this year's contract.

Sox officials had planned to have Williams at Fenway Park Saturday, but he didn't call them on his delayed arrival by plane late Friday.

Williams said then that if the pain in his neck didn't improve "I won't play ball."

Sox Ink Pair

BOSTON (AP) — Outfielder Jim Busby and pitcher Earl Wilson have been signed to 1960 contracts, the Boston Red Sox announced Saturday. The Sox now have 15 players signed.

SEC ALL-STARS

Cannon Selected On Decade Team

ATLANTA (AP)—Halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State and tackle Lou Michaels of Kentucky head the Southeastern Conference football team of the decade announced Saturdap by the Associated Press.

Cannon, voted the outstanding player of the period 1950-59, and Michaels, the outstanding lineman, won solid support from the 65 sports writers and sportscasters participating in an AP Poll.

A two-time All-America and 1959 Heisman Trophy winner, Cannon was named on every ballot. Michaels, who concluded his Wildcat career with an All-America performance in 1957, missed on only five.

Kentucky players dominated the honor team. Four Wildcats won berths. Auburn and Mississippi contributed two players each and Mississippi State, Georgia Tech and LSU one each.

With Cannon in a high-powered backfield are Vito (Babe) Parilli of Kentucky, Charley Flowers of Mississippi and Jackie Parker of Mississippi State.

'Michaels' running mate at tackle is another Kentucky All-America, Bob Gain. The end posts went to Steve Meilinger, still another Wildcat star, and Jimmy Phillips of Auburn. Zeke Smith of Auburn and Marvin Terrell of Mississippi won the guard spots and Larry Morris of Georgia Tech was chosen at center.

Four of the all-stars — Cannon, Flowers, Smith and Terrell—concluded their brilliant careers last season. Five others—Gain, Parilli, Meilinger, Parker and Morris—all played in the first half of the decade, an indication that time has taken none of the luster from their performances.

Sherry Signs For Double 1959 Salary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Young Larry Sherry, who had his good right hand in all four Dodger World Series wins last year, will have his salary doubled for 1960.

The 24-year - old pitcher signed next season's contract Saturday for about $15,000.

"The Dodgers were exceedingly generous, and I just hope I can pick up where I left off last season," Sherry said. "I'll pitch whenever Manager Walter Alston calls upon me. But I hope I can earn a starting role."

His speedy rise to prominence last year was mainly as a reliever. Called up from St. Paul with a mediocre 6-7 record in July, he worked in 23 games for the Dodgers and finished with a major league record of 7-2. In only nine of the contests was he a starter.

Sherry's World Series performance was the highlight of his season.

In four relief appearances against the Chicago White Sox, he won two and saved another pair. His earned run average for the Series was 0.71. His regular season ERA was 2.20.

During the off-season, Sherry picked up an estimated $50,000 on the banquet circuit and as a representative of a clothing firm.

Sherry said his ambition when the Dodgers go to Vero Beach, Fla., next month for spring training will be to earn a starting role with the team's strong mound corps.

Bucs To Open Camp Feb. 25

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thirty-nine players are expected to be at the Ft. Myers, Fla., training camp when the Pittsburgh Pirates begin full squad warmups on Feb. 29.

Nineteen pitchers and four catchers will begin working out on Feb. 25. The club's nine infielders and seven outfielders are scheduled to join the rest by Feb. 28.

Villanova Stars

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two former Villanova University players, tackle Bill Craig and center Joe Ryan, Saturday signed contracts with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Craig was drafted by the Eagles last year, while Ryan was a free agent originally selected by the Chicago Bears in 1957. Ryan was released by the Bears before last season began.

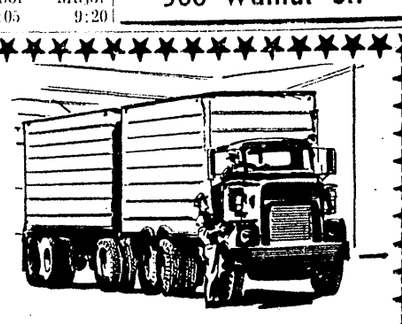
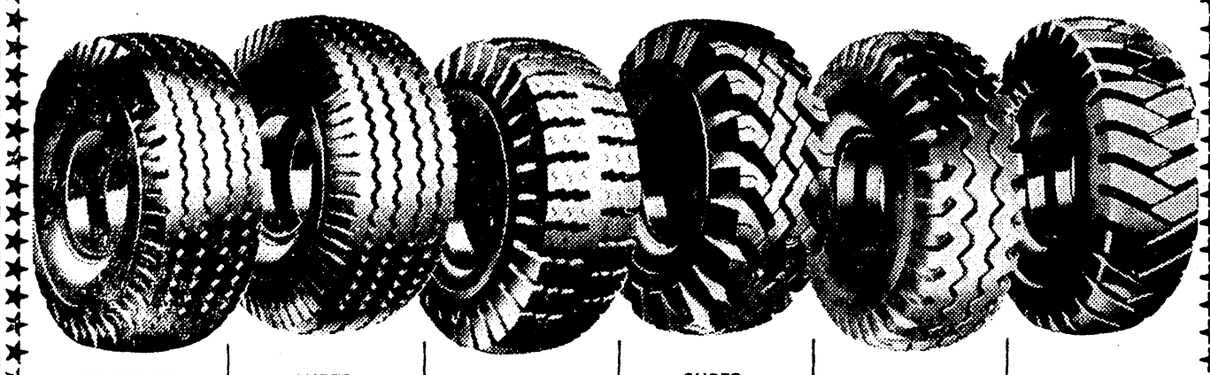
A GENERAL TIRE FOR EVERY TRUCKING NEED!



No matter what the job—long distance hauling, stop and go city deliveries, on-the-highway . . . off-the-road service, General truck tires help you do that job better, faster! No job is too big—no job is too tough . . . for General has a different tire, a different tread for every job . . . designed especially to do that job better than any other tire.



TRACTION RIB
Engineered for longer mileage on either cross country or local cartage runs. Years of use have proven the Traction Rib to be today's greatest "bonus mileage" bargain. (Available in Nygen or rayon cord construction)

SUPER EXPRESSWAY
Here's the tire that has been labeled "the long mileage tire" because of its deeper tread—44% deeper than tread on regular truck tires—gives many more original miles. (Available in Nygen or rayon cord construction)

DCL
Strong Nygen cord construction gives the DCL a body of unusual strength—resists heat damage, bruise-breaks and blowouts—gives a truck tire that can be recapped again and again. (Available in Nygen cord construction only)

SUPER ALL-GRIP
Wide, flat tread and sharp-edged cleats make this tire excellent as drive wheel tire on delivery trucks, school buses and vehicles that travel on or off the highway. (Available in Nygen or rayon cord construction)

HCT
For transit concrete mixers, oil haulers, dump trucks and most types of freight hauling vehicles. Thicker tread cushions the ride by putting more rubber on the road. (Available in Nygen or rayon cord construction)

LCM
Ideally suitable for operation under any road conditions. For use on drive and front wheels on dump trucks, logging, mining and most types heavy road building equipment. (Available in Nygen or rayon cord construction)

Jonesville Plans Referendum On Power Purchase

JONESVILLE (Special) — A special meeting of the Jonesville town council will be held as soon as legal matters pertaining to the calling of a referendum in the town are complete," Mayor Babin the town are complete," Major Babin said. The referendum will seek approval of the voters of the town on a decision of the town council to purchase electric power at wholesale from the Louisiana Light and Power Co.

Residents of the town would vote on whether the town should enter into a 10-year contract with the power company. This decision to purchase the power at wholesale in lieu of purchasing another electric generating unit for the municipal plant was made by the town council as the best for the future of the town. The decision was made following a meeting of the council on Tuesday night at which the majority of interested citizens voiced their reference for puchasing the power from the power Co.

The town is now faced with the purchase of a new electric generating unit which would cost approximately $100,000. Taking the present rate of power growth of 15 to 20 per cent yearly in the town, it would be five years and there would be need for another unit to handle the power lead. With other repairs and expansion facing the town it was pointed out that if the unit was purchased a bond issue would be inevitable. Money which would be used to purchase the unit could be used to reduce the existing bonded indebtedness was voiced by many at the meeting.

MODERN RANCH

Wild West Been Tamed Some More

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)— The Wild West has been tamed some more.

It's not just that the horses ride to work in a trailer. Now a cowboy fooling along in his radio-equipped car may see a missle launching site o nthe boss' rangeland.

The pushbutton has joined the machine in changing the face of the wide ope . spaces.

A visitor finds that out while touring Wyoming's big cattle and sheep holdings of the Warren Livestock Co.

For example: there is a year round force of 100 men to work the ranch's 300,000 acres. Only four or five are cowboys.

The ranch raises about 100 saddle horses but has more than 100 pieces of motorized equipment.

Headquarters are in a business building in Cheyenne. Here orders and instructions are transmitted by radio to men in the field.

And a sign of the space age: Some 400 acres of land on the ranch have been turned over to two Atlas missile launching sites.

Boss of this vast layout is Francis E. Warren II, whose father and grandfather—Wyoming's first governor—preceded him. At 45, Warren recalls the passing of the fabled rootin' tootin' cowpoke of Hoot Gibson days.

"We still use horses for some of our work," Warren says. "But instead of a man having to ride 30 or 40 miles to where he has to work cattle, he loads his horse into a trailer, climbs in a jeep and tows his horse to work.

"He arrives fresh, the horse is fresh and speed up the whole operation."

The Warren ranch is proof of a new era in another respect. Old West tradition had cattlemen and sheepmen as sworn enemies. The ranch has both 2,200 head of Hereford cattle and 40,000 head of its own breed of sheep.

There is an ancient superstition cattle won't graze where sheep have been.

"Bosh," says Warren. "In any big operation it's ridiculous not to run both. We have various types of forage and some is better for cattle and some is better for sheep. We just don't overgraze."

During the lambing and shearing season, the ranch has 120 men at work. Some 34,000 sheep are sheared each year and another 15,000 are shipped to market. The ranch ships 360,000 pounds of wool a year.

The ranch also markets two million pounds of lamb and mutton a year and 750,000 pounds of beef, live weight.

The Warren empire actually is a series of five ranches, sprawling over 500 square miles. It runs far north from Cheyenne, 50 miles west almost to the city limits of Laramie, and south into Colorado.

13-MILLION PROGRAM

Space Agency Expands Work

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP) —You're going to be hearing more and more from this junior-sized "Canaveral" as the Space Age advances.

The National Space Agency is in the final stages of a 13-million-dollar expansion program for its research station here — including facilities for launching into orbit small earth satellites of the up-to-200-pound variety.

Thus, in the space race with the Soviet Union, the United States soon will have three satellite and space-probe launching sites — one at Cape Canaveral, Fla., a second on the West Coast for the Discoverer satellites, and the newest here at Wallops, a short distance off Virginia's eastern shore.

Newsmen were told of the statuus of the projects during a tour last week of the seven-mile long, half-mile-wide island, presently reachable only by a 20-minute ferry ride from the mainland. A two-mile long causeway linking the island with the rest of the world is almost completed.

The Wallops station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has actually been in business since 1945—launching various kinds of rockets out over the Atlantic to obtain scientific data useful to industry and the military services in the design and development of airplanes, missiles and space craft.

But, while the station was made significant contributions to America's space activities — including some of the key preliminary testing for the Project Mercury man-in-space program—Wallops up to now has not had satellite-launching capabilities.

Two of three new launching pads now in the works will take care of that.

This pair of pads will be designed as blast-off areas for a new rocket called Scout now in its final stages of development.

This four - stage, 70-foot-long, solid propellant rocket has also been dubbed the "poor man's rocket" by NASA officials because they say that building, instrumenting and launching such vehicles will cost only about $600,000 each — compared with about 3½ million dollars for a comparable Vanguard rocket mission.

The Scout is designed to carry payloads weighing up to 200 pounds into 330-mile high orbits around the earth or to loft similar loads up to 7,000 miles as space probes.

It will be ready for tests this spring.

Also just about completed is a new launching pad for Acrobee rockets. Aerobees are "sounding rockets" for up-and-down-missions in the atmosphere and the fringes of space.

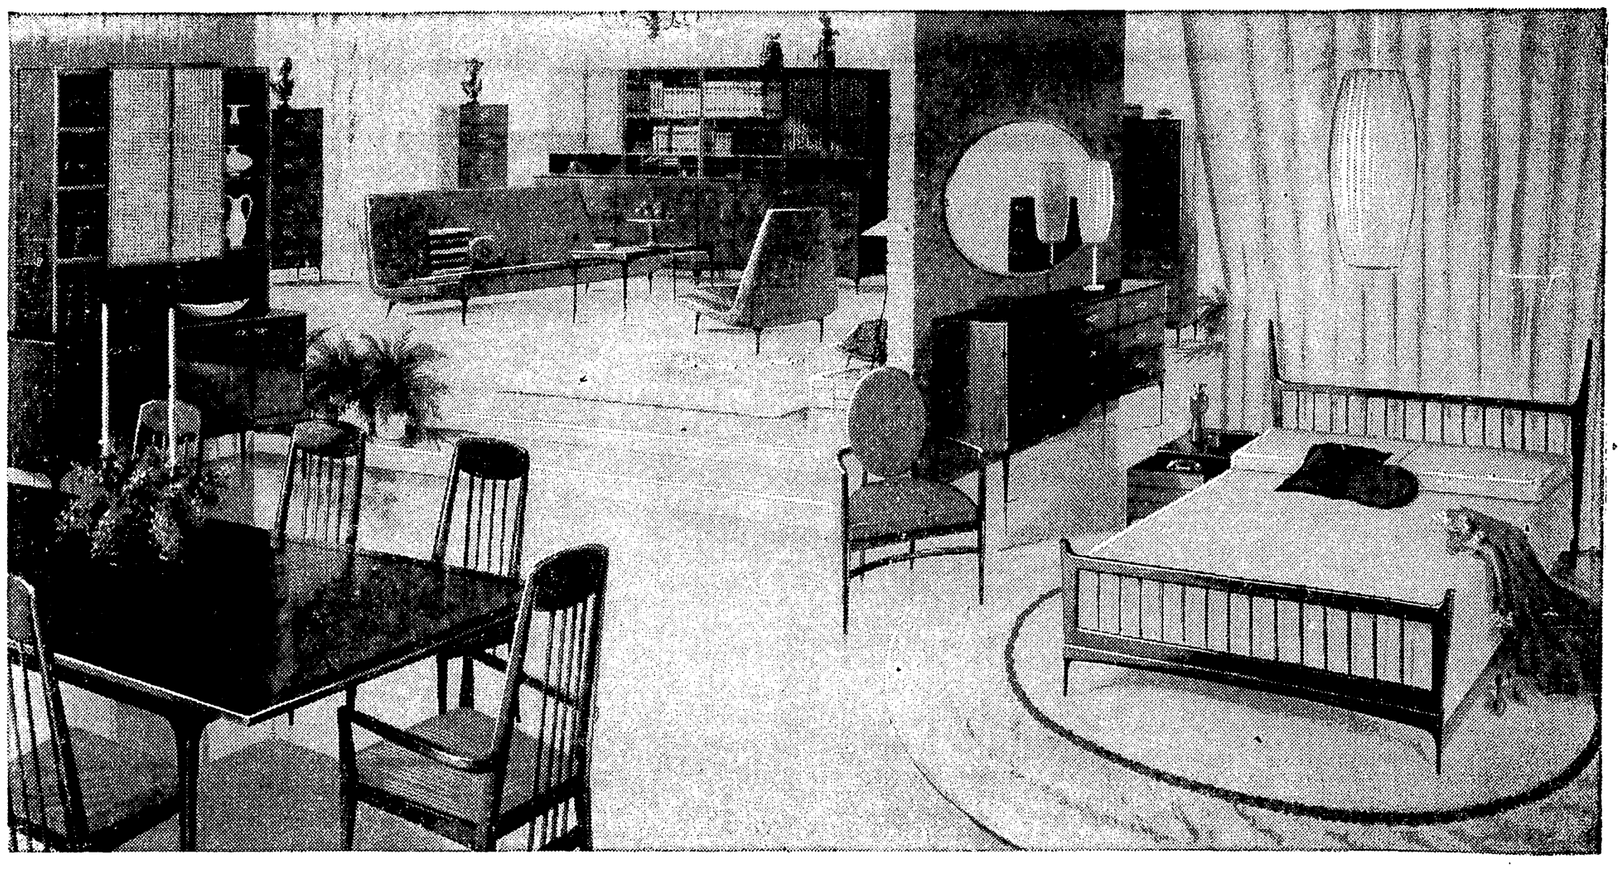
Furniture of Slender Elegance for Living Room, Dining Room and Bedroom



Slim, airy lines give this new Contessa group an alluring feeling of slender elegance. The exclusive cherry-brown Contessa finish enhances its charm, and the practical compactness of this fresh new furniture makes it so right for today's homes.

Come in and see scores of individual pieces for living room, dining room and bedroom, designed by Carl Otto, famous for his work in Europe as well as America. You'll love his use of bold horizontal, vertical and angular lines balanced with ovals and sculptured sweeps. They achieve a wonderful feeling of airiness, slimness and elegance!

Be sure to notice the beautiful slender steel legs on the upholstered pieces, cabinets and beds. A distinguishing feature of the Contessa group is the skill with which Mr. Otto combines wood and steel — wood for warmth and grace, steel for strength and rigidity. Burnished brass and luxurious fabrics add further touches of elegance.

Truly, never before has Heywood-Wakefield craftmanship been employed more brilliantly than in the creation of Contessa. Each piece has an air of elegant simplicity, a freshness of charm, and enduring beauty.

January 24

At left: Miss Ann Wren Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Albert William Kelly of New Orleans, is the bride-elect of Mr. Ward Williams Stevens Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens of Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized at the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant in New Orleans, February 26.

Mrs. Harry Herman Blanke, Jr., the former Nancy Starr Breard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anthony Breard, was wed yesterday at St. Matthews Catholic Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Blanke of New Orleans.

Miss Mary Lucille Leblanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Leblanc of West Monroe, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Ensign Robert Hough Pipes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Newton Pipes of Calhoun, is made today.

Below: Mrs. Harold Woods, Jr. and daughter, Larke, are relaxing in the den of their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Woods recently moved into their distinctive French Provincial residence on Deborah Drive where so many of Monroe's most attractive new homes have been built.

Mrs. J. D. Sandker in the living room of her new home on Pargoud Blvd. Extension overlooking Bayou DeSiard. The fireplace, made of old brick, like the outside of the house, is of her own design, as are many other features of the home. Mr. and Mrs. Sandker, who moved here from Dallas, Texas, over a year ago, are a popular addition to our city.

SPECIAL GUESTS FOR THE FIRST MEETING of the year of the Monroe Committee of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America were Mrs. George L. Moore, of New Orleans, standing second from right, and seated Mrs. W. Rogers Brewster of New Orleans, State president of the Colonial Dames. Shown with visitors are; at right, Mrs. Guy Stubbs, Historic Activites Chairman; Mrs. George Snellings, Vice president from Monroe, and at left Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Chairman of the Monroe Committee.

Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Moore Guests of Colonial Dames

The Monroe Committee of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America in the State of Louisiana was invited to the home of Mrs. George M. Snellings Jr. on Country Club Road for the January 18 meeting.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Snellings for the occasion were Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. Guy Stubbs, and Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr.

A social hour was enjoyed prior to the regular business session. In the dining room Mrs. Stubbs and Mrs. Smith presided at the coffee services on the dining table, which had for its centerpiece an arrangement of red camellias and green aspidistra leaves.

Special New Orleans guests for the first meeting of the year were Mrs. George L. Moore and Mrs. W. Rogers Brewster, state president of the Colonial Dames, who spoke to the group about topics of general interest. She urged the Monroe members to feel free to visit and use the newly decorated Colonial Dames rooms in the historic Pontalba Building in the French Quarter of New Orleans.

Mrs. Garrett, presented the slate of new officers elected for the next two years: Mrs. John Theus, chairman, Mrs. Carl McHenry, vice - president; Mrs. Henry Bernstein, treasurer; Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Sr., recording secretary; Mrs. James Sparks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James R. Wooten, registrar; Miss Genevra Washburn, assistant registrar.

Members present included Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Mrs. Snellings, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Huey, Mrs. Stubbs, Mrs. Roy Johns, Mrs. Carl McHenry, Mrs. Armand McHenry Jr., Mrs. O. R. Lewis, Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. D. I. Garrett Jr., Mrs. D. I. Garrett Sr., Mrs. King Stubbs, Mrs. Robert Layton, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mrs. A. B. Myatt Jr., and Mrs. Brewster and Mrs. Moore from New Orleans.

Miss June Layton Married In Home Ceremony

The Brown Nelson home in Lake Providence was the scene recently of the wedding of Miss June Layton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Layton, of Oak Grove and Guy Robinson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Houston Robinson of Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

The Rev. Tom Berry of Franklinton, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The vows were exchanged before the mantel in the living room, in which red flowers and green ferns were used extensively, and formed a background for the wedding party.

The bride was lovely in a navy blue sheath model with matching jacket of silk brocade. She wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations and white accessories completed her ensemble.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Betty Myers of Lake Providence, as maid of honor. Serving the groom as best man was Kenneth Jones, of Lake Providence, a cousin of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception for the close friends and relatives of the families was held in the dining room of the Nelson home. A cloth of white Irish linen overlaid the table and white candles with green fern, red flowers and red satin ribbons were used for the centerpiece. Mrs. Louie McWilliams of Lake Providence, presided at the punch bowl. She was assisted by sisters of the bride, Miss Lorraine Layton and Mrs. Nelson Brown.

The bride is a graduate of Oak Grove High School. The groom is in the armed service, stationed at Fort Hood, Texas, where the young couple will make their home.

Altrusa Club Meets At Hirsch Home

Members of the Monroe - West Monroe Altrusa Club met at the home of Mrs. D. I. Hirsch, Thursday evening. Serving as hostesses with Mrs. Hirsch were Mrs. Maud Bentrup and Mrs. Faye Heard. Dinner was served in the dining room where beautiful tiered arrangements of camellias decorated the dining table.

Mrs. Helen Luckett, president, presided at the business session following dinner, in the living room. The Altrusa Scholarship Award to be presented to a student of physical or speech therapy, of Northeast Louisiana State College for graduate work was discussed.

Blanke-Breard Wedding In St. Matthew's Church

Miss Nancy Starr Breard and Harry Herman Blanke, Junior, spoke their marriage vows in St. Matthew's Catholic Church at 3:30 p.m. Saturday. Father Jordan Schell was the celebrant. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Breard of Monroe, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herman Blanke of New Orleans. Her paternal forebears were among the earliest settlers of Monroe, her great, great grandfather having received a grant in 1791 from Don Juan Filhiol, the founder of Ft. Miro. In St. Matthew's Catholic Church several generations of the family have been married, her grandmother and grandfather in the year 1882.

Arrangements of white gladioli and stock adorned the main altar, highlighted by burning candles. Similar arrangements were used on the side altars, and containers of magnolia leaves were placed at points of vantage at the doors of the sacristy. Camellias tied with white satin defined the pews for the families.

Mrs. Robert Easterling was at the organ. Soloist was John Henry Vaughan, cousin of the bride, who sang Schubert's Ave Maria preceding the entrance of the bridal party and Cesar Franck's Panis Angelicus during the signing of the nuptial certificates.

Guests were escorted to their pews by William Henry Blanke and Richard Hugh Blanke, brothers of the bridegroom. Michael Feltus Breard, the bride's brother, and John Howard Blanke, the groom's brother, served as altar boys. The father of the bridegroom served as best man for his son.

Miss Nancy Ann Albright was maid of honor for the bride. She wore a gown of cardinal red peau de soie, styled with a V-neckline, cap sleeves, a tight bodice, and a skirt softened with unpressed pleats in front and back. At the waist the wide contour belt had at its back a flat bow and her headpiece was the same type bow of the material of her gown. She wore slippers of matching hue and carried a nosegay of pink perfection camellias.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. She wore a gown of imported cotton satin, its molded bodice rising into a wide scalloped neckline, framed with handcut Chantilly lace, as were its tiny cap sleeves. The voluminous skirt had a wide shirred inset between two folds, the lower one ending in a very full flounce of the lace. Her finger - tip veil of illusion was attached to a cap of the same lace. Both the gown and the veil were the creation of Mrs. Warren Breard, aunt of the bride. She carried a bouquet of magnolia flora camellias and the handmade French lace handkerchief which her paternal grandmother had carried on her wedding day. She wore an heirloom necklace of blue sapphires which had been a gift from her great-grandfather to her great-grandmother and has been handed down so that it is now the cherished possession of the bride.

The bride's parents were hosts at a reception for members of the families at the Paragon Club. Guests were received in the entrance foyer by Mrs. Dick Dean and were invited into the reception room by Mrs. DeWitt Henry. There, the mothers of the bridal couple received with them. Mrs. Breard's Dior blue silk faille was designed on princess lines, with deep yoke of matching silk lace. With it she wore a hat fashioned of blue leaves, accessories of a darker blue and a corsage of camellias. Mrs. Blanke's candlelight satin gown had three - quarter sleeves, a fitted bodice with self - covered buttons extending its length to waistline which flowed into a full skirt. She wore matching accessories and her flowers were camellias.

A highlight of the occasion was the bride's table, covered with a handmade cut - work linen and lace cloth on which was placed a silver candelabrum entwined with ivy and white camellias. The punch bowl was similarly garlanded with ivy and interspersed with blossoms. The bride's cousins, Miss Ashley Hamilton and Miss Sandra Dean, were at the punch service. Mrs. George Fink, Mrs. Fred Brownlee, and Miss Virginia Scheen served the cake, which was a square, tiered confection embossed with bride's roses, lilies of the valley and topped with camellias.

At the bride's book, placed on a small table graced by a single taper and a specimen camellia blossom, was Miss Ginger Dean.

When Mr. and Mrs. Blanke left on their wedding trip, she was wearing a raspberry, nubby wool suit with a small cape collar. Her small hat had a soft crown of moss green from which hung small berries shading to the deep raspberry tone of her suit. Her accessories were of black patent.

Following the wedding trip, the young couple will be at home on Audubon Street in New Orleans where the bride is a junior at Sophie Newcomb College and the groom, who attends Tulane University, is associated with his father in business.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chaplin of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Harris Tyson and Mrs. Emma Roth Feltus of Shreveport; Miss Niki Wylie of Ruston; and a large number of friends from New Orleans.

Fifth District LSPA Holds Luncheon Meet

The Ladies Auxilliary of the Fifth District Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association held their January meeting with a luncheon last Saturday at the Paragon Club. Mrs. John Kendall, president, presided over the business session.

The Auxilliary plans to purchase the latest edition of Remingtons Practice of Pharmacy for the library of the School of Pharmacy at Northeast State College. The president appointed Mrs. Will Mac Jones as the Chairman of the Nominating Committee for 1960; the candidates for offices will be presented at the February meeting.

Mrs. A. S. Gunter gave a report describing the tentative plans for the spring dance planned for March 26th.

Those present for the luncheon were: Mrs. Kendall, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Earl Hoodemaker, Mrs. Walter Pirron, Mrs. Olan Dawson, Mrs. Kenneth Brodie, Mrs. John Harvison, Mrs. Robert Mosley, Mrs. Gene Spatafora, Mrs. John Collens, Mrs. Paul Hammond, Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. August Danti, Mrs. Dale Cronk, Mrs. William Hutto, Mrs. Nate Watzman, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. John Lijeberg, Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc and Mrs. Frank Martin.

Evans-Peters Wedding Event of January 8

Simplicity was the theme of the wedding of Miss Gail Alice Peters and Airman Third Class Larry Eugene Evans, both of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Francis Peters of Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. Johnnie F. Evans and the late Mr. Evans of Monroe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Earl Ogg, of the College Place Baptist Church, in the home of the bride, on Jan. 8, at 8 p.m. Palm trees, white gladioli and white pom-pon mums created the background for the altar. The vows were spoken before immediate members of both families and a few close friends.

The bride was lovely in a winter white wool jersey sheath, with which she wore white satin pumps and a white feather hat. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and feathered carnations, centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Sharon Peters, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a blue wool suit, a white fur hat and a corsage of white carnations and tiny silver butterflies. Winifred Rawls served his brother-in-law as best man.

Mrs. Peters chose a beige wool and satin sheath for her daughter's wedding. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom wore a winter blue sheath and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white embossed linen cloth, centered with an all white arrangement of daisies and pom-pon mums, flanked by tall white tapers. At one end of the table, topped with the traditional bride and groom, was a three tiered cake. Mrs. Wesley Peters, aunt of the bride, served the cake. At the other end, punch was served from the crystal punch bowl by Mrs. Paul Roye.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northwestern State College. The groom attended Ouachita Parish High School and is now serving his third year with the United States Air Force.

The couple departed immediately after the reception for Amarillo, Texas, where the groom is stationed.

Dr. L. Haynes Speaks To Study Group

The first in a planned series of study sessions drew an interested group of parents to Sherrouse elementary school Monday morning to hear Dr. Lavelle Haynes discuss "Teaching Johnny to Read." Dr. Haynes, head of the Special Education Center at Northeast State college, traced the methods and techniques that have been employed in the teaching of reading and described the reading program now being followed in the lower elementary grades.

Mrs. W. L. Allen, president of the Sherrouse Parent-Teacher association stated that a second meeting is scheduled for January 28, with the discussion to center around "Vocabulary Building Thruogh Reading."

A display containing sample copies of the large number of books provided for each first, second and third grade student at Sherrouse elicited favorable comment from the visiting parents, who examined the book display as they were served coffee by Mrs. J. P. Greene, hospitality chairman for the Sherrouse PTA, and by Mrs. James G. Caldwell, study group chairman.

BAD OPENING

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Owners of a newly remodeled drive-in theater still shudder at the thought of their grand opening. A pony which was to provide free rides for children became ill. A miniature train broke down after a few trips. Someone cut loose a $300, 30-foot-long helium-filled balloon which hasn't been seen since. Rain drenched the premises for hours.

Centuries-Old Confection Is Still Popular

Marzipan (pronounced martz-i-pahn) is a confection that has been made in Europe for centuries. The name, translated literally, means almond - bread.

Tiny colored replicas of fruits, vegetables, and flowers are the familiar form of this sweetmeat. But how are they made? The February issue of The American Home says it's simple and requires no special equipment!

Made from almond paste which is available in food specialty shops or can be ordered through bakeries or bakery supply houses, marzipan is lovely to look at, delicious to eat, and provides lots of fun making it. Here's what is needed: 1 lb. almond paste, 1-3 c. light corn syrup, 1¼ c. bottled marshmallow topping, 1 tsp. vanilla, 6 c. sifted confectioners' (powdered) sugar, 1 tsp. ground cinnamon, vegetable coloring, artificial leaves.

Mix almond paste, corn syrup, marshmallow, and vanilla in large bowl or on marble slab; stir in sugar, 1 cup at a time, until mixture holds its shape. (Add more sugar if necessary.) Knead on board or marble slab until smooth. Cut or break off small pieces; shape into various fruits and vegetables; let stand several hours or overnight to form a crust before painting. To make potatoes, leave marzipan unpainted and roll in cinnamon. Dilute vegetable colors and paint fruits and vegetables with artist's brush to resemble actual ones. Roll strawberries in red sugar after painting. Apply leaves where needed while marzipan is stil soft and pliable.

This recipe, which has been tested in The American Home Kitchens in New York City, makes six to eight dozen pieces.

Field's Monroe, La.

R.J.H. Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 held its regular meeting at the post home Tuesday January 19.

The president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, was the presiding officer.

Mrs. Violet Berry, essay chairman, gave a report on the essay contest that has been offered to the Ouachita Parish High School students. The Auxiliary will give a cash award to the local winners.

The announcement was made that the National Auxiliary president, Mrs. Gertrude Rhind, would make her official visit to Louisiana in February with headquarters in Baton Rouge.

A new member, Mrs. Jean Stokes, was received into the auxiliary.

MRS. JOHN S. LAND OF HOUSTON, TEXAS, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Roy H. Ledbetter Jr. and Dr. Ledbetter on Myrtle Street. Mrs. Land has been honored with a round of parties during her stay.

MISS REBECCA WALLACE, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Donald Waddell is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wallace Jr., of West Monroe. Mr. Waddell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Waddell of Beaumont, Texas. The wedding is planned for January 30 in the Ridge Ave. Baptist Church in West Monroe, with the Rev. A. T. Mitchell officiating. A reception will follow in the educational building at the church.

DAR Chapter Reports On National Congress

Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Monday evening at the West Monroe branch of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Hostesses were Mrs. J. L. Harper, Mrs. C. G. Wall, Jr., Mrs. A. L. Griffing, Mrs. J. L. Norris, and Mrs. V. O. Allen.

The chapter regent, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Gordie Roy talked briefly on National Defense. Mrs. H. M. McGuire announced there were 156 pages of genealogical records consisting of genealogical forms, marriage records, and Bible records of Ouachita Parish dated from 1812 to 1900. Delegates elected to attend the national convention in Washington, D. C. in April were Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. J. Frank Jones. Alternates to the convention elected were Mrs. Ruth Hundley and Mrs. H. C. Ervin. Mrs. H. M. McGuire and Mrs. Lester Corley presented a program on the D. A. R. national congress where they represented Chief Tusquahoma Chapter last April. The speaker's table held an arrangement of red camellias in an antique epergne, and two other arrangements of pink and white camellias were placed at vantage points.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members were served a dessert course. Members present were: Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Corley, Mrs. Roy, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Archie Dickerson (member at large), Mrs. McGuire, Mrs. J. Metris Bell, Mrs. Taylor McFadden, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. Hundley, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Jr., Mrs. Edward Kerserog, Mrs. Clark Butler. Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Norris, Mrs. Griffing, Mrs. Wall, Jr., Mrs. Allen, and Miss Mary Louise Ellis.

Meringue Tips

Puffy, fluffy meringue is easy to make by separating eggs when they first come from the refrigerator and allowing the whites to stand at room temperature for awhile before beating them.

Learn How To Prevent Accidents

NEW YORK (UPI) — To keep your child alive, the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics has assembled information concerning typical behavior—and hazards—of pre-school children.

Capsuled, it goes like this:

—Up to six months of age, the typical infant wiggles, rolls from side to side, shifts body position frequently, sucks on toys, crib rungs and other painted objects. He is helpless in water.

Hazards: Rolling onto the floor, getting head stuck between bars of crib, lead poisoning from ingestion of paint, drowning in bath water.

—From 12 to 15 months of age, the baby tries to taste, manipulate, examine everything within reach. He wants to roam, poke and probe. He tries to climb to reach things higher than eye level.

PICKS UP TINY THINGS

Hazards: All household poisons and medicines within reach. Also: Pins, needles, buttons and other tiny things. Unused light sockets, electric fans, heaters, and pot handles jutting from the stove.

—The two-year-old has learned to rotate his forearm. Now he can turn door knobs. He takes things apart, experiments with their use, climbs and — likes to play with and in water.

Hazards: Doors that open to potential danger; knives, motor-run mixers, electrical equipment, matches, windows, pools, ponds, cisterns.

—The three-year-old is sure on his feet and hurries everywhere, usually without looking or thinking very much. He sprints up and down stairs.

Hazards: Objects or defective covering on stairs and floors; trying to cross street alone, wanting to carry potentially dangerous things to help around the house — say a knife or glass container.

—The four-year-old thinks the world is his. He tries to go off in all directions. He climbs fences, weak or strong; he climbs trees; he wants to ride his tricycle up and down the block unescorted.

Hazards: Cars in driveways, running into street after a ball, getting scratched or impaled on a fence.

MUST PRACTICE PREVENTION

Knowing about typical behavior and some of the hazards isn't enough, of course, to protect YOUR child, you must practice accident prevention.

Where the infants are concerned prevention means absolute protection—with no let-up where the watchful eye is concerned.

Prevention, where 12 - to - 15-monthers toddle, means limits on freedom. You may need gates at the head and foot of stairs. You should tape or cap unused light sockets. You must keep everything potentially dangerous — in every room in the house—out of reach.

Prevention, concerning accidents among two-year - olds, means: covering ponds, cisterns, pools; guards on windows if there is danger of child falling from them; locking doors opening to potential dangers; vigilance all around—especially in the kitchen.

The three and four year olds need, in addition to watchfulness, verbal instructions — say reminders that they should be careful of driveways, cautions against running into the street after a ball without first looking.

January, the month of the social doldrums, can be very well spent in travelling. Trips to the city or to tropic shores are ideal for this time of year. Increasing numbers of our people are taking their vacations now during the cruise season.

Due back today are the CLAUDE EARNESTS and the NAT GASTONS, who sailed from New Orleans on a Caribbean cruise. Stops were made at Nassau, Port-au-Prince, and Montego, Jamaica.

The MORT RAPHAELS are also returning home today. Mort attended a professional meeting held on shipboard. The group sailed from New Orleans on a ten-day trip, which included stops at Jamaica, Trinidad, and such interesting places.

Word has been received from MARGARET and HERBERT LAND, JR., who are island-hopping by air through the Antilles. They met friends from New Orleans in Jamaica. The party rented a car, and found that driving with four pedals on the left side of the road presented quite a challenge.

The DICK DICKENHORSTS have been in Houston since Thursday. Dick was attending a professional meeting. They come home today.

FAYE WINK, who with J. D. and the children, is living in Italy at this time, writes of tours of the countryside round about their home in Milan. Places visited have been Lake Como and Venice, and the latest, Genoa, where they were particularly impressed with the beauty of the gardens. Faye says that New Year's Eve in Milan is a time for living dangerously: that the Milanese at midnight toss out the window whatever possessions they have which have become broken or worn out during the year.

New York City is always a favorite place for trips, at any season of the year. LALLAGE FEAZEL and MARGUERITE GUERRIERO returned Sunday from a week of sight-seeing and theatre-going. Their pick of the plays were "The Miracle Worker" and "Sound of Music".

A congenial group leaving this weekend for a week in New York will consist of CAROLYN and BENNY GWIN, KATHERINE and Billy BOLES, and ALICE and JOHN MORRIS of Rayville, and FRANCES and Jim ADCOCK.

Speaking of New York reminds us that the entertainment season reaches its peak during the mid-winter months. The Little Theatre has "Sabrina Fair" in rehearsal at this time, with plans to open in about two weeks . . . Julien Bryan lectured on the Middle East Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Northeast State Concerts association . . . and Bette Davis, in an evening of poetry reading which has received glowing reviews throughout the country, will be presented by the Louisiana Tech concert association on February 6.

The ED OSBURNS are leaving us soon, moving to Jackson, Mississippi. Friends have planned a number of informal parties honoring Betsy prior to her departure. On Monday afternoon, DIBBLE PATE and MARIAN USREY were hostesses at a dessert bridge party in the Pate home, which was decorated with arrangements of everygreen foliage. BARBARA JONES won both the high score and the travelling prize, with LOUISE M'CARTER receiving low. The hostesses served strawberry pie and coffee to the four tables of players.

On Wednesday, Betsy was guest of honor at a coffee given by four hostesses. Those entertaining were KATHY M'DUFFIE, MARTHA LOU BEWICK, MARY BIRCKHEAD, and KATHERINE RAYMOND, in whose home the party was held.

Vari - colored camellias were used in the living room, while the dining table was entirely in white. Tall white candles in silver holders flanked a silver bowl filled with white carnations and chrysanthemums. MARY DELL NEILL and LOLLY NEEL poured from ten until eleven, with Barbara Jones and MILDRED SAVANNA assisting. From eleven until twelve, NELWYN MONCHIEF, Dibble Pate, Marion Usrey, and Louise McCarter served. About sixty - five friends called during the appointed hours.

The intimate, informal dinner party is a favorite form of entertaining during these chilly evenings. Last Saturday night the GEORGE WALKERS were hosts at this type of party, honoring his sister, GRACE WALKER of Baton Rouge. She has recently returned from eighteen months in Europe, and was treated to a regional - type supper. Empress camellias in a long green bowl centered the table. The special request menu included seafood gumbo with a green salad and hot biscuits, pecan pie and Louisiana coffee.

And speaking of regional specialities, ROZ and HENRY HAAS, JR., have been partaking of the same in New Orleans. They are due home today from a five-day pleasure trip to the Crescent City.

Thursday night ANN and TOMMY HOLMES invited four couples for a seated dinner at their home. Camellias were used on the table, and the menu included ham with an eggplant casserole, parsleyed new potatoes, jellied cranberry salad, and Ann's special cheesecake.

Bridge players hereabouts are looking forward to the bridge tournament to be held at the Highland Park Country club this coming Saturday. Afternoon and evening sessions are planned, with a buffet supper to be served at the club during the dinner recess.

On Tuesday afternoon, RUTH KELSO and SARA DUCOTE were hostesses at a sherry party honoring MRS. PERCY M'KAY, who is visiting here from New Orleans. The party was given on the porch of the Bayou DeSiard country club. The white - covered table held red camellias in a silver bowl, flanked by branch-silver candleabra holding red tapers and red camellias. About twenty - five friends called for a visit with the guest of honor.

Several members of the college set are in town for the mid-semester holidays. LINDA EBY and MALISE MAPP are due in today from MSCW, but not for long. They leave this afternoon for Greenville, Mississippi, and the home of BETTY ANN FARR, where they will attend a house party until Wednesday night.

Our poem today is "Do It Now," by Berton Braley:

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing,
If you like him or you love him,
tell him now;
Don't withhold your approbation will the parson makes oration
And he lies with snowylilies on his brow;
No matter how you shout it he won't really care about it;
He won't know how many teardrops you have shed;
If you think some praise is due him, now's the time to slip
it to him,
For he cannot read his tombstone
when he's dead.
More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend.
For it gives to life a savor, and it makes you stronger, braver
And it gives you heart and spirit to the end;
If he earns your praise — bestow
it, if you like him, let him know it;
Let the words of true encouragement be said;
Do not wait till life is over and he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

MRS. R. K. BIRCKHEAD, Mrs. J. L. McDuffie, Mrs. E. S. Osburn and Mrs. G. V. Raymond form the receiving line at a Coffee Party Tuesday morning honoring Mrs. Osburn who is leaving Monroe to make her home in Jackson, Mississippi. Over 100 guests called from 10 to 12.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Jeanette Turner to Jack McKoin of West Monroe was made this week by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Turner of Oak Grove. The prospective-groom is the son of Mr. Preston McKoin and the late Mrs. McKoin of Mer Rouge. An early spring wedding is planned.

Mrs. DeFreese Speaks To Kiroli PTA

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese was the principal speaker at the January meeting of the Kiroli Elementary Parent - Teacher Association. Her subject was "P.-T. A. Legislation."

It was announced that a new piano was purchased for the school, proceeds for it coming from the yearly carnival.

Mrs. James McGuire, Mrs. Walter Silmon and Mr. Howard Barker were elected to serve on the life membership committee.

Mrs. Albert Kay's first grade won the room count.

Girl Scout News

We just wish that every Scout in our council might have been at the annual meeting Thursday nigh tto hear Mrs. Charles W. Jones tell about life at "Our Cabana", international Girl Scout center in Mexico. The girls who were fortunate enough to see the pictures and to hear Mrs. Jones all came away with a desire to attend some such event. For a long time the girls of Troop 32, according to their leader, Mrs. J. E. Wood, have been talking about going when they are older. Now's the time to plan, and to prepare themselves for the opportunity. As part of that preparation the girls are starting on the requirements for the traveler badge.

Congratulations to those who received their five or 10 year pins at the meeting. Reaching the ten - year milestone were Mrs. S. C. Strausser, Mrs. Thomas Keller, and Mrs. A. W. Wiley. Receiving recognition for five years were Mrs. William Gannaway, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. E. M. Varnado, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, Mrs. Clyde Stringer, Mrs. Frank Halpin, Mrs. M. A. Denoux, Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Schonlau, all of Monroe, Mrs. Karl Cook and Mrs. L. A. Shows of Epps and Mrs. C. G. Drennan of Sterlington.

Susan Ellington, of Troop 44, paid a tribute to her troop leader and in so doing called attention to the fine work of all leaders. Each troop leader present was then introduced by a girl member of her troop. We're sorry every leader couldn't be present, but it was an inspiring sight to set so many.

The opening flag ceremony was done by seven first class Scouts of Troops 1 and 24. Spic and span in uniform, including the badge sashes which bear the colorful insignia of the ranks and badges earned, the girls were a reminder to the adult audience of the reason why adults take on responsbilities in Scouting. Participating were Michelle Varnado, Barbara Suomi, Robbie Hicks, Troop 24, and Jane Edwards, Carol Culpepper, Milann Gannaway, and Becky Parkerson, Troop 1.

These cold January days many Scout troops devote several meetings to crafts. In the fall their leaders attended workshops in order to learn the skills which will enable them to teach the girls. First year Intermediate troops, working on second class rank, are interested ina creative craft so that they may fulfill the requirement which says "Make an original design and carry it out in one of the following: Basketry, leather, pottery, needlecraft, textiles, etc." Any basic material, in fact, which can be made into something useful and attractive.

Troops 15, 26, and 34 have chosen textile painting. First, each girl has made a simple design of her own and then has cut the stencil. At later meetings she will stencil the design on a place mat or an apron and will have something useful and pretty that is truly her own creation.

Nothing can be more original or creative than starting with a lump of clay and ending up with a small bowl or a pinch pot that is truly one's own work. Troops 5 and 40 have chosen pottery for their second class arts and crafts requirement. The girls will spend approximately four meetings shaping, scraping, sponging, decorating and glazing their pieces. It's fun and good training, too.

Plum Street PTA Enjoy Panel Talks

The Parent - Teacher Association of Plum Street School held it's January meeting with Mrs. James Eppinette presiding. The president reported the purchase of play ground equipment and stated installation would be in the near future. A panel entitled "Looking In On Education" was planned for the program with Mrs. M. D. Garlington serving as moderator. Introduced were the guest speakers on the panel, Travis Thomas, vice - president of the Sixth District Labor group who spoke on what labor can contribute to education and what labor expects from education. Second panelist was Gilly Gannaway, secretary of the Monroe City School Board, who talked on the "Aims of the School Board." The third panelist was Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions at Northeast State College, who presented thoughts in recognizing an exceptional child. A question and answer period followed. Winning the room count awards were Mrs. Ruth Lovelady's third grade and Mrs. Mae Snapp's fourth grade. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the room mothers of the third grade.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnum Farley of Jonesville. The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late G. W. Hatfield of Monroe. Mrs. Kenneth Harvey will serve her sister as matron of honor and John Farley will be his brother's best man. The wedding will be solemnized at the Third Baptist Church, 2020 Westheimer, on Saturday, February 6, at seven o'clock in the evening. The Reverend Edwin J. Spears will perform the double ring ceremony.

Should Girl Quit School For A Job?

VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

SHOULD A GIRL of 17 quit school because she wants spending money? That's the question in a letter from an Oakland, Calif., girl who writes:

"I am 17 years old, a junior in high school. I want to give up school and go to work. My parents are against the idea. I can get a job at the local bakery shop which will help keep me in clothes and give me some spending money. My mother says that when I begin to work, I am on my own and must contribute money at home for board and room. Don't you think it is unfair of her and selfish?"

I think your mother is right, as she is acquainting you with the facts of life. Your family is willing to carry you along to encourage you to get an education so that you will be set up in the working world when the time comes. They don't approve of it now, because they realize that you will have more opportunities if you have more education. Your mother obviously feels that if you are mature enough to earn your own living, you should be willing to accept the responsibilities of supporting yourself, which you will have to do sooner or later unless you get married.

You should take advantage of the opportunity to continue school on whatever basis possible. If you don't agree talk to some of the boys and girls who have left school for the working world. You should be able to earn more if you complete your education.

FAT GIRL BLUES

Overweight girls do take a good deal of ribbing, and often they just can't take it as this letter from a Memphis, Tenn. girl illustrates.

"I am 5 feet 8 inches tall, stocky build, weight 170 lbs. My boyfriend is very thin and constantly laughs about my weight. He doesn't say anthing to me when we are alone. But when ever we are with people and he thinks he can get them to heckle me into dieting, he makes a few cracks about my weight. He remarked the other day to some people who admired his sports car that he might have to trade it in for a station wagon if my weight increased. I always smile to cover my embarrassment when he talks that way but I really feel like crying. Should I tell him how I feel?"

By all means tell him. Some young men do not mean to be rude in such an instance, they're just thoughtless where girls are concerned. The next time he invites you out suggest that he find another topic of conversation. He'll no doubt be startled and it'll be good for him to know that he hurts you when he criticizes you to others. Never be afraid to wring out a few tears when a man challenges your good nature.

DATE DILEMMA

When a girl invites a man to dinner there are the inevitable problems whether the dinner is to be at home or away from home. Take this Connecticut girl's dilemma, for instance.

"How should you ask a fellow to your home for dinner? My mother insists you should write him a letter. I think it would be alright to phone him or ask him casually when I see him. I think that if I write to him, he'll wait until he sees whether a better invitation is forthcoming."

Boys do not plot that way as a rule. If he doesn't care for you he may delay answering until he has thought up a good excuse, however. I think I would be inclined to ask him in person and get his decision right away, because some men are procrastinators.

Kappa Sigma Open House For Parents

The Epsilon Gamma Chapter of Kappa Sigma held its first "Parents Weekend" on Saturday, January 16. The members of the fraternity met with their parents at the chapter house at 1:30 p.m. for an "open house". At 2:30 the mothers attended a coffee at Mrs. S. B. White's and the fathers and sons went in a body to the bowling alley where all lanes were reserved for the father-son tourney.

The mothers meeting at Mrs. White's organized the Mothers Club of Kappa Sigma and selected as its officers: President, Mrs. S. B. White, Ruston; Vice President, Mrs. E. J. Pohlman, Monroe; Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. L. Young, Ruston; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. John B. Morgan, Jennings; and Treasurer, Mrs. R. F. Caldwell, Monroe.

On Monday, January 18, the Chapter installed the officers that will serve for the spring semester. They are: Grand Master, James C. Love, III, Ruston; Grand Master of Ceremonies, Charles M. Ramsdell, Ruston; Grand Scribe, Vic Barnett, Shreveport; Grand Treasurer, Terry Gee, Natchez, Miss.; Guards: Bob Hamilton, El Dorado, Ark., and Jim Gunter, Alexandria, with Alternates Kent Hamm, Alexandria, and Johnny Harrison, Lake Charles.

Millsaps PTA Hear Talk By Supt. W. W. Ward

The Millsaps P.-T. A. met for its January meeting in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Willis R. Martin, program chairman, introduced the speaker of the evening, W. W. Ward, superintendent of Ouachita Parish Schools. Ward stated that there are 14,000 students in Ouachita Parish. There are sixteen board members, the number being determined by the number of people in each ward. He read an article from the Louisiana Boardman entitled "Becoming a Better School Board Member."

Ward reported on a conference, he attended with 35 other superintendents from the United States and Canada, and that on the average our schools in Louisiana are superior to many others.

Room count was won by Mrs. Culpepper's first grade, and refreshments were served by the third grade room representatives.

Plump Raisins

Seedless raisins may be made plump by washing and spreading them in a moderate oven until the raisins puff up and lose their wrinkles.

Everybody's Using It – 'Eyeshadow'

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Eyeshadow is being accepted in the best of spots — on the romantic scene, in the office, in the kitchen.

There was a time when eyeshadow looked so obvious that users resembled silent movie heroines. Eyeshadow was difficult to apply by amateurs and most women achieve the frightened look of a damsel in distress for their efforts.

Modern day makeup techniques have changed that, an eyeshadow has become a part of the cosmetics kit. It can accomplish with the addition of eye liner what mascara sets out to do: lend depth and width to the eyes.

Many eyeshadows are packaged in swivel cases, and emerge like lipsticks, making them easier to use. The method of applying eyeshadow has changed with its packaging. Eyeliner is applied to the lid, then eyeshadow is pencilled across the same area. Heretofore the method involved rubbing a finger over a little case of eyeshadow, and rubbing the finger over the eyelid and up and out as far as the eyebrow. Experienced users of eyeshadow may still prefer that type, but the swivel style is cherished by neophytes.

Eyeshadows in iridescent shades with a glint of silver or gold look appropriate in daytime when applied properly. There are green shades for brown-eyed types melting blue and violet, sophisticated silver.

Newer mascaras have roll-on applicators that are supposed to curl and separate the lashes as they color. These are easier to use once you get the hang of it, and are available in lush greens, heavenly blues and doe-soft browns and blacks.

Eyebrow pencils have built-in sharpeners, the better to give a clear stroke across the eyelid, my dear.

The modern method of makeup is so simple that it is not a chore to apply it before starting off to the job. Newer makeups stay put for longer periods.

Apply a good foundation a shade darker than your skin, apply eyeliner, eyeshadow, pat on powder, apply lipstick and you're all set for work. Add mascara for that special luncheon or date.

Bleaching Of Family Wash Is Recommended

To bleach or not to bleach — clothes, we mean, not your hair Bleaching gives a whiter, brighter look to the family wash —a look to be proud of. But, bleaches must be used with care for successful washday results.

Which bleach to use depends on what is being bleached and how much is to be spent for the convenience different bleaches offer. Chlorine and chlorine - type bleaches are extremely popular and do a good job of removing stains, helping remove soil, and disinfecting. They come in liquid and dry forms. Use for white and colorfast cottons, linens, and certain synthetics recommended on the bottle or package. Do not use on silks, woolens, non - colorfast items.

Oxygen bleaches (perborate, monopersulfate) are often referred to as all - purpose or all-fabric bleaches and always come in powdered form. They will safely bleach all white and color fast fabrics — even silks, woolens, and resin - treated cottons. They are somewhat milder than chlorine bleaches.

If clothes still smell of chlorine after washing them, it's a sign that they are not rinsed thoroughly. Put them through another washer rinse cycle. If bleach is used in hand laundering, several rinses are necessary to completely remove detergent and bleach odors.

RARE WOLF SIGHTED

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — The first sighting of a gray wolf in Wyoming in more than 20 years was reported this winter.

Martin Crowe, Casper, and A. E. Baugh, Venice, Calif., reported sighting the wolf north of Jackson about 50 feet from where three elk had been chased into a clearing.

The last known gray wolf was reported in Wyoming in 1936.

Beige Is Good But Watch Out!

The fashion colour of the moment is beige, but watch out!

Beige — like pearls, or mink or little black dresses — is so blissfully unproblematical to wear that women tend to regard it as infallible. No fashion can be taken for granted without losing its edge. Further warnings: the famous beige neutrality can be over - estimated; beige can be boring; beige can be overplayed.

Neutrality? Not every colour works with beige. A really deep plummy purple doesn't and the clangingly vivid blues and greens can be frankly disastrous where beige is concerned.

Boring? The all - beige idea, when the beiges are too all-of-a key, is as desperately flat as a stretch of Sahara.

What beige can be, though, when all the elements are right, the magazine reports is knockout fashion.

Among those right elements now: the refreshment of black, white, yellow with beiges, the news of real or non - real ivory jewellery is news in itself, and delicious with beige. Ivory could be a several - stranded nuggety necklace strung across the neckline of a suit. Or, it could be a pair of wide, smooth bangles, one dotted with coral, the other with turquoise, and worn together when the other jewelling is fairly reserved. With a pair of smallish gold pins and plain gold earrings, two ivory bangles wouldn't be overstating the case.

The new bead note as of the first of the year, is considerably softer than it's been before. In place of jet or pearls in a beige collarline, look for those non -invitables — beads of toffee, beige, taupe, topaz, grey; opalescent beads shot with gold; yellow crystals jumbled with grey pearls.

With the new bead subletics, count on gold for the vitamin effects. Chunky gold earrings of more or less fearless proportions will pull up beige spirits wondrously. Equally tonic: a pair of identical gold pins worn in the shade of a beige collar, each pinned at a slightly different angle to suggest a kind of offhand symmetry.

Psychologist Speaks To C. Palsy PTA

The regular meeting of the Cerebral Palsy School P. T. A. was held on Tuesday, at 2 p.m. at the Selman Field School. Mrs. U. B. Smith presided.

During the business meeting the members gave their approval to donate to the fence fund of the school.

Ralph George, psychologist, at Northeast Louisiana State College, was the guest speaker for the afternoon meeting. He told of the development of the Peabody Picture Vocabulary test that he worked on as a graduate student at Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Phillips served refreshments to the members and staff present. The program in February will commemorate Founder's Day.

Children Adjust To Part-Time Parents

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eugene List, the concert pianist, is what you'd call a part-time father—and husband.

His wife, Carroll Glenn, concert violinist, is a part-time mother—and wife.

List plays an average of 200 concerts a year, most of them out of town. His wife tours, too. Both usually tour as independent artists; occasionally, the two team up for a recital.

But the Lists have managed to turn what most people might consider discord into harmony. They have instilled in their two daughters — Rachel, , and Allison, 9 —the idea that it's the most natural thing in the world that their father and mother should be away so much.

One Usually At Home

Only on rare occasions are the two away from their New York home at the same time.

The girls have come to regard the comings and goings of their parents with interest and excitement.

"They're interested in watching us pack to go away," Mrs. List said in an interview, "and excited at the prospect of the return. They know there'll be a lot more in the suitcases than when we left—and most of the things for them.

"And then, too, they look forward to the long distance calls that come in when either of us are away."

"And then, too, they look forward to the long distance calls that come in when either of us are away."

But when the Lists are home, they're really home. Take pianist List. He's usually home 16 5days out of the year — and every day is like Sunday to the children.

"He's home all day and apart from practicing the piano, he's got nothing to do but play cowboys and Indians with the children or take them to the zoo," Mrs. List said.

The frequent separations, both of the Lists agree, have taguht all members of the family to valy lnever to take one anothe for granted.

"The times the whole family are together are filled with excitement and warmth and good fellowship in abundance," Mrs. List said.

Children Adjusted

The children, young as they are, are completely adjusted to the fact that their parents provide for them by being away from them. They are vaguely aware of the fact that this kind of life is what will put them through college someday.

They have worked the separations into their lives. When their mother or father is away on tour, they usually work at their lessons a little harder so they can spend more time together when the concert tour ends. "This makes the waiting time go faster," Allison said.

List sometimes is called the "Potsdam Pianist." As a sergeant in Special Services, he was summoned to play privately for the big three at Potsdam — Churchill, Truman and Stalin.

He won standing toasts from Stalin, warm congratulations from Churchill and the lasting friendship of Harry S. Truman. He was recalled four times to play for the big three. That is a highlight in his memory book.

He and his wife will perform in a joint recital at the Library of Congress auditorum in Washington next month.

March 22, List, 41, will celebrate his 25th anniversary as a concert pianist with a recital at Carnegie Hall in New York.

That night the Lists will be together — three in the audience, one on the stage.

Lexington PTA Board, Study Group Meet

The Official Board of the Lexington School PTA met at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in Miss McDonald's office at the school.

Twelve members were present and Mrs. D. F. Burkhalter, president, presided over the meeting.

Reports were heard from all committee chairmen. Plans were discussed concerning the election of officers, the Founders Day program, and the spring round-up for pre-enrollment.

The Lexington School PTA Study Group met on Wednesday, January 20, at 1 p.m., in the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Eddie Holmes, chairman of goals and study group, presided over the meeting with approximately forty women attending.

John Barnes, psychologist at Northeast State, was the guest speaker and presented a talk on the topic, "Is Your Child Secure" with special emphasis on "procrastination" and its effect among children and adults.

Harmonize Your Make-Up With Jewelry

When wearing jewelry you can enhance your natural beauty even more by harmonizing your make-up with the carefully chosen pieces, thereby avoiding clashing colors about your face. A world famous beauty authority says to first consider your skin tone when choosing your jewelry. Gold is ideal if your complexion has a creamy tone. But, if there is a good deal of pink in your skin, silver will flatter it and even tone down an overly - ruddy complexion. Silver is also a perfect complement for women with gray or silver hair.

Match your lipstick to the new pink rhinestones and the rose, red, coral, or orange tones in your jewelry. A pastel shade of lipstick and rouge will enhance the brilliance of pastel pieces and a clear, clear red will bring out the color of your deeper jewel tones. Notice how most beautiful women harmonize their make-up with carefully chosen jewelry.

Refreshments were served to the members after the conclusion of the meeting. Those present were: Mrs. Mary Jones, Mrs. F. Larimer, Mrs. D. B. Glenn, Mrs. J. R. Williams, Mrs. O. H. Manhart, Mrs. E. T. Long, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. S. W. Tarver, Mrs. Dawson and the hostess Mrs. A. D. Riley.

Mrs. Marlow Reviews Life Of Journalist

Members of the Mangham Literary Club affiliated with General Federation of Women's clubs met for the January meeting with Mrs. H. O. Welch and Mrs. H. T. Jones in the Jones' home. Mrs. W. L. Marlow, the president presided. Election of officers and plans for 1960 were made.

Mrs. Marlow reviewed the life of Marguerite Higgins, journalist who served during the war in Paris, Berlin, and Korea.

The nominating committee's report was presented and the following officers for the coming year were elected: president, Mrs. J. W. Logan; vice - president, Miss Annette Coolidge; secretary, Miss Ola Cooper; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. O. Welch; parliamentarian, Mrs. F. A. Childress; reporter, Mrs. T. W. Crawford.

It was decided that the topic of study during the next two years would be "Interesting Places — Famous People and Hobbies."

A plate supper was served to the following: Mesdames Jones, E. M. Jones, T. W. Crawford, M. L. Lyles, E. C. Willamson, F. A. Childress, D. W. Chapman, O. E. Deville, J. W. Logan, Marlow, W. T. Sartor Jr., and Miss Ola Cooper.

Claiborne PTA Hear M. Norris On Legislation

Miss Marguerite Norris, principal of Claiborne Elementary School, spoke at the January P. T. A. meeting on Thursday at Claiborne. Miss Norris, speaking on legislation said, "Legislation in which we are particularly interested concerns school construction, teachers' salaries, a good juvenile delinquency bill and full appropriation to school lunches and library services."

Hospitality courtesies were extended by the fifth grade room mothers, who served refreshments before the call to order.

Room count was awarded to the first grade, Mrs. Ford, teacher.

Upside down cakes do not always have to be made of pineapple and white cake batter, delicious as that combination is. Canned pears and gingerbread make another fine team.

HOT ORANGE IS DIOR FAVORITE— Hot orange is the color favored by Yves St. Laurent, designer of the Christian Dior line, in his models on display yesterday in a New York preview of Spring fashions. At left Kay Adams wears a simple afternoon dress of hot orange silk with a pleated skirt. With it is worn a matching coolie hat. At right Miss Adams wears a hobble-skirt dinner dress in hot orange flower-print taffeta.

THE ERA OF ELEGANCE is back, and Mr. Mort interprets it in beautiful lame jacquard etched in threads that glitter. The close curve of the brief bodice blossoms into a full skirt belled over the hips and closely captured at the knees. This wonderful silhouette is accented with a provocative bow knot at hemline and waist.

Work Toward A Lovlier And Happier You

With the holiday season a thing of the past, and with no further reason to over - indulge in rich foods and sweets, now is the ideal time to plan, prepare, and follow a definite schedule to improve your appearance and grooming for the coming spring fashion season. A world famous beauty list instriving for a more glamor-authority suggests the following ous appearance.

Take off those extra pounds and slim down your figure to go with the new fashion lines. Experiment with all the new make-up colors and techniques and create your own personalized glamour. Give yourself an entirely new coiffure to frame your new make-up look; and to complete the campaign, plan a new spring wardrobe in colors and styles to flatter the new "you." If you follow this plan, you are sure to become lovelier, and happier too.

Sweater Trim

Why not give a fillip to your sweater wardrobe with some individual touches?

The classic pullover or cardigan can become a glamorous garment with some imaginative decoration. You can, of course, embroider a handsome monogram on either, using your automatic sewing machine or zig-zagger attachment. Or you can embroider decorative borders in colors by the same machine method.

Braid trimmings also are effective and easy to do. Metallic braids can turn a plain sweater into a festive evening topper.

Baste ribbon in place, with a backing of organdy on the inside of the sweater. Set your automatic sewing machine for a pretty little scallop stitch. Work along the edges of the ribbon. When scallop stitching is completed, change to a little diamond stitch and work little diamond designs on the ribbon. Tie a bow at the bottom of the V and hand-stitch in place. Trim away excess organdy close to the line of stitching.

One of the simplest ways to dress up a sweater is to trim it with narrow woven-edge velvet ribbon in a contrasting color. Local sewing center experts suggest using nylor velvet baby ribbon to applique a plain pullover, stiching it in a wide V-line front and back. Here's how:

This sweater will team with velvet slacks for a glamorous at-home costume, or with a velvet skirt for a festive cocktail outfit.

Housewife Can Always Speak Her Piece

NEW YORK (UPI) — One thing about the American housewife is that she always speaks her piece. And when the subject is kitchens, builders and manufacturers are all ears.

Builders have found from experience that it pays to listen to the lady of the house. Her ideas will help sell tomorrow's homes.

The women's ideas and desires in kitchens are many, including:

"Place the laundry near, but not in, the kitchen. Soiled clothes and food preparation don't mix.

"Give us a desk in the kitchen. It's almost as necessary these days as a stove.

"Give us countertops without chrome edging that only collects dirt. Make them continue without interruption right into the splash-backs.

"We want more drawers and sliding shelves, fewer deep cabinets.

"If possible, keep all appliances off the floor, which should be surfaced with materials such as ceramic tile and come complete with a drain. We'd just love to clean the whole floor in a jiffy with a hose."

With domestic help priced at what it is, many women have found the snack bar a good way of fending off kitchen claustrophobia.

This boon to the servantless home is now considered just as important in kitchen remodeling as new appliances and additional storage space. This holds true even in homes with dining rooms.

The ideal location for a snack bar is alongside the food serving center.

Size of the snack bar is dictated by space limitations. Every effort should be made, however, to accommodate at least two persons.

The main purpose of the snack bar is to reduce work in preparing and serving meals by taking the strain off the dining room and bringing the diner to the food.

Set Up New Plant Area For Variety

By EARL ARONSON

Every year we stake off a corner of the garden for something new in the flower or vegetable kingdom. It doesn't have to be a new variety — just something we have never raised before. This is a pleasant way to expand our activity and knowledge.

If the seed catalogues coming your way don't offer anything temptingly new, there are plenty of tried and true species.

We've had a peek at some of the 1960 introductions, ranging from roses to marigolds and watermelon to beets.

One new rose likely to be popular is Hawaii, a hybrid tea that honors our newest state. The nursery description of this orange-coral colored rose makes it mighty tempting: A long, pointed bud that opens slowly to a bloom more than six inches across. The plant averages four feet tall and has glossy green leaves with tints of red in the fall and produces abundantly. Reports from testers across the country were enthusiastic about the color, wild raspberry fragrance, foliage and hardiness, especially under hot sun.

And from beauty to the beets. The New Hampshire sweetheart beet was developed by the New Hampshire Experiment Station, which crossed a table beet with a sugar beet. It is extra sweet, matures late, and is solid red throughout. If you like pickled beets, this one is supposed to do the trick with vinegar only. No sugar is needed.

From New Hampshire also comes a new midget watermelon with a built-in ripeness indicator. Do you have trouble determining when your watermelon is ripe? The new Golden Midget turns the color of gold when it is ready for reaping. The small size is convenient for your refrigerator. The melon has a high sugar content and matures in only 65 days, as does its parent, the New Hampshire midget.

New Hampshire researchers also have come up with a compact bush squash of Table Queen type that has edible seeds reportedly nutritionally - equal to peanuts. The squash may be halved and baked without removing the seeds. The experimenters crossed bush summer squash with a pumpkin from Germany in which the seeds have no coats.

Minnesota has developed a new lawn and turf grass especially for Midwest lawns where some bluegrass rusts. The new bluegrass is touted as highly resistant to rust and superior in seedling vigor, which means it's better able to compete wth weeds. This seed is recommended by one nursery for areas subjected to extremes of temperature and climate.

Pointing our hoe toward North Dakota, we found three new "super-hardy" garden carnations poking their pretty heads out of the Agricultural Experiment Station there for the first time. They have 1¾-inch double blooms which the growers say are seldom marred by anthers (in seed plants, the part of the stamen that develops and contains pollen) so they seldom set seed. This prolongs the life of the flowers. Thi carnation is good for bedding and blooms profusely much of the summer.

Caprice is salmon-pink; Allegro, deep dubonnet-rose, and Andante, white.

Minnesota has developed a hardy new everbearing strawberry labeled Chief Bemidji. In Minnesota, where sub-zero weather is common, the Chief reportedly sleeps all winter without a blanket.

Plants Supply Beauty, Needs

By MARY JARDINE

Throughout the ages man and plants have been inseparable. Plants have furnished him clothing, shelter and warmth, directly or indirectly they have been his sole source of food.

They have supplied him with stimulants and medicines. Some plants were venetarte and to them attributed powers that affected his relationships with the spirits, friendly or evil, with which he imagined himself to be surrounded. Somewhere in the dim past, the pagans of Europe brought into their dwellings sprays of native holly so that tiny, fairy, friendly peoples of the forest might find refuge in them from the frigid blasts of winter. Thus the use of holly for interior decorations began. Our festive Christmas season just past, would not seem complete without some holly in our decorations.

HOLLIES

This is the month to select and plant your hollies. Local nursery men have tested and grown many fine varieties that do well in our section. The American holly (Ilex opaca) is one of our most beautiful trees. It must have good drainage as all of the hollies need except the Dahoon which comes from swamp country. Other good holly varieties are Old Heavy berry, Old Leatherleaf, Hume No. 2, Slim Jane, Father Christmas and Bountiful. If you want berries on your hollies it is necessary to have a male tree to pollinate the berry - bearing tree. This holds true of all hollies except ilex cornuta or Chinese holly (Burfordii hort. variety). The native Youpon (Ilex vomitoria) is a very versatile evergreen. It can be used as a hedge or tree. Some English hollies have been tested and found to do well in North Louisiana. Another group of hollies coming into popularity are the Japanese hollies — Ilex crenata. There are several dwarf varieties that are being used in place of box-wood as they are not as subject to as much insect damage. Rotundifolia is one of these.

There are two other plants I would like to mention that are not hollies but are often mistaken for members of this family. The first is Mahonia, often called Oregon Holly-Grape. Incidentally state flower of Oregon. This is a handsome evergreen shrub with holly like leaves, clusters of showy yellow flowers in the spring followed by bluish - black berries in the fall. The second is Osmanthus fortunei (Fortune's Olive) often called the Holly-Leaf Tea Olive. This is often mistaken for a true holly because of the resemblance of its leaves to holly leaves. Makes a beautiful specimen tree or shrubs to 20 feet tall with leathery, dark green, spiny-toothed leaves. Fragrant white flowers in the fall. Ask your nursery man about all these plants. Recommended reading: Hollies by Dr. Harold H. Hume.

MID-WINTER SHOW

Despite the vagaries of the weather the College Heights Garden Club staged a most colorful flower show at the Garden Center. All blue ribbons.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson was awarded top score for her line design. Using a small green bowl set on an Oriental base Mrs. Johnson delineated a clear cut pattern with variegated dracena and white flowering quince for her line. Center of interest accenting the line was a single pale pink camellia, var. Winifred Womack. Very dramatic.

Mrs. E. M. Baber, Mrs. Jesse Gilstrap and Mrs. Herbert Walker combined their talents in creating a lovely design featuring camellias. The container selected was a footed black bowl. A graceful asymetrical triangle was aser combined with red flowering quince for primary placements with gray green eucalyptus to emphasize the line. Following the pattern were buds and blooms of Opelusas Pink camellias. Mrs. J. W. Keller's arrangement also featured camellias. In this instance the exquisite Adolph Audusson Red. Mrs. Keller selected a round green bowl, which was placed on a rectangular brown base. The pattern, asymetrical, was composed of pussywillow, narrow trimmed leaves of aspidistra and red flowering quince. The beautiful red and white blooms of the camellias accented the triangular line. A most compelling arrangement staged against a soft green background.

Mrs. Paul Newcomber created a most distinctive all green composition. The container selected was a large round polished wooden plate. Mrs. Newcomber skillfully arranged in a vertical pattern sansevieria leaves accented by gray - green iris leaves. A rosette of sansevieria formed the center of interest. A small mallard duck, wings outspread, as though just alighting, was used as an accessory. Most attractive and long lasting. This design would be suitable for a den.

New Petunias Make Debut

By AUDREY DAWSON

Thirteen new petunias will be on display in 1960. Look for blue ribbon, a sturdy, compact new blue hybrid that blooms all summer. Maestro, a bright cerise with a golden yellow throat; mercury, a blue that is neither too light nor too dark as near "true blue" as plant breeders have yet produced. Blooms have eight yellow throats.

Red Ensign, a deep red with 3½ inch ruffled blooms. It's weather proof — continues blooming even when it rains. Blue Magic, a dark blue variety. Red Riches, a deep bright scarlet — all double. Blue mist, an airy silver blue that blooms in compact mounds.

The Bonanza mixture introduced last year has been segregated into six new varieties for 1960 including; celestial rose, a deep rose pink; flaming velvet, a rich crimson; gold coast, a soft yellow; silver blue, pale blue; snowball, pure white, and violet, a dark blue. All flower profusely on bright green compact plants.

Petunias are an inexpensive plant to use in the landscape to give color and with all the colors of the rainbow in the petunia for 1960, I am sure you will find just the right one needed for your garden.

PLANTING

The month of January is an ideal time to plant shrubs and trees in the landscape. Be sure to select good material free of insects and disease. Remember these suggestions when planting: Dig the hole at least twice the size of the plant ball or the spread of the roots. Use a good soil mixture around the new plant. This soil should be brought to the site if the existing top soil is not suitable. If the top soil is rich separate it for reuse from the subsoil when digging a hole. A soil for trees and shrubs should be high in organic matter. Set the plants no lower than they were before being dug. Setting one half inch higher than the original plant depth is best. This will allow for settling.

FOOD FADDISTS

Use your own good sense and judgment and don't trust your diet and your health to a salesman or be fooled by the sales pitch of food faddists. A diet which each day includes: meat, milk, vegetables, fruits and bread which will provide the vitamins, minerals, protein and other nutrients that a normal healthy individual requires, unless prescribed by the family physician for specific diseases or deficiencies. The addition to the diet of various mineral and vitamin supplements is a tragic waste of money.

COTTON

Although there are already ten thousand uses for cotton, scientists are busy seeking new applications. Their laboratories are developing uses for cotton that we scarcely can believe possible. Cotton fabrics are being treated with chemical resins to make products such as luggage, table tops and boots. Scientists have found ways to make cotton into cloth without spinning and weaving. These non - woven cottons can be used for napkins, diapers, and tea bags. These are inexpensive enough to be thrown away after one use. We, here in the south, always welcome news that scientists are bringing new and improved cotton products because it's one of our big crops.

That drapery demonstration that you, Mrs. Homemaker, have been calling about is scheduled for Thursday, January 28th at 9:00-12:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Building, W. Monroe. If you plan to make draperies for your home, be sure to mark Thursday, January 28 on your calendar.

REMINDER

Don't forget to call Mrs. John Osterland, phone FA 3-5566 or Mrs. W. A. Calloway at FA 3-2544 if you have someone to enter the Farm Bureau "Queen or Talent Contest". Only one week left before the contest which will be held in connection with the barbecue at the West Monroe High School cafeteria, Tuesday, February 2nd.

FALLEN FORTRESS — This uprooted pillbox in Neuwied, Germany, was one of the unusual sights our columnist came across in a trip to Europe in 1958.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
A Newfeatures

For the last year, we've had a private movie-eye view of Europe that has been both rewarding and frustrating.

Before our nephew left for England to work on a government project, we gave him a fast lesson with a turret movie camera. He shipped the processed films to us for splicing, editing and criticism — and to keep the family posted on his whereabouts and activities.

We recommend other families adopting this arrangement when their sons, daughters or relatives are serving in the armed forces overseas, are students or working abroad. It's a perfect way to keep in touch.

The frustrations arose when mistakes were repeated and it seemed as though our ciriticisms and suggestions were ignored. But now that our nephew has returned to this country, we have his reasons for shooting as he did.

The two worst faults were wild panning and under-exposure.

"The pan shots were taken mostly on sightseeing buses or from autos," Herb explains. "The cars bounced and so did my camera. The drivers didn't slow up to suit my convenience so it was a question of getting what I could or nothing at all since each tour was a one-time-only visit."

Now Herb knows he shouldn't rest his elbows on the window sill of a moving vehicle. It's a perfect conductor of vibrations. If he had kept the camera pressed against his face, his body would have absorbed much of the vehicle's movements.

Another good idea is to shoot at a faster film speed. When movies are shot at 24, 32 or 48 frames a second, the final effect on projection is to level out the jerky movements. Of course, the lens aperture must be opened wider to compensate: one full stop, for instance, if shot at 32 frames per second instead of the normal 16 frames.

Herb also took some "desperation" shots in inadequate light when he was on the run at air or railroad terminals or going through a museum. In one or two cases, his gamble paid off thanks to a fortunate arrangement of fluorescent lighting or daylight streaming in from a nearby window.

But enough early footage had to be discarded for us to rush him two suggestions. We urged him to invest in a light meter, and shoot at eight frames per second in dim lighting.

The latter idea worked out especially well in taking neon-lit night scenes of cities. The slower speed doubled the exposure making it just right for wide-open shooting. In viewing, the film is projected at double the taking speed which turned out to be even more effective in the shots of flashing lights.

Some of Herb's best movies were candid glimpses of foreign life and people. From an obscure doorway, he'd train his telephoto lens on passing local types or show merchants and traffic policemen in action. He focused on interesting shop windows, unusual signs and children playing.

Herb did a lot of shooting so even after discarding the mistakes, we were able to turn over to him eight 30-foot reels. This adds up to about four hours of colorful memories . . . too much for normal showing at one time. We have one more job to do.

We're going to select the top highlights from all 2,400 feet of film and put them together on one 300-foot reel. It will make a 25-minute showpiece which Herb wil show when he wants to establish his reputation as a top-notch movie maker.

Work Begins When Missile Hits Heights

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A missile thunders from its pad, spurting a volcano of boiling flame. It climbs steadily until it is a pinpoint in the sky, then loses itself among the stars.

The launch crew can relax. Its work is done. But for others concerned with what the missile left behind, work is just beginning.

A technician checks meters that recorded the intensity of the rocket's shriek as it broke its bonds with gravity. Another collects samples of potentially deadly launch fumes which drift over the cape. A third carefully watches the reactions of the blockhouse crew for signs they may have been pushed too close to the breaking point by the tension preceding the firing.

The scientists are part of a nine-man team comprising the Occupational Health Research Laboratory, a year-old institution at the Air Force missile test center.

The laboratory's job is to detect and prevent occupational hazards in missile operations. The only one of its kind in the United States, its findings are making life safer for missilemen in many parts of the world.

Included on the team are physicians, a chemist, physicist, dentist, psychologist and industrial hygiene experts. All are Air Force officers, college - trained in their specialty.

"We spread our small group thin over several divisions," explains Col. George M. Knauf, laboratory director. "Each has a specific field to study in order to identify possibly dangerous areas in occupational missile environments."

Chemical components of fuels and combustion by - products are studied to determine their effect on the human body. Noise, blast and radiation are measured. Psychological studies are preformed to determine which men are best suited for certain assignments and periodic physical and dental checks are made to detect possible missile-caused ailments.

In addition to protecting the workers from the missiles, the laboratory also is protecting the missiles from the workers through its human engineering division.

Maj. Joseph J. Rosa explains: "It is my opinion that up to 40 per cent of all missile holds, postponements and failures are caused by human error. Somebody is fatigued, misreads a dial or pushes the wrong button.

"Our studies show this often is the result of a machine or console that is not preperly designed for the job. In many cases, we find a man has too many duties to perform to be thoroughly efficient.

"We examine the problem and come up with recommendations for reducing a man's duties or redesigning his equipment. Sometimes, the latter can be solved merely by moving a certain button, switch or dial a few inches to the left or right to make it more accessible. Other times, we've completely changed the configuration of a console or working table. We want to have the perfect mating of man and machine."

Col. Knauf says the Department of Defense established the Occupational Health Research Laboratory last year to help health and safety factors keep pace with the rapidly moving missile age.

"U.S. missile bases were being set up in many parts of the free world," Knauf says. "Exotic fuels were being developed which posed certain handling problems. New and larger rockets were being brought to the launching pad.

"We're still new at this business of missile medicine. But we're gradually getting the men and equipment to do a proper job."

REMEDY FOR COLD HOUSE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)— If your house feels cold, check the furniture arrangements. A chair or sofa may be blocking a heating outlet, say heating experts. Lamps, television sets, and other heat - producing devices also can disrupt the heating system if placed too close to the thermostat.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Winter Blooms Highly Valued

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A handful of flowers from the garden in January is as exciting as a basketful in June! What gardener is not thrilled by two or three winter irises, a lemon yellow hoop petticoat daffodil or two, bits of sweet breath of spring and some twigs of flowering quince in the middle of winter? All of these are now fairly commonplace in the real gardener's plot.

CROCUSES

Those who go in for more winter flowers have sought out the true winter crocuses, the white hoop petticoats that bloom even in December, the tiny Persian iris. In certain catalogues, they have found meratias and corylopsises, winter flowering shrubs. Even the advertisements have begun to carry an astonishing winter flowering shrub called abeliophyllum. It does bloom right in the winter and looks much like an almost white form of forsythia. The general shape and character of abeliophyllum is so much like that of forsythia that the two shrubs can be worked into a group together to good effect. After the astounding January crop of flowers on the abeliophyllum, the yellow bells of the forsythia will take over a few weeks later and carry the flowering season on into spring.

Flowering quinces take easily to training on a form in a sort of false espalier. The growth of quinces is restrained enough to keep the twigs tied up to the frame before they run wild after the fashion of pyracanthas on a frame. Since quince will flower on old wood for years before it is necessary to start from new wood, the original branches will last about as long as the frame.

Bending the twigs of members of the apple or rose family, to which quince belongs, seems to increase the tendency of these plants to bloom more or less continuously.

OLD ROSES

Mr. Graham Thomas, the English authority on old roses, has a partly trained double flowering quince on one of the walls of his house. This specimen has intrigued me on summer visits to England. It was almost never without a fair showing of blossoms. Quinces are one of the best shrubs we have here in the South, and we do not use them in nearly as many ways as we might. Some of the newer varieties are low and spreading like Pfitzer junipers. Some are tall and upright and never fat at all. We do not have to keep on growing the old ones alone. The big kinds are glorious in their place, but these more restrained ones do not have to be chopped to bits every year or so to keep them out of walks and away from houses.

THE HOME SHIFT

Roses Demand Extra Care

By MILDRED SWIFT

If you're not prepared to do a lot of spraying, don't plant roses. Rose growing is more difficult than the growing of many other kinds of plants. However, with all of this, roses are still the favorite flower the world over.

If you are not prepared to give your plans a regular treatment with a fungicide about once a week — at most, every 10 days —select another kind of plant. Last Sunday we talked about varieties. Don't forget to call FA 3-2251 for a copy of our rose bulletin.

GARDENING

While you're getting beds ready for spring planting, don't forget to prepare a place for your chrysanthemums. These will not be planted until March or April, but select a well drained spot with almost full, all day sunshine. Complete fertilizer (8-8-8) can be worked in the bed, now. The soil should be nice and loamy.

Scientists have found a poinsettia that does not have the milky juice that seeps out from the stem when a leaf is bruised or falls off. They'll be used in the future for breeding work.

Let me remind you again to fertilize your bulbs with 8-8-8 as they come up. Many of these are up — some old fashioned ones are blooming.

Fertilize camellias and azaleas as they cease blooming. Fertilize all other shrubs and trees in the garden this month and next.

Don't forget there are two varieties of the cherry that do well here. They are yeashino (pale pink that really looks more white than pink) and kivansan, a double pink that is deeper in color. We have a yeashino in our garden and we do enjoy the blossoms. It blooms late so is seldom damaged by the cold. The neighbors enjoy this plant too, because it is really "showy" when in bloom, a complete, compact mass of blooms. No leaves put out until the blossoms begin to fade.

So far, we've found no insect or disease worries with the cherry. The blossoms are gorgeous in arrangements.

BUYING LINENS

Read the label before buying sheets, so you'll know what you're getting. The size on the label is the torn length of the sheet before hemming and shrinking. A sheet torn 108 inches long after hemming and laundering will measure 98 to 100 inches.

You'll notice your label states the thread count of the sheet. This is given as number of threads per square inch. For muslin this is usually 140. For percales, 180 to 200. When laundry is paid for by weight, heavier sheets will increase the cost of the weekly wash. Some women say they prefer the lighter weight sheets as they are not so heavy to hang on the line. Those owning dryers don't have this worry. More families buy the 132 and 128 count. Sheets will last from 5 to 6 years, if you alternate.

Examine the selvage on the sheet, too. Many are wider and heavier, having extra threads woven in for longer wear. Some brands have double selvage.

Sheets are made of cotton percale, cotton muslin and nylon. Nylon are the most expensive. Examine the hem on all sheets. The stitches should be small and even; threads fastened securely and ends closed. Fitted sheets go on the bed easier and smoother.

FASHIONS

Spring will see a return of the jacket costume composed of solid color dress with print top, covered by a plain jacket or long loose coat. The jacket is often lined with the print.

Some collection of sportswear also include quite a few versions of the 2 piece suite, ranging from modest to draped bikini. Sweater tops repeat exactly the dominant color of plaid tweeds in suit, skirts and slacks. Silk blouses match a wool suit exactly.

Chiffon is a style setter. It's feminine and flattering. The newest chiffons come pale, printed or polka dotted. The black and white combinations are outstanding. One favorite at a big showing had sleeveless black jersey bodice with big dotted chiffon skirt, black dots on a white background.

STAMP NEWS

To honor the heroes of the Australian Antarctic Territory, the postal department of Australia has issued four new stamps with appropriate illustrations.

The 5 - pence brown depicts Edgeworth David, Douglas Mawson and A. F. McKay, who claim to be the first men to reach the South Magnetic Pole. The 8-pence blue shows a weasel and an exploration team plus a map of the Antarctic Continent. The 1-shilling blue green illustrates a sled and dog team with an iceberg in the background. The 2 shilling 3 pence green pictures emperor penguins and a map of the Antarctic Continent.

The U. S. 4-cent commemorative stamp to mark the opening of the Eighth Olympic Winter Games in February will feature the Olympic emblem of five entwined links and a stylized snowflake. It will be placed on first day sale Feb. 18.

Across the top of the stamp is the wording "VIII Olympic Winter Games." The interlocked five Olympic circles are in the upper portion and the snowflake in the lower right. To the left, reading upward, will be "California 1960."

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of this stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Tahoe City, Calif. The first day covers will be postmarked "Olympic Valley, California."

The outside envelope to the Postmaster at Tahoe City should be clearly endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Olympic Winter Games Stamp."

Scott Publications, publishers of stamp albums and catalogs since 1869, has been purchased by Esquire, Inc., magazine house.

Says Gordon R. Harmer, editor - in - chief of Scott: "We will continue to operate in the same manner but the new association will mean more promotion and advertising on our behalf."

The unexpected change was welcomed by Minkus Publications, which has been the chief competitor of Scott and has been fast gaining in popularity with its vast line of philatelic publications.

Says Jacques Minkus, president of Minkus Publications: "We welcome the change because we believe competition is good for the industry. The entire hobby can only benefit by the move."

WHITE HOUSE TRAIL

Congress Getting Shriller Sooner

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an election year, members of Congress get shriller sooner.

That's the considered judgment of Rep. Frank M. Coffin (D-Maine), and it gets support from the pretty sharp digs that presidential candidates and other politicians have begun to take at one another.

Last week's big political News, of course, was the decision by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts to go into Wisconsin this spring and battle Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of next-door Minnesota for Wisconsin's 31 national convention votes.

In making his announcement Kennedy slipped in a jab at other rivals, not including Humphrey, who he said are staying out of primaries and slyly pinning their nomination hopes on manipulating the convention.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) bared an exasperation with people who say he can't win because he's Southerner. Or he may have been thinking, too, of Kennedy's Roman Catholicism.

"Personally, I believe that most Americans have become tired of this constant cross-questioning of men as to their religion, their ancestry and where they were born," Johnson said.

Johnson also got in a punch at the Republican opposition, symbolized in part by the one-man race Vice President Richard M. Nixon is putting on for the GOP presidential nomination.

Johnson said the voters will have to choose "a man from the one-child family of the Republican party which practices political birth control or from the many strong young sons of the more vigorous Democratic family."

This raised high the eyebrows of GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton who commented that those four nominations won by Franklin D. Roosevelt weren't exactly the result of wide-open Democratic conventions.

Former President Harry S. Truman, came to town last week and threw a shaft at President Eisenhower.

"I like Ike," Truman said, "but I don't think he has made a good President."

Politically, Sen. Humphrey could be badly hurt in the Wisconsin presidential primary April 5. Sen. Kennedy could also be hurt, but to a less degree, or he could profit hugely.

Humphrey may get out of the the picture. It wanted to know if presidential race if he wins fewer than half of Wisconsin's 31 convention votes. But Kennedy perhaps could trail Humphrey in Wisconsin without losing his status as a powerful contender.

As Kennedy pointed out, the winner in Wisconsin "will have an extremely strong position at the convention." He added that he already feels strong in Ohio and New England, including his native Massachusetts.

Assuming Kennedy can get all of New England's convention votes and Ohio's 54. He'd have 178 to start with. And, perhaps significantly, there was talk last week of growing Kennedy strength in the 114-vote New York delegation.

It'll take 761 votes to be nominated.

Kennedy named Sen. Johnson as his principal adversary, the man with the most votes now. Johnson has his Texas presumably solid, plus considerable Southern strength and scattered support in other sections.

Atomic-Age Collector Is Free Of Trash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Boswell, the atomic-age trash collector, is finally getting a load of radioactive waste material off his hands. And a load off his mind too.

Boswell, operator of a disposal firm in nearby Long Beach, is authorized by the Atomic Energy Commission to receive radioactive waste from plants around the country and dump it in the ocean. But when word of what he was up to reached City Hall, he was in trouble.

The Long Beach City Council refused to give him a business license. It told him his operation constituted a possible menace and invited him to work out his "hot cargo" contract elsewhere. Boswell protested that experts in the field have given assurance that he is running a safe business. But it was no use.

Later Boswell said he was told he could take his sizeable accumulation of radioactive trash to Los Angeles harbor, load it on a barge there and haul it out to sea. But, when he started to load, the port warden said he hadn't heard anything about it and ordered the operation halted.

Then the Coast Guard entered the picture. It wanted to know if the barge was seaworthy.

It looked as though Boswell, in a world of radioactivity, was doomed to inactivity.

Controls For Liquor In Crossett Told

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — "Selling and possession of illegal intoxicating liquors within the city of Crossett has not been completely obliterated, but it is definitely at a minimum," Police Judge Randolph Perritt said this week in his annual Police Court Report to the City Council.

"Enforcement has been efficient and effective; however, this Court sincerely believes the staunch attitude taken by the Hon. G. B. Colvin, our Circuit Judge, on appeals from the City Court to the Circuit Court has been the decisive factor in reducing this problem within our city," Mr. Perritt said. Only two persons convicted were actually engaged in illegal liquor traffic.

26 CONVICTIONS

Drunken driving accounted for 26 convictions for first offenders, six more than in 1958. This, and other traffic violations are up from 1958.

"The fines for moving traffic violations have been increased within the past few months and more severe sentences will be meted out as the Court deems it necessary."

Fines assessed during the year totaled $8,284; fines collected, $8,-957.73. Others were appealed to the Circuit Court, worked out on the streets or were given time to be paid. Fines collected in 1958 amounted to $1,451.

The greatest difference in arrests on any one charge for the two years was in gambling. There were 31 arrests in '58, and nine in 1959.

Speeding led the list of arrests for both years, with 78 arrests in '58 and 62 in '59. Public drunkenness was next, with 61 and 50, down 11.

Senate Set To Call AF On Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee will summon top Air Force officials this week to give a nose count of long range missiles in the American arsenal —and to estimate how many such rockets the Soviet Union has ready.

The appearance of Air Secretary Dudley C. Sharp; Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and other officials before the Senate Armed Services Committee will follow last week's testimony by Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates Jr. that the United States was not as bad off as intelligence specialists had figured.

The continued probe into U.S. readiness in missiles and other military fields follows Russia's dramatic demonstration last Wednesday of her missile capability.

The Russians fired a massive rocket about 7,760 miles, into a rectangular area of the Pacific southwest of Hawaii. The cone hit within a mile and a quarter of where it was aimed, Moscow said.

Gates agreed in talking with newsmen here that it was a very good shot, but added quickly that U.S. Atlas missiles were very good, too.

But what about the 7,760-mile range of the Soviet rocket compared with the 6,300 miles at which the Air Force has been shooting its own Atlas? Did Schriever mean to indicate that the Atlas could go a good way beyond the 6,300-mile range?

"That is true," the general replied.

Search Party Finds Youth Dead In Tree

EAST PATERSON, N. J. (AP) —A search party found the body of 12-year-old Dennis Weinpel Saturday, dangling from a tree limb. He had been hanged by the neck.

Dennis, a Boy Scout, was last seen late Friday afternoon when he left his friend and pedaled his bicyle into a wooden area. There he hoped to slide on patches of ice. Earlier, Dennis and his friend had been chased by two unidentified teen-age boys. Police are seeking them.

When the body was found, one trouser leg was rolled up and a woman's nylon stocking was on the leg, extended to the thigh. A shoe and sock were on the ground.

Searchers took down the body and trudged from the woods, many of them with tears in their eyes.

"It was a horrible sight," said volunteer Bill Prezosi. "It just broke my heart."

HYDROGEN PROCESS

Oil Industry May Come To Rescue

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The oil industry may be able to come to the rescue of countless hungry millions under a new hydrogen process announced by an American petroleum firm.

Many nations do not number hydrogen among their natural resources. The countries that can are fortunate. From hydrogen, many products can be made, including ammonia, chemicals, rocketfuels, explosives and especially nitrogen fertilizers.

Plastics, synthetic gasoline and manufactured gases also can be taken from hydrogen. But hydrogen rarely is found in a free state on earth. Until recently, it has been reasonably abundant only in those countries lucky enough to have large supplies of one of three raw materials: coal, water or natural gas.

Now, however, an American firm, Texaco, Inc., has developed what it calls the Texaco synthesis gas generation process under which it claims almost any nation in the free world can inexpensively produce all the hydrogen it needs.

The new process, briefly, allows the use of any hydrocarbon as the starting point for the production of synthesis gas rich in hydrogen, propane, butane, crude oil, fuel oil, natural gas, light distillates—any of these can be used.

One of these is almost bound to be available almost anywhere — and if none is crude oil or fuel oil can economically be imported.

The Texaco development corporation says it has licensed 37 companies in 15 nations to use the process.

Texaco points out that the new method makes it possible to take the least expensive, or most plentiful, hydrocarbon and turn it into very valuable and until now very scarce hydrogen. This means any company or refinery can obtain a license to operate the process and enter the chemical industry or the nitrogen fertilizer business—creating a new market for oil.

The process already is in operation in North and South America, Europe, Asia and on a number of islands in between the continents.

Crop surpluses like those of the U.S. are rare. Much of the world goes hungry. Nitrogen fertilizers have been an invaluable aid to the farmer and last year they became the principal fertilizers, based on tonnage, in all the world's agriculture.

Hydrogen is the key to the manufacture of nitrogen fertilizers. The hydrogen is combined with nitrogen (taken out of the air) to make ammonia. Then the ammonia goes into a number of kinds of nitrogen fertilizers.

WEST AFRICA'S INFANT

Kamerun Faces 'Uneasy Future'

DOUALA, Kamerun, (UPI) — West Africa's infant Republic of Kamerun, born Jan. 1, is settling down to an uneasy future. Her prime minister lives in daily dread of assassination and Frenchmen in the luxurious Akwa Palace hotel wine and dine behind bomb-proof shutters.

Independence came hard for Kamerun. As the representatives of 60 nations flew into Douala and the capital Yaounde for the independence "celebrations," rebels raided the two towns and murdered at least 39 people.

Cutlass-swinging fanatics of the illegal union of Kamerun populations (UPC) Party, the rebels remain the toughest nut that Prime Minister Ahmadou Ahidjo has to crack.

For almost 10 years, the French, who administered this onetime United Nations trustee territory, have fought the UPC, which has ravaged and burned vast areas and many villages throughout the country.

Today, it is up to Ahidjo to continue this internal warfare or end it.

His problem is acute. He found government with only 29 seats in a Parliament of 70 so hazardous and uncertain that he elected to rule by decree and with the support of French troops.

The French soldiers are staying behind to maintain order until Kamerun has an army of its own.

This fact possibly more than any other has made Ahidjo's future as uncertain as that of the country itself, for independence bolstered by French arms is not the Kamerunese idea of independence.

Like practically all West African countries, Kamerun is psychologically divided into a Muslim hinterland with a non-muslim coastal belt.

Moreover, although its population is only 3,500,000 the country has 84 registered political parties.

Yet strongest of all is the unregistered, outlawed UPC which has reduced Douala and the country's richest region — seaboard Sanaga Province — to a state of terror.

Racilly, the country is as divided as was the British East African colony of Kenya during the Mau Mau terror regime. Most victims of UPC killings are Africans yet almost all safety precautions have been directed toward the protection of the Europeans.

Ahidio has promised a referendum on the new constitution, which is generally expected to take place about the end of February.

Amonth or so after that, the elections may be held, and these could see the end of Ahidjo's rule.

Ahidjo's party is itself none too stable. He formed it after the last elections out of groups of members of a dozen different parties, mostly muslim.

Political observers believe that Ahidjo's party will not survive the elections, but will burst like a bubble during the election campaign and disappear from the political scene, and Ahidjo with it.

Dog Outfitted With Aid To Help It Hear

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Spotty and fox terrier, is proving that an old dog can learn something new.

In Spotty's case, it's learning to live with a hearing aid.

The dog's master, 20-year-old Anthony Reiger, thought Spotty was missing out on a lot and a veterinarian checked the animal. He found Spotty's hearing was less than 50 per cent of normal.

A hearing aid firm fitted Spotty with plastic ear mold and this week sent along a transistor pack which was attached to the dog's collar.

Spotty appeared puzzled at first and tried to paw the mold out of his ear. Now it's part of him and Spotty is answering the first call at meal time.

Congress Getting Shriller Sooner

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an election year, members of Congress get shriller sooner.

That's the considered judgment of Rep. Frank M. Coffin (D-Maine), and it gets support from the pretty sharp digs that presidential candidates and other politicians have begun to take at one another.

Last week's big political News, of course, was the decision by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts to go into Wisconsin this spring and battle Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of next-door Minnesota for Wisconsin's 31 national convention votes.

In making his announcement, Kennedy slipped in a jab at other rivals, not including Humphrey, who he said are staying out of primaries and slyly pinning their nomination hopes on manipulating the convention.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) bared an exasperation with people who say he can't win because he's Southerner. Or he may have been thinking, too, of Kennedy's Roman Catholicism.

"Personally, I believe that most Americans have become tired of this constant cross-questioning of men as to their religion, their ancestry and where they were born," Johnson said.

Johnson also got in a punch at the Republican opposition, symbolized in 1960 by the one-man race Vice President Richard M. Nixon is putting on for the GOP presidential nomination.

Johnson said the voters will have to choose "a man from the one-child family of the Republican party which practices political birth control, or from the many strong young sons of the more vigorous Democratic family."

This raised high the eyebrows of GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton who commented that those four nominations won by Franklin D. Roosevelt weren't exactly the result of wide-open Democratic conventions.

Former President Harry S. Truman, came to town last week and threw a shaft at President Eisenhower.

"I like Ike," Truman said, "but I don't think he has made a good President."

Politically, Sen. Humphrey could be badly hurt in the Wisconsin presidential primary April 5. Sen. Kennedy could also be hurt, but to a less degree, or he could profit hugely.

Humprehy may get out of the presidential race if he wins fewer than half of Wisconsin's 31 convention votes. But Kennedy perhaps could trail Humphrey in Wisconsin without losing his status as a powerful contender.

As Kennedy pointed out, the winner in Wisconsin "will have an extremely strong position at the convention." He added that he already feels strong in Ohio and New England, including his native Massachusetts.

Assuming Kennedy can get all of New England's convention votes and Ohio's 54, He'd have 178 to start with. And, perhaps significantly, there was talk last week of growing Kennedy strength in the 114-vote New York delegation.

It'll take 761 votes to be nominated.

Kennedy named Sen. Johnson as his principal adversary, the man with the most votes now. Johnson has his Texas presumably solid, plus considerable Southern strength and scattered support in other sections.

Atomic-Age Collector Is Free Of Trash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Boswell, the atomic-age trash collector, is finally getting a load of radioactive waste material off his hands. And a load off his mind too.

Boswell, operator of a disposal firm in nearby Long Beach, is authorized by the Atomic Energy Commission to receive radioactive waste from plants around the country and dump it in the ocean. But when word of what he was up to reached City Hall, he was in trouble.

The Long Beach City Council refused to give him a business license. It told him his operation constituted a possible menace and invited him to work out his "hot cargo" contract elsewhere. Boswell protested that experts in the field have given assurance that he is running a safe business. But it was no use.

Later Boswell said he was told he could take his sizeable accumulation of radioactive trash to Los Angeles harbor, load it on a barge there and haul it out to sea. But, when he started to load, the port warden said he hadn't heard anything about it and ordered the operation halted.

Then the Coast Guard entered the picture. It wanted to know if the barge was seaworthy.

It looked as though Boswell, in a world of radioactivity, was doomed to inactivity.

Controls For Liquor In Crossett Told

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — "Selling and possession of illegal intoxicating liquors within the city of Crossett has not been completely obliterated, but it is definitely at a minimum," Police Judge Randolph Perritt said this week in his annual Police Court Report to the City Council.

"Enforcement has been efficient and effective; however, this Court sincerely believes the staunch attitude taken by the Hon. G. B. Colvin, our Circuit Judge, on appeals from the City Court to the Circuit Court has been the decisive factor in reducing this problem within our city," Mr. Peritt said. Only two persons convicted were actually engaged in illegal liquor traffic.

26 CONVICTIONS

Drunken driving accounted for 26 convictions for first offenders, six more than in 1958. This, and other traffic violations are up from 1958.

"The fines for moving traffic violations have been increased within the past few months and more severe sentences will be meted out as the Court deems it necessary."

Fines assessed during the year totaled $8,284; fines collected, $6,957.73. Others were appealed to the Circuit Court, worked out on the streets or were given time to be paid. Fines collected in 1958 amounted to $1,451.

The greatest difference in arrests on any one charge for the two years was in gambling. There were 31 arrests in '58, and nine in 1959.

Speeding led the list of arrests for both years, with 78 arrests in '58 and 62 in '59. Public drunkenness was next, with 61 and 50, down 11.

Senate Set To Call AF On Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee will summon top Air Force officials this week to give a nose count of long range missiles in the American arsenal —and to estimate how many such rockets the Soviet Union has ready.

The appearance of Air Secretary Dudley C. Sharp; Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and other officials before the Senate Armed Services Committee will follow last week's testimony by Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates Jr. that the United States was not as bad off as intelligence speci.'ts had figured.

The continued probe into U.S. readiness in missiles and other military fields follows Russia's dramatic demonstration last Wednesday of her missile capability.

The Russians fired a massive rocket about 7,760 miles, into a rectangular area of the Pacific southwest of Hawaii. The cone hit within a mile and a quarter of where it was aimed, Moscow said.

Gates agreed in talking with newsmen here that it was a very good shot, but added quickly that U.S. Atlas missiles were very good, too.

But what about the 7,760-mile range of the Soviet rocket compared with the 6,300 miles at which the Air Force has been shooting its own Atlas? Did Schriever mean to indicate that the Atlas could go a good way beyond the 6,300-mile range?

"That is true," the general replied.

Fuels Dispute Is Sharpening

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The oil industry's dispute with coal over a proposed national fuels policy sharpened this week.

Sun Oil Co., Philadelphia, kept it boiling. It charged that coal, using Congress as a handmaiden, was trying to "persuade the federal government to snuff out certain uses of oil and natural gas ... so that coal might have the business instead."

In reply, President Joseph E. Moody of the National Coal Policy Conference, fired back that Sun and other big names in oil were deliberately misrepresenting coal objectives in favoring a fuels policy study and also ignoring recommendations of President Eisenhower's cabinet fuels resources committee.

Moody also made available to United Press International the text of a letter he wrote to President William K. Whiteford of Gulf Oil Corp., Pittsburgh. In it Moody challenged the veracity of a Gulf advertisement in the Dec. 16 1959, Wall Street Journal implying, as Moody put it, "that coal was seeking some special advantage to the detriment of other fuels."

Moody's organization is a coalition of coal operators, United Mine Workers, coal - carrying railroads, coal-consuming utilities and equipment manufacturers. It rather than the National Coal Association as previously reported is spearheading a drive for a congressional study of the nation's fuels resources with a view of establishing national policy. The recently-reorganized NCA favors the study but says it otherwise is not a party to the dispute.

Oil industry leaders, in a counter-drive, are charging that coal, because it is being displaced in some areas by fuel oil and natural gas, is trying to use Congress to further curb fuel oil imports and prevent gas from serving big industrial plants now served by coal. It argues that this would deprive the consumer of "freedom of choice."

Moody, in his answer to Sun, denied this but he did object vigorously "to two particular marketing practices of the oil natural-gas industries." He said they were "(1) the dumping of Venezuelan residual fuel oil on the east coast at whatever price is necessary to oust coal from the industrial and electrical utility market and (2) the dumping of natural gas under industrial and electric-utility boilers at a price less than cost—a price only one-fourth to one-third of that paid by the household consumer for the same gas."

He had charged previously that householders were being forced to pay the freight for "dump" gas sold industrially in allegedly unfair competition with coal.

"It would appear," said Moody, "that neither of the practices to which coal objects are involved in consumer preference ... we believe that all of these fuels have their proper place in the market. We believe that, as far as possible, the consumer should have a free choice ... and there should be free and fair competition among all suppliers."

Market Falls Sharply For Third Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell sharply this week for the third straight week.

Turnover declined to 14,219,090 shares from 17,630,696 last week and was the lowest for a five-day trading week since the week ended Oct. 24 when 13,886,896 shares changed hands.

The drop in trading indicated to some Wall Street observers that the price decline was more a question of bids drying up than an increase in selling pressure.

The Wall Street mood was described as one of nervousness and uncertainty. Tight money remained a matter of grave concern despite continued reports of a booming economy.

This was underlined by the rise in the British bank rate to 5 per cent from 4 per cent. The decline in stock prices, some Wall Streeters observed, may have lessened the pressure for a rise in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board, possibly until after the U.S. Treasury has completed its mid-February financing.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 13.66 to 645.85. The decline carried the index through a "support" level which technicians said was supposed to exist between 640 and 650.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $3.20 to $223.40, a bit less than last week's loss of $3.60.

Of the 1,426 issues traded, 859 fell and 421 rose. New highs for 1959-60 totaled 29 and new lows 55.

The five most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Fairbanks Whitney, up 1¼ at 11¾ on 272,000 shares; Brunswick-Balke, up 1⅞ at 54⅝; General Motors, off ¼ at 50⅝; Standard Oil (New Jersey), off ⅛ at 47⅞; and Ford, off 4⅜ at 84⅛.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds advanced this week.

Volume declined to $27,316,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $27,722,000 the previous week and $34,717,000 a year ago.

Market experts felt the rise was more a technical adjustment from recent record lows than a reflection of bullish sentiment. They pointed to continuing economic storm signals for fixed-income securities.

BUILDING PERMITS

New 'Y' Building Tops Plans List

A building permit for the new $253,000 YMCA building was issued last week, according to Building Inspector William C. Hines Jr.

The modern building, in the planning stage for more than a year, will be located at 1809 Glenmar, at the corner of Eighteenth Street.

Twelve rooms and two baths are listed in the current building plans. The spacious structure will have 24,128 square feet of floor area.

Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. today.

Local businesses were prominent in the list of applicants for building and remodeling permits during the past week.

WORK STARTED

The Woma's Shop, a store at 436 DeSiard Street, the Cook and Preddy building, Spatafora's fish market and McCormick Egg and Poultry Market each received permits, and work was started on a $177,000 extension to the Palms motel.

Monday, Jan. 18, the Woman's Shop at 125 DeSiard St. was issued a permit to remodel the front of the four-room store at a cost of $1200.

Other permits issued on that date went to the YMCA, to Lilly Joseph for remodeling one room of a brick store at 436 DeSiard Street at a cost of $2450, and to Walter Franks, to construct a brick veneer residence, five rooms and two baths, at 2123 Oliver Road. The 1300 square foot house will cost $16,000.

Tuesday, Jan. 19, one permit went to Charels E. Dysart, to add a carport to a frame house at 702 Avoylies, $900.

Wednesday, Jan. 20:

Cook and Preddy, to add a balcony to a one-room brick store at 426 DeSiard St., $200.

R. W. Walton, add den to brick veneer residence, 201 Loop Road, 620 square feet, $2500.

Dr. Neal Buie, add carport and storage to frame residence, Loop Road, $6,000.

OTHERS

Thursday, Jan. 21:

Ralph Mays, add carport and storage to residence, 1101 S. Seventh St., 132 square feet, $500.

Hattie Nicks, move frame residence to Carleton Street of McGee outside city limits, 26 by 40 by 16 feet high, $500.

L. A. West, construct frame residence, four rooms, at 610 Hilton, 1462 square feet, $10,000.

J. T. Hinke, construct brick and block tourist motel, extension number two, eight baths, nine rooms, 3203 Louisville Ave., 1398 square feet, $17,000.

Mary Spatatora, add one room to frame fish market, 209 Renwick 140 square feet, $295.

Mary E. Clark, add one room to frame residence, 702 South 17 St., 35 square efet, $75.

Friday, Jan. 22:

McCormick Poultry and Egg Market, add one room to concrete building for egg storage, 116 South 24th St., 1200 square feet, $5,000.

Grain Market Ends Where It Started

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market worked in a very small circle this week and ended about where it started as trade continued at its lowest volume in several months.

Except soybeans which averaged about 30 billion bushels a day, the daily total for all other grains probably did not exceed 12 million. Market influences were feeble or nil.

The Department of Agriculture report on the amount of grains held in the government price support loan program on Dec. 31 failed to have much effect although it was described generally as bearish in first examinations.

As a result, prices ended the week in mostly mixed range and only about a cent at the most away from the close a week ago. Rye and soybeans were up and down around a cent on most days, largely because of short covering and liquidation toward evening up commitments.

That appeared to be especially true in the soybean pit where trading in the January contract ended on Wednesday and where speculators, in particular, appeared to be curtailing operations.

The over-all open interest in that commodity continued to shrink sharply and at the end of the week was down to about 160 million bushels, compared with almost 200 million only six weeks or so ago.

A few dealers expressed disappointment that the movement of wheat, corn and soybeans into the government loan had fallen so far below general expectations.

Ike Dampens Hopes For Gas Industry

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Eisenhower has dampened the hopes of the natural gas producer for 1960 congressional relief from utility-type controls.

The budget message placed before Congress on Monday did not include a recommendation that the natural gas act be clarified. The disappointment among producers was sharp in that the 1958 message had included such a suggestion.

Congressional leaders for nearly two years have said they cannot push the controversial legislation unless the administration presents a strong plea for bi-partisan passage.

Texas independent producers had counted on another budget message recommendation but did not abandon hope for 1960 when the hope failed to materialize.

"The producers will not be discouraged," said Harry C. Jones, president of the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPRO).

Both Jones and Alvin C. Hope of San Antonio, president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, expressed hope a special message to Congress may be forthcoming from the White House.

TIPRO members frankly admit President Eisenhower figures prominently in their strategy for remedial legislation despite his veto of a similar bill in 1955.

At a Houston strategy meeting last week, the independents expressed fear the new president who is to take office next year may be strongly opposed to the gas bill. They suggested such a development, without congressional action this year, could force postponement of relief as long as eight years.

Business Briefs

The Satellite system of dictating, a compact center the size of a microphone, which for the first time eliminates the need for having a dictating machine on the businessman's desk was revealed here yesterday by the Monroe Office Equipment Company.

The satellite, incorporating a single pushbutton to handle all dictating activities, is the hub of Soundscriber's new Communicator line.

Charles R. Spencer, a 1944 Ouachita Parish High School graduate and former Spencer resident, has been promoted to the position of field sales manager of the Industrial division of Gates Industrial Sales.

In his new position, Spencer will be responsible for over-all effectiveness of the field organization. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Spencer of Spencer.

Record sales and earnings were reported yesterday by Zale's Jewelry Co., Inc., for the nine months ending Dec. 31, 1959. Ben A. Lipshy, president of the nation's largest retail jewelry firm, also announced the acquisition of 10 stores since Jan. 1.

COLUMBIA (Special) —Richard D. Jones has been named Caldwell Block Forester for Olin Mathieson, according to an announcement by F. R. Foster, head forester for the corporation. He will succeed O. W. Schultz who resigned recently.

The Grapette Co., Inc., has announced the appointment of two new field representatives, effective Jan. 1. Sam Brown of Monroe was named as special franchise representative to call on the larger plants over the U. S. and the new Southern division field representative is S. H. Cochran, Columbus, Miss.

Mrs. Gladys Miles recently retired as secretary in the traffic department of the Missouri Pacific Railroad after 30 years service. She was presented an engraved plaque and a stereophonic record player with 13 record albums.

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — George S. Lensing was re-elected President of the Lake Providence Bank at the annual meeting of stockholders held on January 12th, 1960. Other officers who were re-elected include G. T. Hider, Vice-President and Secretary; Leo A. Lensing, Vice-President; Eloise M. Harbin, Cashier, P. G. Marron, Leonard R. Kennedy and Sybil M. Bayles, Assistant Cashiers.

The election of Directors resulted in the following being re-elected to serve another year: Louis Dalfiume, Vail M. Delony, George T. Hider, H. H. Howington, Jr. George S. Lensing, Leo A. Lensing, E. V. Parker, Dr. F. M. Terral.

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — C. R. Evans, President of the First National Bank of Lake Providence and past president of the Louisiana Bankers Association has been appointed to the Savings Bond Committee of the American Bankers Association for the Eleventh Federal Reserve District.

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Miss Mary Pearl has retired after 44 years as assistant cashier at the Lake Providence Bank.

Miss Pearl stated that her employment at the bank began in May, 1916, when her sister, Miss Julia Pearl, resigned to get married. Miss Julia Pearl's record of service with the same bank had covered eleven years, 1905-1916.

McComb Field Most Active In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —The McComb field continues to be the most active area in the state with nine new locations staked last week.

Twenty drilling rigs were running in the field and more were moving in to keep up with the development program.

Four wildcat operations were underway in Pike County.

Gammill and Ballew were below 9,900 in the Burt unit No. 1, Sec. 28-4n-7e. The Cane Corp. was drilling at 8,600 feet in the No. 1 Norman, sec. 9-3n-8e, and Rebstock and Reeves were rigging up on the Kramer No. 1., sec. 23-1n-7e. Sun Oil is below 8,200 feet in the Thornhill-Calto No. 1, sec. 26-4n-8e.

Production tests were underway at Miss-La-Tex, Franklin County wildcat, the USA No. 1, sec. 36-5n-1e, to determine commercial worth of a Wilcox sand. Operators are testing a zone at 4,824-26 feet.

In Monroe County, McLean and Hill were pumping a wildcat, the Brasfield-Boyd unit No. 1, sec. 31-13s-17w, at 55 barrels per day.

Jet Drilling Co. is below 6,800 feet in a Forrest County wildcat, the Carter No. 1, sec. 6-3n-12w. The venture is located near two deep abandoned wells. Contract depth is 12,300.

In Marion County, Stekoll Petroleum Co. is preparing to run production test at the Gex No. 1, sec. 25-2n-17w. The well was drilled to 14,455 feet, with production casing at 11,650 feet to evaluate commercial worth of oil shows.

Near the Virlillia Field in Madison County, Gamble and Jett were below 10,000 feet in a wildcat, the Taylor No. 1 sec. 1-9n-1e, a 10,300 foot try.

Five oilers were completed in proven fields, three in McComb Field.

At McComb, W. L. Pickens completed the Perrott No. 1, sec. 9-3n-7e. It flowed 430 barrels per day from perforations at 10,970-80 feet.

L. D. Elam completed the Cook-Brown-Hewett No. 1, sec. 4-3n-7e. It flowed 350 barrels per day from 10,950-68 feet.

Nelson Gibson finaled the Burt-Hughey No. 1, sec. 4-3n-7e. It flowed 104 barrels per day at 10,966-76.

In the new Merit field of Simpson County, Monsanto Chemical Co. completed the Robert No. 1, sec. 17-1n-4e. It flowed 403 barrels daily from 11,948-68 feet.

At Diamond in Wayne County, Southern States Oil Co. completed the Beard No. 1, sec. 7-9n-6w. It pumped 312 barrels per day at 9,676-86 feet.

DISTRICT OIL-GAS ROUNDUP

Conservation Office Here Reports Two Completions

The weekly field report of oil and gas wells drilled in the 14-parish Monroe district of the Louisiana Department of Conservation listed only two completions an eight new locations last week.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the district office, also reported three holes plugged and abandoned along with 25 active drilling rigs in the release.

The rigs active in the fields include 14 drilling, nine testing, and one well set.

These are the two completions:

CONCORDIA

Esperance Point Field—Hunter Jones' Greer-State Unit "Z" no. 1 in sec. 6-5-10E, completed to pump 70 barrels from perforations at 6328-35 ft., casing pressure 130 lbs., gravity 39.6.

LA SALLE

French Fork Field—F. R. Jackson's E. E. Chevalier no. 1 in sec. 3-6-4E, completed to flow 80 barrels through a 7-64 in. choke perforated at 4444-47 ft., estimated gas oil ratio 300:1, tubing pressure 780 lbs., casing pressure 730 lbs.

The following are the new locations:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat Field—LaGrange Petroleum Co. and John J. Reynolds' Max Good no. 1 in sec. 14-9-8E, located 450 ft. north and 600 ft. east of SW corner on NE¼ of SE¼ of sec.

Mean Lake Field—Walter W. Heard Jr.'s Hughes et al no. 1 in sec. 31-9-7E, location: from the one forth corner of sec. 31-9-7E & sec. 6-8-7E, go north 1635 ft. thence west for 330 ft. to location.

IN CONGRESS

Oil, Coal Groups Gird For Struggle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The oil and coal industries are glaring at each other in preparation for a major fight in Congress over a so-called national fuels policy.

Big punches will be thrown, with legislators from oil and coal states in the middle.

Coal, being displaced more and more by oil and natural gas, wants Congress to help it keep its markets by creating a national energy policy which oil claims would slap more curbs on fuel oil imports and restrict industrial sales of natural gas.

Oil says this would add up to using the power of the government to switch oil and gas consumers to coal and deprive consumers of a free choice.

Both industries are gearing strong lobbies to press their conflicting claims. Their target is a pending Senate resolution to set up a joint Senate-House committee to hold hearings and recommend an "end use" fuels policy. The announced objective, which oil openly questions, is to keep all fuels industries in a healthy, emergency-ready state.

Best guess now is that the measure will get lost in election-year politics. Both political parties want to get on with "must" legislation so they can quit in time for the presidential nominating conventions in July.

But the issues have been drawn and will still be around to haunt the 87th Congress in 1961 if nothing is done this year.

Seldom have rival industries exchanged such bitter recriminations or gone to such lengths to propagandize their positions.

The powerful National Coal Association has been reorganized to mastermind the coal campaign under direction of a paid president — Stephen F. Dunn — "in a determined effort to improve coal's position in the highly competitive fuels field."

Dunn is no stranger to Congress. He is former general counsel of the Department of Commerce and lately in charge of "government relations" for the National Association of Manufacturers.

In addition, the NCA is throwing its executive vice president, former Texas Congressman Tom Pickett, into the fight. Pickett has been detailed in charge of a bigger and stronger "government relations department. The job will be to line up members of Congress in behalf of coal.

The NCA also is absorbing the American Coal Sales Association, affiliating directly with Bituminous Coal Research, Inc., Pittsburgh, and also will work in close concert with the Coal Exporters Association and with the Fuels Research Council which represents the industry before the Federal Power Commission.

The commission has life - or-death power over natural gas. Coal frequently moves in to try and lock its expansion.

In a speech last fall, Pickett charged that commission policy forces household gas consumers to help pay the fuel bills of factories "which buy gas at abnormally low 'dump' prices." He said "This piratical practice of the gas pipelines, with FPC blessing, causes the public to subsidize the undermining of an important coal market."

New Products

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The kitchen is one of the most fertile fields for the designer of new products. Just about everything in it — from carving knife to refrigerator — is subject to constant scrutiny with an eye to improvement.

Take the carving knife: the latest wrinkle is a built-in slicing control, adjustable for slices from 1-16 to ½ inch thick, which will slice, carve, shred and chop meats, cheese, bread, fruits and vegetables. Swiss stainless steel blade has serrated edge, needs no sharpening. Magna Wonder Knife, Inc., New York.

A solution to the messy problem of spattering from frying foods is offered by Research Products Corp., Madison, Wis., with a new Filter-Fry cover designed especially for square electric fry pans. Made of heavy gauge Alcoa aluminum foil in a filter-type design, the cover prevents spattering grease but still allows foods to fry properly since the steam escapes freely.

In the area of major appliances, refrigerators come in for a big share of attention.

Westinghouse Electric will be on the market in April with 14 and 16-cubic-foot models of a new refrigerator-freezer featuring a glide-out center drawer, dividing refrigerator and freezer compartments. The drawer, which can be opened separately, has a 21-pound-capacity low-temperature meat - keeper and a half - bushel - capacity crisper for vegetables. The units feature separate temperature controls for the refrigerator and freezer sections.

Borg - Warner Company's Norge Division is featuring built - in ice cube servers in its 1960-model electric and gas refrigerator - freezers. The server, plumbed into the water supply, fills automatically, freezes the water, drops cubes into a storage bin and shuts off automatically when the bin is filled, assuring a steady supply of 160 or more cubes.

Luxury for the hostess comes with a new temperature control system for gas range ovens, developed by Robertshaw - Fulton Controls Co., Richmond, Va., which will hold food at warming temperatures without continued cooking and allow the lady of the house to join guests for pre - meal relaxation. With the new system, a roast, for instance, can be cooked to medium rare, the oven control reset and the meat held without going to well done or just plain overdone if guests linger over their cocktails.

Thermador Electrical Manufacturing Co., Los Angeles, offers a wall - type electric oven which has a built-in exhaust blower system to trap grease and erase odors.

Hotpoint, Chicago, makes a countertop stove, measuring only 32 inches wide, with surface units hinged to one side of the oven so they can drop down for use or flip up out of the way for more counter room.

Jet-O-Matic Corp., Detroit, manufactures an instant food warmer with which, it says, frozen foods can be heated so rapidly there is no time for the food to absorb moisture and become unpalatable. The 16½x12x10-inch unit features a steam chamber on top to solve condensation problems. Can be used to heat hot dogs, vegetables, pre - cooked foods and bakery goods. Plugs into wall outlet.

To carry frozen food purchases from market to home at a leisurely pace without danger of thawing, Nappe-Smith Manufacturing, Farmingdale, N. J., offers a fiberglas - insulated shopping bag 18 inches by 15 inches.

Mickey Getting Scornful Mail

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Mail from over the nation Saturday heaped scorn on Dr. George H. Mickey, held in jail in the horror slaying of an unmarried woman professor.

"Repent or burn in hell," blazed in red across one letter from Pennsylvania.

All the letters were addressed to Mickey, 49, Louisiana State University graduate school dean and noted scientist accused of killing Dr. Margaret McMillan, 38. The body of the biologist, who taught at LSU's New Orleans branch, was found Jan. 10 on a lonely road near Baton Rouge.

Officers said the stacks of what they called "crackpot mail" treated Dr. Mickey in a derogatory manner — none appeared to have any sympathy for him.

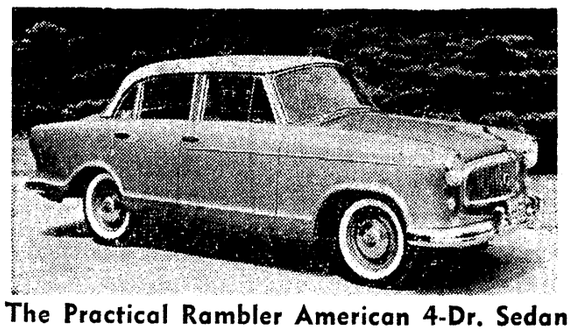
RAMBLER AMERICAN AS A Do-It-Yourself Car!!



The Practical Rambler American 4-Dr. Sedan

In a service sense, the new 1960 Rambler American is a "do-it-yourself" car.

Each American purchaser is provided with a manual which shows how to make general repairs and adjustments which do not require special tools or equipment.

American Motors decided to provide such a manual since the car is so easy to service and because a great many motorists enjoy making their own repairs.

Use of such a manual also results in substantial savings in operating costs, it was pointed out by officals of the company.

The manual outlines adjustment and repair procedures for items such as the carburetor, distributor, wheel bearings, brakes, ignition and spark plugs, as well as showing the owner how to lubricate his car.

The rare simplicity of the Rambler American mechanical construction minimizes service needs, it was explained and permits mechanically-minded owners to perform many service operations themselves, if they so desire.

NEW Gillette Super Blue Blade now with Gillette Adjustable Razor

Gillette Announces

A Remarkable New Razor Blade

GILLETTE announces the new Super Blue Blade that we believe to be the most important advance in shaving comfort within the past 20 years!

This new Super Blue Blade aroused so much enthusiasm in our tests that we sincerely expect it to be one of the most talked about improvements in shaving history.

When you try this new Gillette Super Blue Blade, you will discover shaving is so much faster and requires so

For the millions of shavers who find the long-famous Gillette Blue Blade to be completely adequate for their shaving needs, we urge their continued use of it.

The Gillette Super Blue Blade has a radically new kind of shaving edge that requires extra processing. Because production is slower, the distribution of the new Super Blue Blade will be somewhat limited in the immediate future.

The new Super Blue Blade is priced at 69¢ for a dispenser of 10. It is also available with the new Gillette Adjust-

WHEN you shave with the new Gillette Super Blue Blade you experience a degree of shaving luxury you may never have dreamed possible. Words can't tell you how remarkably the new Gillette Super Blue Blade performs. You have to try it to believe it. A dispenser of blades comes with every Gillette 195 Adjustable Razor.

ONLY $1.95

The new Super Blue Blade fits all Gillette Razors. Get them in dispenser of 10 for 69¢.
